BANK BANDITS ATTACK SHERIFF, ONE ESCAPES

Two Who Robbed Kinney (Ill.) Vault Dash From the Clinton Jail.

FUGITIVE DESERTS "PAL"

Sheriff Grapples With One of the Prisoners and Floors Him.

FIX LOCK ON CELL DOOR

Posse in Pursuit of Desperadoes Who Held Town at Bay.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLINTON, Ill., May 17.—When Sheriff C. Hoss entered the Clinton Jail at 10 o'clock last night to lock the prisoners in their cells, George Schroeder and James Powers, charged with dynamiting the vault of the People's Bank at Kenney, Ill., on Feb. 27 last, made a desperate effort to escape. The officer subdued Powers, but Schroeder left his companion to his fate, darted through the open Jail door and gained his liberty. A posse, headed by Deputy Sheriff H. A. Campbell is in pursuit, but has found no trace of the fugitive.

Schroeder and Powers previously had fixed the lock of their cell so it would not be controlled by the lever which locks all the cells simultaneously. The Sheriff had thrown this lever and had turned to depart when the safeblowers made their rush. The officer had no time to draw a weapon. He grappled with Powers as the two men ran toward the Jail door, and floored him. Schroeder made no effort to assist Powers, but continued his flight, through the Sheriff's living apartments to the street.

The fugitive and the prisoner were to have been tried next week on the bank-robbing charge. At their preliminary hearing they pleaded not guilty. Although little is known of the previous record of either man, they were apparently well supplied with funds. Attorneys had been employed for them by outside persons, whose names are not known to the authorities.

Robbers Defied Attack.

The Kenney bank robbery occurred at 2 o'clock on the morning of Feb. 27 and netted the bandits about $6000 in gold and silver. Five masked men were seen at work in the bank vault by guests of the Pythian Hotel, across the street, who had been awakened by the explosion. The robbers noticed the lights in the hotel and walked leisurely into the street, where they stood as if defying attack.

Several guests of the hotel emptied their revolvers at the robbers. They returned the fire with interest, evidently treating the whole affair as a joke. They held all the inhabitants of Kenney at bay for a half hour, then walked slowly toward the railroad tracks and disappeared.

When daylight came the inhabitants took stock. It was found that before blowing the bank vault the robbers had broken into the saloon of Albert Jackson, one of the guests who conducted the hostilities from the hotel window. They had emptied the cash register of $5 in change, taken five quart bottles of whisky, and had built a fire in the stove to melt the tallow which they used in calking the safe to hold the explosive.

Schroder and Powers were arrested on descriptions furnished by several citizens of Kenney, who declared that two strangers had stopped at the Pythian Hotel for a week previous to the robbery. No other alleged member of the gang was captured.

Schroder is about 27 years old. A reward of $100 is offered for his capture.

TIGERT AND WARD ELECTED BISHOPS

Methodists Choose Kentuckian and Texan at Birmingham General Conference.

McMURRY IN CONTEST

St. Louis Minister Gets 74 Votes on First and 63 on Second Ballot.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 17.—Dr. John T. Tigert of Louisville, Ky., secretary of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Dr. Seth Ward of Texas were elected bishops by the conference today. Dr. Tigert was elected on the first and Dr. Ward on the third ballot.

The count of the tellers showed the vote on the first ballot to be: J. J. Ti Tigert, 160; J. C. Kilgo, 100; Seth Ward, 85; Collins, Denny, 84; W. F. McMurry, 74; James Atkins, 70; W. F. Tillett, 58; W. B. Murray, 54, and E. W. Anderson, 24.

HThese were the leaders, with scattering votes for 48 others.

Dr. Togert at once resigned as secretary of the conference and Assistant Secretary A. F. Watkins was elected secretary. There was no election of a bishop on the second ballot.

On the second ballot Rev. W. F. McMurryof St. Louis received 63 votes with Dr. J. C. Kilgore, South Carolina, 109; Rev. Seth Ward, Texas, 96; Rev. Collins Denny, 88, and James Atkins 75.

Rev. Seth Ward, texas, was elected bishop on the third ballot by a vote of 140 out of 271.

The large First Methodist church where the conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, is being held, was packed at the election. Every available standing room was taken up and when the voting began intense interest was displayed on all sides. When the tellers would receive the votes and retire the conference would proceed with the business on the daily calendar. When the tellers would return to the conference and make its report, silence prevailed in the great throng.

WITNESS WAS COATLESS.

United States Marshal Morsey headed off the first shirtwaist man of the season Thursday in the United States District Court and kept him incommunicado in an outer office until lively skirmishing resulted in the finding of a coat in which the man could enter the august presence of the Federal judiciary. The coatless one was J. F. Neddham, a farmer of Dent County, Missouri.

Two important land cases were on the docket for Thursday. All witnesses passed muster for appearance in Court until Needham showed up coatless. As soon as Marshal Dorsey learned that Needham's coat was still in Dent County he found a blue serge sack hanging in the office of United States District and Circuit Clerk James R. Gray, and Needham of Dent, clad in the garb of Clerk Gray, was thus enabled to pass the judicial portals with due propriety.

The two cases set for trial were those of W. L. Trusty and J. W. Craven, both of Dent County, indicted by the Federal Grand Jury on a charge of illegal cliams for homestead lands under the pension laws. Trusty pleaded not guilty. Craven pleaded guilty, and sentence was deferred indefinitely. Craven was released on his own recognizance, it being understod that the Government will use him as a witness.

WEATHER MAN HEARS THUNDER

Still Foresees Storm He Has Been Prophesying.

I'M WAITING FOR THOSE THUNDER SHOWERS; MR WEATHER MAN PRODUCE!

Thursday started out with prospect of being the warmest day of the season in St. Louis. At 7 a. m. the thermometer registered 72 degrees, the highest temperature recorded at that hour this year. But cooler weather is on the way.

The forecast: Partly cloudy, with possible thundershowers late Thursday night or Friday. Warmer Thursday night, cooler Friday. Southerly winds, shifting to northerly.

High barometer pressure caused general warm weather in the East and South, but in the Northwest it was much colder Thursday.

Snow is falling in Yellowstone Park, and there has been frost in the Northern states east of the Rocky Mountains.

There have been showers and thunderstorms in Michigan, Minnesota and the Dakotas, and in scattered sections of the Northwest.

The chance that there will be rain in St. Louis is only slight.

$1,000,000 GIFT FOR ARTISANS' SCHOOL

Wealthy St. Louisan Has Made Proposition to Contribute This Sum to the Cause of Education—If He Dies Will Provides for the Enterprise.

Former Gov. D. R. Francis said Thursday that it would be impossible for him to give further details at this time regarding the proposal of a St. Louis millionaire to endow a school for artisans in St. Louis.

In his speech before the Missouri Bankers' Convention Gov. Francis told of a conference at his residence at which the capitalist had made a proposition to build the school at a cost of $1,000,000 and to endow it with the same amount for its maintenance. He said that the plan is now under way and that, lest death should intervene, the rich St. St. Louisan has made a will providing for the gift and the endowment and has named trustees to carry out the project.

"Manifestly it would be a breach of confidence for me to make known the name of this generous citizen," said Gov. Francis to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "He is setting a splendid example to other men of large wealth."

"ZACK" BAXTER KILLED BY FALL

The smiling, kindly face of "Uncle Zach" Baxter, conductor of the Missouri Pacific Kirkwood accommodation and close friend of many wealthy St. Louis suburbanites, will never again greet passengers hurrying to and from the city on the train of which he had been in charge for 14 years.

He fell down a flight of steps at the Kirkwood Hotel Wednesday night and his neck was broken.

Zachariah M. Baxter was one of the oldest conductors in the service of the Missouri aP[illegible] He entered the service of the road in 1871. Fifteen years ago, while conductor on a freight train, he was crippled in an accident near Kirkwood, and since then he had walked with a slight limp.

After this accident he was given what was considered an easy berth as conductor of the accommodation train.

His run made it necessary for him to stay in Kirkwood every night and he had been a guest of the Kirkwood Hotel since it was opened.

Wednesday night he started down the steps from the second floor to the lobby. Recently he had been afflicted with rheumatism and he walked with difficulty. Near the top of the stairway he stumbled and fell headlong to the bottom. He was dead when he was picked up.

Coroner Koch of St. Louis County held an inquest Thursday morning and returned a verdict of accident.

The body was brought to the old conductor's home at 510 South Ewing avenue, St. Louis.

EX-TYPEWRITER GIRL FIGHTS DIVORCE SUIT OF HER RICH HUSBAND

Capt. Ernest Peugnet's Wife Denies His Allegations of Misconduct and Makes Counter Charges Against Him—Also Says He Was Cruel.

WILL DEFEND SUIT TO THE LAST EXTREMITY

Romance of Pretty Stenographer Who Won Wealthy Man Twice Her Age—Stepson's Tragic Suicide After Father Heard Charge About Him.

Mrs. Alexina Louise Peugnet, one of the most dashing married women of St. Louis, former Boatmen's Bank typewriter girl, whose romance with Capt. Ernest Peugnet of the old St. Louis family of that name, is now in the divorce court, publicly proclaimed her intention to fight the Captain's suit by filing a crossbill in the Circuit Court Thursday.

She denies in every particular the captain's accusations that at various times she violated her marriage vows, and says that it was not she, but her husband, who was forgetful of the promises which were made when she, aged 26, and he, aged 63, were pronounced man and wife at St. George's Episcopal Church March 14, 1901.

Mrs. Peugnet says that she is broken in health and spirit as a result of her husband's treatment of her.

To every charge which her husband has made she replies in kind and besides she says that his cruelty was such that her health was wrecked so that she had to be taken to St. Vincent's Insane Asylum where she remained for many weeks before her reason was restored.

She says that her husband was unfaithful, that he drank to excess and that he called her vile names and struck her in the presence of others.

From the estate of an old man's darling, Mrs. Peugnet has come to the position where she has to fight to defend her honor as a wife. She is 31 years old and her husband is 68.

Family Stands by Her.

After her separation from Capt. Peugnet following an exciting scene at a house on North Leonard avenue, Feb. 7 last, she did not go back to her typewriter. She returned to the home of her parents in Kansas City and is now there surrounded by her family and her friends, who say that she has been basely mistreated and that they will stand by her to the end.

Her attorney, L. C. Dyer of St. Louis, was in conference with her there Tuesday and Wednesday. Together they carefully went over the answer and crossbill which Mr. Dyer filed on his return to St. Louis Thursday.

To a Post-Dispatch representative Mrs. Peugnet said at her Kansas City home:

"My petition speaks for itself. I will be able to show that all of the charges made against me are false and that I am the injured party. My turn will come when the case goes to trial."

"We will fight over every inch of the ground and the husband of my client will surely be confounded by the evidence which we will introduce," said Attorney Dyer.

In her crossbill Mrs. Peugnet says that she was persecuted by her husband's family throughout the five years of her married life.

Children Did Not Like Her.

When Capt. Peugnet took her as a bride to his beautiful home at 3245 Lindell boulevard she found already installed there three children of her husband by a former marriage. All of them were older than Mrs. Peugnet.

It was not long, she says, before she discovered that she, the former typewriter girl, was looked down upon and regarded as an interloper by the members of this proud old family.

Between her and them there was a barrier of caste which nothing could break down. She was made to feel that she was not in the same class with the Peugnets, that the marriage ceremony which made her the wife of their father was merely an empty form, so far as its power to place her on an equality with her husband's family was concerned.

Mrs. Peugnet says that she asked her husband to provide another home for her and that in the presence of his children he abused her, cursed her and called her vile names.

This sort of treatment, she says, was frequent, especially when Capt. Peugnet was intoxicated. She says that he drank heavily all through their married life and that his treatment of her became worse the longer they lived together.

Had Mental Breakdown.

When her husband did not abuse her he neglected her, she says, and treated her with indifference.

At last the eyes of the "old man's darling" were opened, she says in effect. She was an outsider, an intruder living under an aristocrat's roof.

With this realization came a mental breakdown in October, 1902, when she was taken to St. Vincent's Asylum for the Insane.

From there she says her husband, after promising that she would be better treated, took her back to her home. But she again found herself surrounded by the children of the proud old French family and conditions were unchanged.

She says that Capt. Peugnet always sided with his children against her and that he permitted members of his family to make false accusations against her. These charges, she says, were so persistent and of such a nature that the worry which they caused has permanently impaired her health.

In Capt. Peugnet's amended petition filed May 1 he charges that his wife was unfaithful. This Mrs. Peugnet indignantly denies and says that it was her husband who offended.

She says that he associated with other women and went about with them, openly drinking and dining with them in public restaurants and gardens and secretly enjoying their society in private apartments.

Says Husband Flirted.

At every point she offsets the accusations made by her husband with equally grave allegations against him.

One of the strongest charges made by Capt. Peugnet in his petition is that his wife was guilty of indiscretions with a man at Put-in-Bay, O., in the summer of 1906.

Mrs. Peugnet denies this statement and says that it was her husband whose conduct was improper at Put-in-Bay at that time. She says that he went there with an unmarried woman. Mrs. Peugnet also was at Put-in-Bay and she says that despite her presence, her husband flirted with many women and was on terms of improper familiarity with them.

While stopping at a hotel there, she says, she learned that her husband had arranged to enter the room occupied by another woman in the same hotel. She followed him to the room, she alleges, and found him there with a woman.

This, she says, so enraged him that he struck her with a heavy cane, seriously injuring her. Later, she says, he left the hotel with the woman and

WOMEN JURY SAYS MRS. BELL IS NOT GUILTY

Friends of Defendant in Divorce Suit Disagree With Official Verdict.

LISTENED TO EVIDENCE

For Five Days Case in Marion, Ill., Was Bitterly Fought in Court.

BOTH BLAMED BY JURORS

Prominent Merchant and His Wife Are Found Guilty of Misconduct.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., May 17.—Twelve leading society and club women who, for five days and nights sat in the Williamson County Circuit Court here for the purpose of lending their moral support to Mrs. Alice Bell and Shannon Holland, charged by Mrs. Bell's husband, Charles A. Bell, with having associated together, will probably have to do their work over again.

Both sides are dissatisfied because the jury found that both Mr. Bell and Mrs. Bell had been guilty of marital misconduct, and it is the expectation that both sides will ask for a new trial. Little doubt is entertained that the motions will be granted by Judge Duncan if reasonably good grounds are adduced in support of the motions.

Final action on Mr. Bell's suit for divorce and Mrs. Bell's crossbill has not been taken by Judge Duncan. The verdict of the jury, in such a case, under the Illinois law, does not operate to close the case. It remains, in such cases, for the trial Judge to take action in line with the jury's verdict.

In this case, both parties having been found guilty, the Judge will be bound to dismiss both the bill and crossbill unless a new trial is granted. The Judge is deferring dismissal of the suits in the expectation that motions will be made by the attorneys.

Both Sides Dissatisfied.

Judge W. F. Slater, attorney for Mrs. Bell, says that as both sides were dissatisfied with the outcome of the case, both sides would probably ask for a new trial. Attorney Ed M. Spiller, for Mr. Bell said it had not been determined what the next step would be.

The verdict of the jury of society and club women who listened to all the evidence, was at variance with that of the 12 good men and true. They found Mrs. Bell and Mr. Holland not guilty.

"We thought before the trial that Mrs. Bell was innocent," said one of them naively, "and we still think so."

The jury of women, who wore their prettiest spring gowns, sat back of Mrs. Bell throughout the trial. Mrs. Bell and one or two others sat in rocking chairs, which were provided by the chivalric court attendants. The rest occupied the regular Courthouse furniture, a bench against the railing and short, heavyset chairs, scarred by the boots of Williamson County's men.

They were at no time open to the criticism of listlessness. They listened eagerly to all the testimony. If it was favorable to Mrs. Bell, there was a flutter of approval. If it was favorable to Mr. Bell, they manifested incredulity. If it was very unfavorable to Mr. Bell, they did not conceal their disdain. Two or three times an incipient demonstration was headed off by Judge Duncan.

The bailiff was so unfortunate as to fall under the displeasure of the jury of women. He wanted to hear, too, and considered that his office gave him the right to pick out a good place without regard to the feelings of the unofficial spectators, but every time he got between the women and the witness stand he was politely, but firmly, requested to move.

Jury Composition Varied.

The composition of the jury varied somewhat, due to domestic demands that could not be ignored, but throughout the trial there were never less than the statutory number of 12 women jurors and sometimes there were as many as 15. Those who were most constant and conscientious were Mrs. A. F. White, Mrs. George H. Goodell, Mrs. H. N. Boles, Mrs. N. G. Reid, Mrs. Phillip Rick, Mrs. Noah Payne, Mrs. Bessie Hay, Mrs. W. G. Cochran, Mrs. Lizzie Gullege, Mrs. Mary Hearn and Mrs. O. H. Burnett.

Those who sat with Mrs. Bell were not the only society women in the courtroom. There were many others, sitting back of the rail.

Those who came to exert their moral support were there at the beginning of the trial and there at its close. Their presence appears to have been spontaneous. The lawyers for Mrs. Bell say they had nothing to do with it.

The manner in which the leading women of the city rallied to the support and encouragement of Mrs. Bell was the surprise of the trial. Although there had been nothing to indicate what they thought about her guilt or innocence, it was supposed that they would do as women generally do, give their sister the worst of their judgment. For another thing, Mrs. Bell had never been one of them, in a society and club sense.

When the Bells moved to Marion from Herrin six or seven years ago and Mr. Bell opened a clothing store in a building owned by Shannon Holland in the corner of the public square and went to housekeeping above the postoffice near by, the leading women called on Mrs. Bell, and she treated them with all due civility, but with reserve, and, somehow, they came away with the impression that Mrs. Bell did not care to be taken up by them.

As time passed the intuition of the women was vindicated. Mrs. Bell did not go in for society and did not join any of the clubs. She was a business woman rather than a society woman. She seemed to find her greatest pleasure in assisting her husband at the store.

She came to be on terms of easy acquaintance with the women of Marion, but there was no marked cordiality toward any of them on her part.

There never seems to have been any suspicion against her up to the time that she and her husband separated in February and he filed suit for divorce, in which Shannon Holland was named. The suit caused a sensation.

Holland Richest Citizen.

Shannon Holland was in a sense the leading citizen of Marion, as he was its richest man. He had made a fortune in business, owned town and country property and was president of the First National Bank. For three or four years after Mr. Bell rented a storeroom from him, Holland and his wife lived in apartments over the Bell store and another store on the public square. Holland had a way of looking after the heating of the building and was often down in the store.

Holland and Bell became very good friends. So far as any body had ever noticed, the relations between Holland and Mrs. Bell were extremely conventional. She seemed to maintain toward him the attitude of semi-reserve which she maintained toward everybody. He was a conservative, self-contained man of affairs, 56 years old, a dozen years older than Mrs. Bell.

More sympathy was expressed for Mrs. Holland than for Mrs. Bell. The banker's wife occupied a position among the women of Marion in keeping with that occupied by her husband among the men. She was a leader in everything the women of Marion undertook, an attractive, intellectual and forceful woman. She let it be known at once that her confidence in her husband was complete. The women talked to their husbands and found that they were inclined to stand by Holland. That was the beginning of the sentiment which resulted in the presence of the jury of women at the trial.

Mrs. Bell came to share in the sympathy felt for Mrs. Holland and the confidence reposed in Mr. Holland. Mr. Holland was tried over the teacups and found not guilty. If he was not guilty, Mrs. Bell wasn't, of course. And when somebody suggested that they go to the trial and show forth to the world what they thought about it, the women of Marion were ripe for it.

After they had listened five days and five nights to testimony strong enough to convince 12 men that both Mr. Bell and Mrs. Bell had offended, the convictions they had formed before they heard any evidence were unshaken.

Son Watched the House.

Mr. Bell, Delbert Bell, oldest son of the couple, and Amanda Cole gave the strongest evidence against Mrs. Bell. Mr. Bell testified that he had seen Holland leaving the Bell home on East Main street. Delbert told of having watched the house at his father's direction. He said he saw a man leave the house. Following the man, he claimed to have recognized him as Shannon Holland.

Mrs. Cole swore that both Mrs. Bell and Holland had come to her house.

Mrs. Bell told of outbreaks of her husband's jealous suspicion, for which she declared there was no excuse. She described a dramatic scene, which occurred in October. Her husband had gone to Carbondale, saying he would be gone all night. He returned late at night, and, on entering the house, called his wife downstairs. Pointing two revolvers at her breast, he demanded that she sign a paper acknowledging that she had not been faithful to him and naming Shannon Holland.

"I am innocent. I will not sign. Kill me if you will," Mrs. Bell testified that she said.

He wavered and she ran from the house in her night clothes and sought shelter at the home of a neighbor.

Lloyd Bell, the 16-year-old son of the couple, who has been loyal to his mother, testified to the incident also.

Shannan Holland was a witness. In slow, measured terms, he unequivocally denied that there had ever been anything improper between himself and Mrs. Bell.

Mrs. Bell Wept Once.

Mrs. Bell sat in a rocking chair close to her attorneys throughout the trial. She had been under a nervous strain and it was feared that she would break down, but she stood the ordeal very well and made an excellent witness for herself. The only time she gave way to her emotions was when her 18-year-old son, Delbert, was testifying against her. She broke down and wept then.

Two women testified to improper conduct on the part of Bell. One was Mrs. Fannie Hester of Marion, who said that she had called at the Bell store. The other was Mattie Smith, a negress, formerly employed as a servant at the Bell home.

Mrs. Bell, since her separation from her husband, has been living at the West Side Hotel. She declined Wednesday afternoon to be seen. Mr. Bell, seen at his store, smiled deprecatingly when the case was mentioned and declined to discuss it. He is a smooth-faced man of 48, with the affable habit which comes from business training. Mr. Holland was not at the bank. It was said there he had gone to his farm.

Marion citizens are not agreed as to whether Mrs. Bell is attractive. They are agreed that she is not particularly beautiful, but some say there is something attractive about her in spite of that. She is 44 years old, slightly above average height and with a figure none too rounded. She has blue eyes and brown hair and dresses fashionably and tastefully. Her manner is reserved and her tones modulated and she has a good command of language.

EX-TYPEWRITER GIRL CONTESTS DIVORCE SUIT

came to St. Louis, leaving his wife there alone.

Mrs. Peugnet says that her husband has circulated the most humiliating, scandalous and degrading statements about her and has employed private detectives to spy upon her movements.

Says Husband Ordered Her Away.

In telling what happened on Feb. 7 last, the day of the final separation, she does not mention the Leonard avenue house. She says that Capt. Peugnet reviled and cursed her in the presence of strangers and ordered her to leave his home forever. Since then, she says, he has refused to permit her to return to him.

So that she may not get her share of his estate, she says, he is now making an effort to dispose of his property by giving it to his children. She estimates the value of the property to be $150,000.

She asks for an absolute divorce and judgment for a sufficient amount for her support. She desires that the Court shall order Capt. Peugnet to put up security for whatever amount may be allowed to her for maintenance.

Peugnet of Proud Family.

Captain Peugnet is a Frenchman of the old school with the bluest of blue St. Louis blood in his veins, proud of his ancestry, reserved and aloof with strangers, yet withal hot-blooded and quick to resent an affront.

That he will fight his divorce case few of his friends doubt.

The woman from whom he seeks a legal separation is his second wife. At the age of 31 she retains much of the charm which made her irresistible to many prominent St. Louisans in the days of her early youth.

She first dawned on St. Louis in 1895 when, as Alexina Louise Greenleaf, she came from Kansas City and found employment as a stenographer at the Boatmen's Bank.

Her services were highly prized by William H. Thomson, cashier of the bank, and for a time she was received by the wife and daughters of Mr. Thomson at their home on terms of equality.

The young woman came in contact with many rich men who visited the bank, and she had no difficulty in attracting to herself powerful friends.

Peugnet Quickly Won.

In this way her social connections came to be different from those of many young women in her station in life.

In the winter of 1900 Alexina Louise, stenographer, engaged apartments at the West End Hotel, she bearded the lion of aristocracy in its den and won a fortune.

Captain Peugnet, a wealthy widower, lived there. A friend, one of her good and powerful friends, introduced her to the rich insurance man.

One night he took her down to dinner, the next night to the theater and soon quick eyes about the hotel noticed that Peugnet had been selected as the pretty stenographer's steady escort.

It was a short courtship.

The formal announcement of the engagement was made by Peugnet Feb. 25, 1901, and the wedding was celebrated at St. George's Episcopal Church, March 14, 1901, Rev. Dr. R. A. Holland officiating. Many prominent and wealthy St. Louisans were present. It was planned for Father Kielty of Holy Angels' Church to perform the ceremony, but the bride was not a Catholic and she would not sign the required ante-nuptial agreement pledging the indissolubility of the marriage.

For a time they lived at the hotel, then for a short season they boarded near Grand avenue and Olive streets.

And after that?

Well, Alexina Louise came into her own as the mistress of the Lindell boulevard home, a pretty house, which her husband bought and fitted up for her at the expense of a fair-sized fortune. Alexina Louise was on top now. She would do things right. First of all she must entertain.

That was where the trouble commenced. In her stenographer days Alexina Louise had learned to look at the world through Bohemian glasses.

A theatrical man had been one of her good friends. He had often taken her behind the scenes where she met many members of the "profession."

Actresses at Her Home.

Now that she was in the social swim she remembered what she had read of the triumphs of social leaders at Newport and other nice places who had scored success through the use of stage talent to amuse their friends.

That is how it came about that Captain Peugnet, when entering his Lindell boulevard home at any time was apt to stub his toe against a "famous monologue artist" or a "little dancing sunbeam" from the vaudeville.

"Who are these persons?" he would ask.

"O," replied Alexina Louise pertly, "they are some of the talent for my entertainment tonight."

In vain Peugnet would protest that he didn't want the house all cluttered up with actors and things.

But Alexina Louise had been accustomed to have her own way and she continued to entertain her playhouse friends. Her husband says that her eccentricity went even further and that she was so careless of the conventionalities that she openly visited a very wealthy man at his apartments on Maryland avenue. There, the husband says, she dined, and on more than one occasion remained at the house from 7 p. m. until 11 p. m.

When Peugnet learned of these visits he became suspicious. It is said that through friends he learned of her close relations not only with the capitalist on Maryland avenue, but with a banker, a young manufacturer and two theatrical men.

Say Marriage Was a Plot.

Some friends of Peugnet say that before his investigation had proceeded far he was told that his marriage to Alexina Louise was the result of a deliberate plot.

The plot, it was said, began in the form of a proposition to Alexina Louise that if she would cease to worry certain of her influential friends they would see that she captured a rich husband.

In pursuance of this plot, Peugnet's friends say, she was installed at the West End Hotel.

After hearing these reports the husband quietly went to work to obtain evidence which would establish any statements he might make in a petition for a divorce.

He learned, he says, that during three years following their marriage she associated with men, that she visited improper houses and that she dined with men in their private rooms, in some cases remaining there for hours.

Private detectives took a part in the investigation. They reported to Peugnet that in the summer of 1905 Alexina Louise went to Put-In-Bay, O., with her Maryland avenue friend, and that while there she traveled with him on side trips to various resorts, was away from her hotel with him at night frequently and was guilty of "great and improper familiarity" with him.

After her return from Put-In-Bay last fall Alexina Louise, her husband says, went to Boston and stayed there at a hotel with one of her influential friends, a prominent business man.

She came back to St. Louis. Though a close watch was being kept upon her she was not more cautious than she had ever been. Three times within a short period, Peugnet alleges, she visited her Maryland avenue friend at his home.

Accuses Her Stepson.

The last time Peugnet was waiting for her when she returned. There was a quarrel in which Alexina Louise, desperate and with her back against the wall, said something that brought the affairs of the Peugnet family to a tragic climax.

She told her husband that among the "friends" with whom her relations had been close was his own son, Ernest Jr.

The husband staggered as from a blow. He could not believe what he had heard, but he began an investigation of the charge. A few days later the wife of Ernest Peugnet Jr. left her home at Carthage and went to Texas. A week after that Ernest Peugnet Jr. went into the bathroom at the home of his father-in-law at Carthage and shot himself, dying almost instantly.

It was said at the time that the domestic life of Ernest Peugnet Jr. and his wife had not been happy for some time and that he had been drinking heavily at Joplin for several days before he killed himself.

Louis Peugnet, after his brother's death, came to St. Louis from Nicaragua and aided his father in gathering evidence against Alexina Louise.

Peugnet's friends says that the avenging brother on the night of Jan. 16 caused the woman to be followed from a theater which she left in company with a famous minstrel, that she was tracked to a house, and that later he saw her leave Union Station for Chicago with the minstrel.

The husband says that he attempted to communicate with her while she was in Chicago, but that she gave him a wrong address. He alleges that while there she dined and drank with men in places of public resort.

Alexina Louise returned to St. Louis, but she did not go to the Lindell boulevard home. On the night of Feb. 7 last Louis Peugnet and a private detective went to the husband.

"Come, we will show you," they said.

They took him to a house on Leonard avenue. There, the husband says, he found Alexina Louise the center of a crowd of merrymakers. He confronted her and begged her to return home with him. She scorned his appeal and told him she would remain where she was.

One of the influential friends of her old days is said to have stood at her elbow when she threw defiance at her husband. That was the last straw. Twelve days later Peugnet filed his suit for divorce.

His first petition merely alleged that she had rendered his life intolerable by associating with persons of objectionable character.

Alexina Louise asked for alimony and was allowed $50 a month, but she has asked that this be increased to $300 a month.

On May 1 Peugnet filed an amended petition, in which, without naming men or places, he sets forth the dates on which he says his wife was indiscreet.

He alleges also that since the filing of the suit she has circulated the statements which she had previously made regarding her relations with his son, Ernest Jr.

Immediately after the incident of the night of Feb. 7, the doors of the Lindell boulevard home were closed to Alexina Louise. It is said that she telephoned to her husband several times asking a chance to explain, but that she was notified that her effects had been sent to the home of her parents in Kansas City.

Capt. Peugnet is said to have written a new will and to have gone to Cuba with his son, remaining there nearly two months.

Yardmaster Is Beaten.

Lee Kensinger of 2203 Park avenue, yardmaster for the Missouri Pacific, has two black eyes and is suffering from numerous bruises as a result of an attack made on him on Armstrong avenue, near Chouteau avenue, late Wednesday night. He was walking along the street when he heard someone call his name. As he turned, he says, he was attacked and knocked down and severely beaten. He says he recognized his assailant as a switchman whom he discharged some time ago.

FIFTY DAYS FOR KICKING NEWSBOY

United Railways Conductor Scored by Judge Moore for Brutality.

WORKHOUSE TERM LESSON

Conductor Said Boy's Feet Were Muddy and He Pushed Him Off.

W. O. Lively, a conductor on a Broadway street car, was sentenced to 50 days in the Workhouse Wednesday for kicking Henry Tiefenbrunn, a newsboy, off his car. Judge Moore of the Court of Criminal Correction made the sentence the occasion of a severe denunciation of what he termed the "unpardonable brutality of some street railway employes."

Lively pleaded guilty to the charge against him and threw himself on the mercy of the Court. An attorney for the United Railways Co. urged in pleading for leniency that the man had a family.

"That makes his offense all the more inexcusable," said Judge Moore sternly. "If he has children of his own he surely ought to know how to treat the children of others. What would he have said if someone had kicked his boy off a car?

"It would have been much more manly if this man had fired a loaded revolver at the boy. It would have been less cowardly. Some day the parents of one of these newsboys who are being mistreated will take revenge for the unpardonable brutality of some street railway employes into their own hands. Some day a father will kill the conductor who has assaulted his son, and then it will be the Morgue for the conductor.

"I sentence the defendant to 50 days at hard labor."

Lesson for Conductors.

"Won't the court make that a fine?" asked the attorney for the Transit company.

"No, I will not. That sentence stands. I want to teach a lesson to these cruel conductors."

Henry lives at 1514 South Seventh street and is 14 years old. He boarded the car at Broadway and Marion street, walked through the car and then returned to the rear platform.

Lively ordered the boy to leave the car. The boy said he was afraid to jump because the car was going too fast, but that he would get off at the next corner. Then, he testified, Lively kicked him off. He was cut and bruised in the fall.

Lively, in making his statement, said the boy's feet were muddy and were getting the car dirty. When the boy refused to get off, he said, he "pushed him off" with his foot. Pleasant P. Mason, special attorney for the State in the case, smiled at this revelation of a new method of pushing, and spectators laughed.

Lively lives at 5449 Hall's Ferry road. He has been employed by the United Railways 20 months.

Bank Teller Marries.

Paul G. Palmer, teller of the National Bank of Commerce, and Miss Emily L. Goodenough, daughter of Mrs. K. S. Goodenough of Loveland, O., were married at the home of the bride Wednesday. Mr. Palmer and his bride will come to St. Louis after a tour through the South.

JEWELER FLEECED BY STYLISH PAIR

Man Left Only $30 for $230 Diamond in Fourth Street Store.

A handsome woman of the brunette type, stylishly gowned, and a distinguished appearing man, wearing a gray suit, are being sought by Detectives McCarthy and LaBarge. They are the pair who, working together, fleeced Paul Flucks, a South Fourth street jeweler, out of a $230 diamond.

Chief Desmond thinks the man and woman are clever crooks, and he has given their descriptions to all of his men with instructions to bring the pair in as soon as possible.

The man entered Fluck's store at 616 South Fourth street, at 5 p. m., Wednesday, and began the selection of a diamond. The man's appearance was all in his favor. He was about 45 years old, stylishly, but not flashily, attired, and wore a neat, gray suit, a black derby hat and neat shoes. He had a watch and chain and a ring. He was careful in making his selection, and his manner indicated that he knew a diamond when he saw one.

A stone that was worth $230 attracted him. He decided to buy it. He pulled from his pocket a roll of bills. There were many twenties, two fifties, and a number of smaller denomination. He handed Flucks a roll, and when the jeweler counted it, he declared it was $10 short.

The stranger said there could scarcely be a mistake, and as he reached for the money to recount it, the woman, who is believed to be a confederate, entered. She called Mr. Flucks by name and said she was in a great hurry. Would he not let her look at some earrings at once? As Flucks turned to wait on the young and handsome woman, the man, who had been carefully recounting the bills, handed them across with the remark that he had been in error. Flucks, busy with the woman, took the roll of bills, and laid them back on the counter, while the man in gray strolled leisurely out and disappeared. The woman detained the jeweler a few minutes and left without making any purchase.

Then Flucks picked up his roll of bills. The package was the same size, apparently, but all of the fifties and all of the twenties save one had been taken out and only $30 remained. Flucks then reported the trick to the police.

CAPTURE TWO OF WICKLIFFE BAND

United States Deputy Marshals Trailed Cherokee Outlaws With Bloodhounds.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

VINITA, I. T., May 17.—Ben Hungry and Ned Carselute, alleged members of the Wickliffe gang of Indian outlaws, were brought in last night by United States Marshal W. H. Darrough and his posse from the Spavinow Hills where they were captured. The Wickliffes, full-blood Cherokee Indians, have been in the hills over a month, since they fled after killing Deputy Marshal I. L. Gilstrap and J. H. Vier.

The prisoners were placed in the United States jail, charged with complicity in the murder of the deputies. Carselute harbored the Wickliffe brothers and Hungry the night before the battle.

John Smith and his full-blood Night Hawks who worked under Marshal Darrough on the trail of Hungry and Carselue, effected their capture by means of bloodhounds. They went on after the Wickliffes, and up to this time have not been able to force a battle with them.

Hungry, Confesses.

Hungry made a complete confession to Marshal Darrough, admitting that he was with the Wickliffes when they killed Deputy Gilstrap and had been scouting with the Wickliffes since Gilstrap was killed. Hungry had been pursued so closely by the Night Hawk officers that he left the Wickliffes and intended leaving the country when he was captured. The confession was taken by Commissioner Farrar.

Hungry says he joined the Kickliffes a week before the fight with Deputy Gilstrap. He claims he was present but took no part in the fight. He says John Wickliffe, the leader of the outlaws, shot Gilstrap and robbed the body. Hungry claims the Wickliffes forced him to stay with them after the fight and threatened to kill him if he left them.

F. C. WOODRUFF DEAD.

He Had Been Teacher in St. Louis Forty Years.

Frederick C. Woodruff, for 40 years a teacher in the St. Louis public schools, died Wednesday night at his home, 5207 Ridge avenue, from paralysis. He had been in ill health for more than a year and for six weeks had been confined to his bed.

Mr. Woodruff was born in Granville, Mass., 69 years ago, and was educated in Ohio. He served during the Civil War as a Captain in the Eleventh Ohio Volunteers and at the close of the war came to St. Louis. In 1865 he became the assistant principal of the Clay School. He was transferred to the Webster School and in 1873 became the principal of the Henry Ames School, where he remained until 1900. Then he became the principal of the Divoll School, which position he rtained until his death.

Mr. Woodruff was married in St. Louis and he is survived by his wife, one daughter and three sons. The funeral will be held Saturday, the services being under the direction of Dr. S. J. Niccolls of the Third Presbyterian Church.

During Mr. Woodruff's illness great loads of flowers were sent to him by former pupils and the telephone was kept ringing by friends anxious to know how he was getting along.

Adjoining this department will be the men's shoe store, which, by the way, will be thoroughly complete.

The men's furnishing department will be greatly enlarged, and its location will be a great convenience.

Athletes and sportsmen will be especially interested in the new sporting goods department, which will be located on the fifth floor.

SENATE BODY INDORSES SEA LEVEL CANAL

But Congress Is Not Expected to Support Committee's Decision.

ROOSEVELT TO FIGHT IT

Should Specific Legislation Be Prevented, President Will Construct Locks.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—A sea level canal across the Isthmus of Panama has been formally indorsed by the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals and Senator Kiltreadge will present his bill at an early date. It will be opposed in the Senate by all the influence of the President, and he will exert all his power to prevent legislation on this feature. It is not considered that any bill for a sea level type can be enacted. If the Senate should support the measure it will fail in the House.

In the absence of specific legislation the President will construct a lock canal, in accordance with the recommendations submitted by the advisory board of consulting engineers. He has full authority to adopt this course under the Spooner act authorizing the building of a waterway.

It is estimated that a sea level canal will cost $100,000,000 more than a lock canal. The sea level is estimated to cost $235,000,000, while the lock is placed at $135,000,000. It is estimated that 12 years would be required to complete a sea level canal, while the lock may be finished eight years. Experts admit that as the sea level canal is merely a question of digging, the time estimated for its construction might be reduced below the estimate.

The great dam at Gatun, which some engineers hold to be impossible, would not be necessary in a sea level canal. A dam at Gataboa would then be constructed. There is a firm rock foundation at that point and no question of practicability has been raised.

The advantages of a sea level canal are that the time required for the passage of vessels is greatly reduced; delays in lockage are avoided; all the usual dangers which attend the passage of large vessels through locks would be entirely avoided; there would be no necessity for great masonry work; it would be more durable and require less in the way of repairs.

FACTORY BUILDERS TALK OF EAST SIDE

Will Put $1,000,000 Car Plant There if St. Louis Doesn't Want It.

DELEGATES' WAR DELAYS

Ordinance Concerning Livelihood of 20,000 Held Up by Factional Fight.

The bill authorizing the American Car and Foundry Co., to use Louisa and Lynch streets, east of Second street, in connection with property already acquired, as a site for a mammoth car factory which will give employment to 7,000 men, has been delayed by the committee on public improvements of the House of Delegates, because of the pending controversy between the majority and minority faction of that body, according to Scott H. Blewitt, general agent of the corporation.

"The officials of the American Car and Foundry Co. feel confident the House intends to pass our bill and will probably take favorable action on it Friday night," said Mr. Blewitt, to a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday.

"It is unfortunate that this legislation, which we so earnestly desire should come at a time when the House is divided into warring factions.

"The suggestion in some quarters that the bill has been held up in committee owing to our failure to offer so-called alluring inducements to the delegates is utterly baseless and unwarranted.

Blewitt Knows of No Graft.

"If there has been any attempt to graft or the slightest contemplation of dishonesty in connection with this bill the American Car and Foundry Co. knows nothing of it.

"On the contrary, I may say we have the most complete confidence in the integrity of the delegates and we are assured they intend to do their duty.

"We preferred prompter action, of course. When the Council passed the bill and it was referred to the House I urged Mr. Wiedmer to take up the bill for immediate action. He answered that the House was in the habit of doing things that way.

"We are not complaining because Mr. Wiedmer and his associates see fit to investigate the measure in all its phases before submitting it to the House. The bill has been in committee about two weeks, not an unusual length of time, in our judgment.

"While we would like to have the bill passed at once, we are not disposed to dictate to the delegates. If it is their pleasure not to pass the bill there will be nothing for the American Car and Foundry Co. to do but select another site.

If Not Here, Then in Madison.

"We have plans for a $1,000,000 factory in St. Louis and this, together with railroad and other facilities to be installed, would make the cost of locating here considerably more than across the river.

"We own a large tract of property at Madison, and if St. Louis doesn't care for the factory, which will be the means of support for 20,000 persons, we will simply build at Madison.

"That is all there is to this proposition. We do not feel that we are asking too much of St. Louis. If we are then we can very speedily change our plans. I know we would not want long for inducements to go elsewhere."

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS PAINT STEPS GREEN

Hieroglyphics Daubed on Spotless Corridors of Central High Building.

EXPULSION IF CAUGHT

Principal Bryan Calls Act Vandalism, but Girls Say "Class Spirit."

Several enthusiastic young men, members of the graduating class of the Central High School, gained entrance to the school building early Thursday morning painted artistic green signs on the immaculate floors of the corridors and on the steps outside, and then flew the class pennant from the school's flagpole and cut the rope half way up.

Principal W. J. S. Bryan, after watching the futile efforts of a corps of workmen to remove the paint, said that the escapade was a piece of vandalism.

Several of the girl members of the class said those who did the painting showed "they had a lot of class spirit and a class which wouldn't do such a thing didn't have any gumption."

Charles Sharpe, president of the class, says the work was not done with the censent of the officers of the class and he knew nothing about it. He said he thought it "a shame."

The heaviest painting was done on the outside of the building. The north steps were covered with what resembled Egyptian hieroglyphics. Inside the door there is a line of irregular daubs on the winding stairs, and then on the second corridor floors and on the stairs leading to the south entrance.

"Boozer" and "Doper."

In one of the corridors appear the two words, "boozer" and "doper," painted in bold characters.

Whether these refer to some member of the faculty whose popularity is on the wane, or whether they are simply the secret slogans of the class is a question which the school authorities say they cannot answer. The members of the guilty class look wise and say nothing.

The class colors are green and purple, and the green and purple pennant on the flagpole is about twelve feet long.

After attaching this pennant to the flagpole rope, the mischief-makers tied a stone to the rope. Then they pulled the stone and pennant to the top of the pole and cut the rope. The stone pulled up the end of the rope.

"This cannot be construed," said Prof. Bryan, to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "to be anything but plain vandalism. If I can discover the perpetrators I will certainly expel them from the school if they are students here.

"I encourage class spirit that is constructive—that will build up the class. But this is purely destructive. There is no excuse for such conduct.

"I do not blame the class. I think it was done by those who were not acting in accordance with the spirit of the class. I will begin an investigation at once."

The graduating exercises of the class will be held at the Odeon June 14. There are 120 members of the class, two-thirds of whom are girls.

REVOLUTIONIST'S TORMENTOR SLAIN

Russian Police Officer Who Maltreated Maria Spiridonovo Is Shot.

TAMBOFF, Russia, May 17.—Zhanoff, a police officer who participated in the brutal maltreatment of Maria Spiridonovo, was shot and killed on the streets here today by an unidentified person. The avengers of the young revolutionist recently meted out the same fate at Borissogliebsk to Abramoff, the Cossack officer who bosted of his cruelty to her while she was in prison.

Maria Spiridonovo, the young daughter of a Russian General, shot and killed Chief of Police Luzhenoffsky of Tamboff. She was condemned to be hanged, but her sentence was commuted to 20 years' imprisonment. The girl was terribly treated in prison immediately after committing the crime by Abramoff and another Cossack officer.

EXPERTS DECLARE PATRICK INNOCENT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—William Marsh Rice was not murdered by Albert T. Patrick or anybody else, according to a report of a committee of the Medico-Legal Society.

"There is not an unprejudiced medical mind in the world," said Clark Bell at a meeting of the society last night at the Waldorf, "who would believe that if a towel made into a cone, containing a sponge saturated with chloroform, was placed over the face of a living man, who was asleep, it would cause death if he was left alone for thirty minutes. The first struggle that the man made would dislodge and throw off the towel.

"It is not likely that the statement made by Valet Jones of the method of killing Rice by inhalation of chloroform has a single element of truth."

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS SINKING AFTER RELAPSE

PNEUMONIA DEVELOPED

Recently Declared Out of Danger, Condition Now Is Critical.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the president of the Confederacy, who has been ill at the Hotel Gerard since a week ago last Monday, is believed to be dying. Her daughter, Mrs. J. Addison Hayes, and her grandchildren, Jefferson Hayes Davis, a student at Princeton University, and his sister, are at her bedside.

It is said she no longer responds to powerful stimulants as promptly as the doctors wish.

Dr. Robert H. Wylie, who is attending Mrs. Davis, said today that she is now suffering from pneumonia. After a sinking spell early today she revived and slept for several hours.

Mrs. Davis suffered a relapse and early today her condition was admitted to be serious. During the morning hours the physicians used oxygen to keep her alive.

Mrs. Davis, who is advanced in years, has been failing recently, and about two weeks ago experienced an attack of grip, which for a time greatly alarmed her friends. Later, however, she showed marked improvement and recently was declared to be out of danger.

Last night there was a decided change for the worse and Dr. Wiley, who was hastily summoned, remained for several hours with the patient. At his direction the patient's respiration was maintained by artificial means.

Mrs. Davis celebrated her eightieth birthday on Monday two weeks ago. On that day she went for a drive and contracted a cold.

DRAINED PONDS TO ROUT FROGS

Residents of Alta Sita, East St. Louis, Can Now Sleep of Nights.

HARVEST FOR NEGROES

They Followed the Graders and Caught Scores of the Chorus Singers.

The bull-dog colony of Alta Sita, East St. Louis' fashionable residence suburb, have lost their happy homes, but fourteen ponds and lakes in the surrounding territory had to be drained to accomplish the defeat of the frogs and their rag-time megaphone melody.

The lakes and ponds were drained by E. W. Hartman, a grading contractor, following the publication of the frog story in the Post-Dispatch recently. The contract was let by Finis P. Ernest, a resident of Alta Sita, and a wealthy land owner of that district. The price to be paid for draining was $458.

With the advent of Mr. Hartman, assisted by five teams and a host of workmen, the frogs renewed their melodious efforts, but as each pond was drained, there was one colony less, and the chorus grew weaker to that extent. As the work was begun on the last pond, it seemed that the frogs realized that they were making their last stand, but the persistence of the crusade of anihilation begun by the citizens had won the battle, and their defeat was complete.

Harvest for Frog-Catchers.

During the draining process the negroes living in the vicinity have reaped a harvest, and as each lake was dained the negroes waded into the pools and bagged frogs. One negro, George Klingman, is said to have caught 165 full-grown frogs in one day, using the sleeves of a raincoat as a basket. With the sleeves of the coat tied tightly around his wrists, he poked the frogs in the sleeves until they would hold no more, and then went to market. Others adopted like methods, but there was enough for all and business has been good in that line for o week.

The cause of the trouble was the high water in the Mississippi River, which backed up in Pittsburg Lake, overflowing the lowlands. The heavy rains of early spring completed the work of filling up the ditches and ponds. With the water came the frogs. With the coming of spring, their growth increased rapidly, which likewise increased their vocal powers, until the residents were compelled to devise ways and means for the rout of the denizens of the deep.

Petition Idea Dropped.

It was at first decided to petition the City Council for aid in dredging the lakes, but the publication of their dilemna hurried their action, and Mr. Ernest came to the rescue and made the contract on his own responsibility—and now the residents can sleep.

In some places the old township canal had to be opened up for a mile, in order to allow some of the ponds to drain, the water having backed up during the rise, but when the river fell, the water could not flow out of many low places. The property in Alta Sita proper is high enough, but it was from the lowlands surrounding it that the trouble came as the frogs bellowed their chorus, talking to each other from the different ponds, the discordant songs being wafted across lots, thus driving the residents to desperation.

The gatherings on the Alta Sita street corners by the residents to talk over the situation have ceased.

On the Contrary.

BIGGEST WARSHIP TO BE AMERICA'S

House Favors Building Sea Terror to Eclipse English Ship Dreadnaught.

MISSOURIANS OPPOSED

Representative Bartholdt Wanted to Wait Until After Second Hague Conference.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—By a vote of 135 to 103, the House has gone on record in favor of the biggest battleship on earth for the American Navy.

The test came on the motion of Representative Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio, chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, to strike from the bill the paragraph appropriating $3,000,000 for this purpose. Immediately preceeding the vote on Burton's motion, the ayes and noes were had on the amendment proposed by Representative Bartholdt, of St. Louis, postponing the construction of the ship until after the second Hague conference. Both amendments were rejected.

Practially all of the Democrats, and many Republicans voted with Representative Burton to strike out of the bill the battleship item. All of the Missouri and Southwestern Democrats voted with him, as did Representatives Fulkerson, Murphy, Rhodes and Tyndall, of the Missouri Republicans.

Speech after speech had been made against the naval programme, and as many in its favor.

Would Wait for The Hague.

Representative Foss of Illinois, chairman of the Naval Committee, who was in charge of the bill, closed the debate on the battleship paragraph. Foss spoke only five minutes, but threw into his remarks all the vehemence he could summon. He announced as ridiculous the amendment of Representative Bartholdt to postpone the construction of the ship until after the second Hague conference.

"Mr. Chairman," declared Foss, "after the first Hague conference, in spite of the resolutions adopted, every great world power increased its naval and military strength more than ever before. The Czar of Russia called the conference. He is just emerging from a war in some of the land battles of which more men were engaged than the world had ever known, while the naval engagements were the greatest in history. I would call the attention of the House to most significant feature of the Czar's call for the second Hague conference. No reference whatever is made to the much-talked-of disarmament proposition."

Foss declared emphatically that there was no more reason for believing that developments would be different after the second Hague conference. He said he was in favor of an adequate navy. The program of the department, he said, was in accordance with the principles of our fathers.

"I'd like," concluded the Illinoisan, "to have on the firing line in time of war some of the gentlemen who have been advocating a weak, sentimental peace, and have them deliver their platitudes there."

Williams of Mississippi, the minority leader, satirically suggested as an amendment to the naval bill, that, in view of the British having named their sea monster Dreadnaught, the American seas monster be named the "Skeered o' Nothin'," as being typical of the national spirit; that, upon its completion, the Captain in command be authorized to challenge the Dreadnaught to a duel to the death, and that the President and his Cabinet, with the exception of the Secretary of Agriculture, who is a noncombatant, be invited to places on the quarterdeck, as evidences of the strenuous life. The sea fight to take place off Newport.

The amendment was ruled out of order, but Williams, as well as the House, had a good deal of fun out of it.

ATLANTIC FLEET ENRICHES GOTHAM

Large Sums Spent by Sailors on Leave and by Ship's Purveyors.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Before the North Atlantic fleet pulls its mudhooks from the Hudson River ooze, its blue jackets will have spent probably half a million dollars in this town. Already they have separated themselves from about $320,000, and if orders to sail do not come from Washington before the next 10 days have elapsed, there will be a doubling of that expenditure.

"There are 8000 men in the fleet," said the paymaster aboard one of the battleships today, "and if you strike an average of $40 a man, who goes on liberty, you will come pretty near the amount of money they are spending. From all we have learned, the fleet will be here for the next ten days or two weeks, and that will mean more liberty and more sailor dollars for New York."

This officer said that most of the blue jackets were not such fools as most shore folks put them down for. Many of them had accounts with the paymasters ranging from $100 to $400.

According to an executive officer, the enlisted men are being given plenty of leeway.

"This is the men's play time," said he, "and we have found it works best to put them on honor. They understand that the ships are open to them to come back and spend the night. If they come back sober they can go ashore the next morning, and if they're not, why, they can go the moment they are.

"A few of the very old-timers thought there was a game in this when the liberty parties first started. They are saying that if they had taken our word they would have been money in pocket that went for dirty lodgings and bad grub at Waldorf rates."

Besides the money the sailors are spending, the provisions necessary to keep the ships of the fleet going are putting a pretty penny into the pockets of New York purveyors. It is estimated that the fleet stewards are spending anywhere from $2000 to $3000 a day.

PASSES ALLAY PREJUDICES, BUT DO NOT BRIBE

Judge Samuel C. Davis Thinks They Are Mighty Good Things.

THEIR USE IS VERY OLD

Never Heard of Delegate Being Influenced, but Railroads Profit Indirectly.

PHELPS HAS GOOD LAUGH

All Agree That Only 30 Per Cent of Democrats Will Travel.

Circuit Judge Samuel Davis of Marshall, Mo., a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Supreme Judge, in conversation with friends at the Laclede Hotel Thursday spoke with disfavor of the action of the railroads in refusing to grant free transportation to the delegates to the Democratic State Judicial Convention at Excelsior Springs May 28.

"I have been attending political conventions in Missouri for a good many years and I have yet to learn of a single delegate whose vote was controlled by a railroad pass," said Judge Davis.

"The first convention I attended was in 1876. At that time I recall very distinctly that the delegates were furnished free transportation, and this courtesy, to my certain knowledge, has been extended by the railroads to both parties ever since.

Passes Allay Prejudices.

"In what way are the railroads obligated to either party that they should furnish railroad tickets valued at thousands of dollars free of charge?" Judge Davis was asked.

"There is no particular reason that I know of why they should do so," he replied.

"I presume they desired to get closer to the people—to cultivate the friendship of the public and thus allay harmful prejudices that might exist against them.

"Indirectly they would receive a benefit from the courtesy of granting free passes, but that such a practice smacks of bribery is to my mind a ridiculous charge.

"Now what will be the result of the anti-pass rule. Hundreds of delegates who had intended to go to the conventions will remain at home and their votes will be cast by others.

"If a candidate for Supreme Judge should attempt to defray the expenses of a delegate to the convention in order to get his vote he would be guilty of bribery.

"Surely, no candidate could be expected to pay a delegate's transportation without exacting from him a pledge of support.

"I doubt if one-third the delegates will personally attend the Excelsior Springs convention. If the convention is made up of proxies, then my chances of success are ruined."

Judge Davis refused to estimate the number of votes already pledged to his candidacy.

"My friends say," he remarked, "that I will get half of the Kansas City delegation, which is 31 votes, and I may get a number of votes in St. Louis.

"But I am not making any claims. I see some of the clairvoyants at Jefferson City are claiming everything for my opponent. Well, that is all right, I suppose, but I won't assert ownership of a delegation until I get it, nor will I make an unseemly scramble for this position."

Graves Claims 364 Delegates.

Judge W. W. Graves of Butler, who was appointed to the Supreme Bench by Gov. Folk, following the resignation of Judge Marshall, is making the race against Judge Davis. He claims a total of 364 pledged delegates. It requires 495 to nominate. Friends of Judge Graves say that Judge Davis has thus far captured only six counties, with a total of 31 delegates.

Judge Graves is in St. Louis and both he and Judge Davis are said to be making strenuous efforts to line up the St. Louis delegation, which has 161 votes.

In reference to the anti-pass rule just promulgated by the railroads, Chairman Evans of the Democratic State Central Committee declares that it will work to the serious disadvantage of the Democrats. In an interview published in late editions of the Post-Dispatch Wednesday, Judge Evans accused the railroads of taking snap judgment on the politicians.

"If we had known a month ago that no free transportation would be issued," said he, "we could have devised ways to get all the delegates to the convention. As matters now stand we will probably not have more than 30 per cent of the delegates at the Excelsior Springs or Jefferson City conventions.

"We had been accustomed to getting passes from the railroads and they shut down on us altogether too suddenly."

Jefferson Club Train.

Cortez A. Kitchen, secretary of the Ward Organization Committee of the Jefferson Club, who is also the private secretary of Martin L. Clardy, one of the Missouri Pacific Railroad attorneys, said Thursday that the Jefferson Club was anxious to charter a special train to send the delegates to Excelsior Springs, but he doubted whether the railroad companies would even consent to this accommodation.

The transportation problem is seriously disturbing the St. Louis Democrats. It is understood that a special train could be chartered for $500. As the fare will be $8, or a total of $1200 for the entire St. Louis delegation, a saving of $700 would be effected by getting a train.

Col. "Bill" Phelps, official pass distributor of the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain Railroad companies, is getting more quiet enjoyment out of the situation than, perhaps, any other man in Missouri.

"This is pretty hot weather for walking," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Looking back into the dim distant past I can recollect when a certain distinguished statesman used to insist on my always leaving him near the outskirts of a town and let him walk in, leaving him to follow along in the buggy, so none of his supporters would see us together.

"The reason of this was plain. He was running on an anti-corporation platform and he needed the votes of the men who hated the corporations. At the same time I was behind the curtains pulling the strings and feeding out passes to himself and his henchmen.

"Oh, it was great, but one day I got tired. It was a red hot July scorcher, my feet got sore walking over the hot roads and fresh corns added to my misery. So I quit the job there and then.

"I always sympathized with the politician who has to walk. It is such an exertion for him to take exercise.

"I hope none of them will be so anxious to participate in the nomination of a supreme judge that he will consider it worth while to pedal from St. Louis to Excelsior Springs.

Phelps Blames Demagogues.

"Seriously, I do not believe that as many delegates will attend the conventions when they are required to pay transportation, as otherwise.

"Quite a number have already told me that they would not attend the conventions if they have to pay fare. "I think the criticism of the railroads for granting free transportation was occasioned by demagogues rather than by anything the delegates themselves said or did.

"I know that many who are opposed to the issuance of transportation to delegates have been very insistent in their demands for transportation for themselves, their families and their friends.

"They think the management of all political matters should be left in their hands. If those who oppose the railroad companies' giving passes will pay fare themselves and will not ask for it for chair warmers who sit around headquarters waiting for countrymen to come to town to receive from them a great deal of misinformation concerning the political situation and expect in return to be asked out for a drink or a free lunch, it will no doubt be gratifying to the railroad companies."

DARING'S MOTHER DIES.

Frank N. Darling, musical director at Delmar Garden, has been called to New York by a telegram announcing the death of his mother. He will return after the funeral, which takes place this week, and resume rehearsals of the musical features of the "Isle of Champagne," with which the Delmar Garden Theater egins its season Sunday, May 27. It is a remarkable coincidence that Mr. Darling was called away from Delmar just before last season's opening by news of his father's death, the announcement coming while rehearsals were under way.

John E. Young, leading comedian of the Delmar company, and Pearl Revare, the second soubrette, arrived Thursday and at once reported at Delmar Garden, taking part in the forenoon rehearsal. Frank Stammers, producer for Lew Fields and stage director for Delmar Garden, is also in the city and has assumed direction of rehearsals.

MADMAN CAPTURES DREXEL'S YACHT

Seaman Attacked With Religious Mania While Vessel Is in Berth.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Standing at the companionway of the yacht Atreus, owned by George W. Childs Drexel of Philadelphia, tied up at South Brooklyn, John Neilsen, a seaman, suffering from religious mania, with revolver in hand, compelled the crew of five men to remain below deck from Tuesday evening until yesterday.

For eight hours Neilsen, by the light of a lantern, read passage from the Bible. The terrified men, unarmed, locked themselves in the cabin.

John Larsen, boatswain's mate, managed to make his escape from the yacht yesterday and telephoned to the police. Six officers later overpowered Neilsen, who was sent to a hospital for observation.

FATHER TO GIVE ALIBI.

Patrick O'Donnell Denies Robbing a Fruit Stand.

The police will apply for a warrant against Patrick O'Donnell, who says he is the son of a contractor living at 4356 Cook avenue, and who was arrested Thursday by Detectives McQuellen and McGrath on suspicion of being one of the men who robbed John Makrigan in his fruit store at 2335 Franklin avenue Saturday night.

O'Donnell denied the offense, but was identified by Makrigan as one of the men who held a chair over his head while the other took $7.50 from the cash drawer. Makrigan says the men filled their pockets with nuts and fruit after procuring the money.

O'Donnell was arrested as he was leaving the Court of Criminal Correction, where he had been a witness in the case of Maggie Keekie, charged with assault and battery. He says his father can establish an alibi for him.

SENATE TAKES A SMILE ON PLATT

Aged New Yorker Locks Stable After Rate Horse Is Gone.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Senator Platt of New York has given an astonishing exhibition of a man trying to look the stable door after the horse was stolen.

On Wednesday he sent his secretary up to the Senate to see if there had been any steps taken to include the express companies in the workings of the railroad rate law. His secretary found no evidences of such treason and Senator Platt went home.

Fifteen minutes later Senator Bailey proposed an amendment putting express companies and sleeping car companies under the provisions of the law and the Senate adopted it. When he heard it, Senator Platt had a series of conniptions. He came to the Senate early Thursday and spent all day trying to make a combination to get the express company provision out of the bill. He was active and alert beyond anything seen for several years so far as he is concerned, but he got little consolation and fewer promises of help.

The Senate thinks so long as all railroads that are subsidary corporations are getting radically legislated against, it is just as well to take a crack at Mr. Platt's express business, and they have taken it and are inclined to laugh at Platt.

Work.

From the Detroit Free Press.

"Shuffler is going to read an essay on 'Work' before the debating society tonight."

"How did he happen to choose that subject? He's the laziest man in the world."

"That's just it; he's going to argue against it.

HOME ARREST FOR AUTO SCORCHERS

Policemen Are Instructed to Take Tag Numbers, Then Call.

Lists containing the name, address and tag number of every automobile owner in the city are being printed by the Police Department printers, and copies will be given to every man on the police force within a few days with emphatic instructions to stop scorching.

Patrolmen will be stationed at frequent intervals on streets used as automobile speedways, especially on Locust street.

They have been instructed to "first take a good look at the occupants of the automobile; get the number of the machine, and then go to the home and address and arrest the persons who were riding too fast."

ARRESTED FOR CRIME ANOTHER IS TO EXPIATE

Workman Charged With Murder for Which C. L. Tucker Is Condemned.

MABEL PAGE STABBING

Jerry Hayes Confesses to Landlady Being "Man in Blue Overalls."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SHOWHEGAN, Me., May 17.—Jerry Hayes was arrested in Bingham yesterday afternoon charged with the murder of Mabel Page at Weston, Mass., March 31, 1904, for which crime Charles L. Tucker is awaiting electrocution on June 10.

The arrest of Hayes came about through a peculiar chain of circumstances. He has been in Bingham off and on for the past two years. He boarded in Bingham village with Mrs. Maria Brown.

One day last February he entered the house with a newspaper in his pocket. His landlady asked him to let her see it, as she wanted to know what had become of Tucker.

"O, he's got the chair," Hayes replied, "and it is a lucky thing for me he has, as I might be in his place."

"What do you mean?" asked Mrs. Brown.

"Why, I was in the Weston house a few moments before the murder occurred and just got out in time to escape the hubbub caused by finding the murdered girl."

Man in Blue Overalls.

Hayes went on to state that he was the man in the blue overalls who had been seen leaving the Page home and who disappeared from the scene of the crime and could not be discovered. Hayes says he called at the Weston house and the hired girl. Amy Roberts, came to the door. He says she gave him bread and a drink of water.

Mrs. Brown was greatly impressed with the story and told what Hayes had said to the wife of Daniel Steward, a Bingham lawyer. Mrs. Steward at once wrote to the attorneys for Charles L. Tucker, and they sent Mr. Mansfield of the firm down to investigate.

Hayes refuses to make any statement and takes his arrest very coolly. He is about 50 years old.

In Bingham it is said Hayes has also been known as J. Moulton, Jerry Hale and J. H. Morton. He has been a sober man and is accounted a good workman. So far as is known here he is unmarried, and except for his talk with Mrs. Brown nobody has heard him say anything about the Page murder.

The body of Miss Mabel Page was found stabbed to the heart in the home of her father. The evidence adduced against Tucker at the trial was that he had been at the Page home before the murder and that a knife capable in every way of inflicting a wound such as the one which killed the girl was found in his home when the police searched it.

Tucker, from the time of his first arrest to the present, has avowed his innocence and his parents have defended him manfully, contending that he is innocent.

READS HIS OWN BURIAL SERVICE

Officer Arrests Man Who Was Entertaining Crowd by Attempting Suicide.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 15.—"The average minister does not know how to head a burial service," said Andrew Fay, 22 years old, of Rockville, Conn., standing in the street. As he spoke he opened a prayer book and the crowd moved closer. In one hand he held an open clasp knife.

"I'm going for a long journey, friends," he continued, smiling grimly. "There are no legislative passes on the line I'm going to take—no rebates, either. I am going to cross the Styx. To insure myself of a comfortable passage I mean to read my own funeral service."

He made a pass before his throat with the knife.

A man tried to grab the knife. Fay sidestepped and struck at him with the blade, but missed him. The crowd kept back, and in melodramatic style Fay read from the prayer book. When he had reached the words, "Dust to dust, ashes to ashes," a policeman pushed through the throng. Fay struck at him with the knife, but the policeman caught his arm and captured the weapon.

Fay was in custody yesterday awaiting examination on a charge of attempted suicide. He said he was out of work, and decided to end his life.

STUDENTS OPPOSE GRAB OF CAMPUS

Ithaca Street Railway Granted Franchise by College Trustees Objected To.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 15.—In the face of a petition signed by 2000 undergraduates, the Ithaca street railway today announced its intention to begin laying its tracks across the campus quadrangle about the middle of next month.

P. K. Clymer, attorney for the company, said that the trustees of the university had given the company official notice that it might begin its work.

Student feeling runs high as a result. There are many who say that if the tracks be laid, an effort will be made to tear them up. All kinds of violent threats are being made. President Schurman sided with the students against the proposed grab.

GARDEN OBJECTED TO.

Lansdowne Does Not Want an Amusement Place.

The church members of Lansdowne, a suburb of East St. Louis, have rebelled against the proposed location of a summer garden in that district, and, at a meeting held at the Christian Church in Lansdowne, committees were appointed and a fund raised for the purpose of combatting the proposed evil, until, as it is said in their statement issued to the public, "it is down and out for all time."

The cause of their protestations is the forming of a $25,000 stock company by East St. Louis merchants to establish a large amusement and summer garden in Lansdowne, and the recent letting of the contract for the location of $60,000 worth of concession and attractions.

The protestants' plan is as follows:

"If the merchants of this city propose wrecking the homes of those furnishing them a goodly portion of their business, means will be taken to adquately prove that the law-abiding citizens of East St. Louis do not propose supporting institutions, which, in return for the courtesy, furnish a dumping ground for the hoodlum element of all surrounding cities."

Another meeting will be held at the Lansdowne Christian Church, when a permanent organization will be affected, and officers elected to carry out their plans.

WOULD ENJOIN SALOON.

East St. Louis Property Owners Bring Suit.

Property owners near Twenty-ninth and Bond streets, East St. Louis, have filed a petition in the St. Clair County Circuit Court asking an injunction to prevent a saloon being opened on that corner. The case will be heard Friday.

The petitioners are F. S. Rich, Luther Robinson, P. R. Carter, W. W. Reynolds, Charles Rich, R. V. Clark and J. I. Higg. It is directed against the St. Louis Brewing Association, Jerry Kane, C. J. Pidgeon and Edmund Carter. The petitioners allege they have information that the defendants plan to open a saloon at Twenty-ninth and Bond streets. They say no license has been granted, but that the saloon may be opened without a license.

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has homes. "First in everything."

GRAIN INSPECTOR SUED.

St. Louis Mill a Plaintiff in East Side Action.

A suit for $15,000 against C. O. Davis, an Illinois State Grain Inspector, and his bondsmen, is on trial in the City Court of East St. Louis, involving the grading of wheat in the Union Elevator in East St. Louis, which was recently destroyed by fire.

Two suits were brought, one by the Hezel Milling Co., of East St. Louis, and the other by the Regina Milling Co., of St. Louis, and both are being tried together. It is alleged that the Hezel mill bought 10,000 bushels, and the Regina mill 40,000 bushels, of No. 2 wheat at the Board of Trade, and were given warehouse receipts for the grain at the Union Elevator.

The mills allege that when the wheat was shipped to them, on delivery, it was found that the wheat, which had been graded by the State Grain Inspector as No. 2 wheat, was in reality of a lower grade and was not worth the price of No. 2 wheat. They refused to accept the grain and, as the elevator would not allow it to be returned, they were forced to sell it at auction at a lower price than they had paid.

This suit is brought on the bond of the Grain Inspector for the difference in the price for which the grain was sold and the price paid for No. 2 wheat.

The Sunday Post-Dispatch has over ONE-HALF MILLION more readers than any other newspaper west of the Mississippi.

Old Fashioned, but True.

"Talking about ideals of the New Thought," said the Inspired Idiot, "there is nothing better than a clean conscience, a good appetite, and enough to satisfy it."

FAILS IN POLITICS CUTS HIS THROAT

Well-Known Lawyer in Illinois Ends Life From Disappointment.

DEFEATED THREE TIMES

Failed Twice in Conventions and Was Once Beaten at the Polls.

Thrice disapointed in his political ambition, William M. E. Todd, a well known lawyer and politician of Nokomis, Ill., 84 miles from St. Louis, ended his life by cutting his throat while his wife was absent from home.

At the recent Montgomery County Democratic primary, Todd was defeated for nomination for the office of Judge of the County Court. He had been defeated in 1898 for nomination for the same office, and in 1891 had obtained the nomination, only to be defeated at the polls.

His latest defeat came with crushing force. He had counted on the support of certain politicians, but the returns from the districts where these men were supposed to control votes convinced him that the promises had not been kept.

Mrs. Todd, who returned from a visit to her sister at Lincoln on learning of her husband's suicide, said Thursday that he had been deeply chargrined at his failure to obtain the nomination, but that he had given no intimation of his purpose to end his life.

A note which he left asked that his wife and his three children be not allowed to see his body. Another note asked his brother to care for the widow and children, and a third bore the sentence, "It was the curse of drink." His friends say he had not been drinking to excess.

Rev. D. V. Gowd, pastor of the Methodist church at Nokomis, found Todd seated in a chair, the head leaning over a basin. A razor was on the floor. Todd died soon afterward.

Prominent St. Louisans Become Children Again in Brilliant Company Producing "The Deestrick Skule"

They Will Perform Under Skule Master Andrew C. Maroney and an Astonishing Skule Committee of Six Solemn Citizens—Novel Entertainment at Odeon Friday Evening.

Some St. Louisans Who Will Appear in "The Deestrick Skule"

"THE TWINS"
MRS. R. S. HOLMAN (LEFT)
MRS. WARREN BAILEY (RIGHT)

MRS. FRANCES REED
AS "SISSY HONEYSUCKLE".

MRS McCANDLESS
AS "MRS. HONEYSUCKLE"

There'll be a mighty big attendance at the "Deestrick Skule" at the Odeon Friday evening, judging from the advance sale of reserved seats which opened at Barr's on Wednesday morning and is now under full headway. This isn't merely because the entertainment is under the auspices of the auxiliary society of the Baptist Orphans' Home, nor solely because Mr. Andrew C. Maroney, the terror of evil-doers, will be the strict and inflexible "skulemaster," nor yet simply because many of the leading society women of St. Louis are among the patronesses of the event—no, indeed! The vital reason is that one of the most astonishingly amusing entertainments every given in St. Louis will then and there be offered, the cast of the producing company being brilliant with the names of ordinarily grave and dignified St. Louisans who, for the time being, assume the mask of comedy and woo laughter from the lips of the multitude.

Funny?—that isn't the name for it! There'll be a discovery of hitherto unsuspected humor calculated to make professionals green with envy.

For it's on the bills that all this shall come to pass—and there are 50 "skollars" under contract to make it come to pass, not counting Mr. Maroney himself, who appears as Pedagogue Nathaniel Chuzzlewit, nor yet Mr. William Taylor as Buddy Honeysuckle, a 4-year-old; nor Mrs. Frances Reed as Sissy Honeysuckle, who looks after Buddy; nor Mrs. W. A. McCandless as Mrs. Honeysuckle, Buddy and Sissy's mamma; nor Prof. Arthur Lieber as the most amazing music master you ever saw in your life. And they're crackerjacks themselves—the Big Five of musical comedy.

Neither is that all, for there's a Skule Committee which is said to be the funniest ever, each especial and particular member being premier comedian in his own peculiar line. Who are they—these topliner stars on the Skule Committee of the "Deestrick Skule?" Why, no less distinguished a sextet of St. Louis vaudevillains than Gov. E. O. Stanard and "Deacon" Alphonso C. Stewart and "Judge" F. J. McMaster and "Prof." Sim T. Price, and Judge Shepard Barclay and "Squire" Thomas W. Crouch. It'll be the strangest thing in the world if these Six Sidesplitters, beginning right with Gov. Stanard, aren't besieged with golden offers from theatrical managers almost before the curtain falls on the "Deestrick Skule." Honest.

And not only will there be straight comedy every minute during the performance, but it'll be accompanied by music—and not all music of the topical and evanescent class, either. Mrs. David Bauer will sing two delightful solos, one of her numbers being an especially tuneful Robyn song, and Mrs. Nora Hughes Morse will also be heard in a beautiful solo of truly soul-satisfying quality. While, as for the incidental music—well, the Glen Echo orchestra, under Director John A. Eggert, will furnish this, and when that's said there's no need to say more.

The program of the entertainment is in itself full of golden promise emphasized in poesy. It starts off with a quotation from "The Deserted Village," which gives one an impressionist picture of the "Deestrick Skule" with Mr. Maroney at its head, such as couldn't have been conveyed in any other manner. Here it is:

> Beside yon straggling fence that skirts the way,
> With blossom'd furze unprofitably gay,
> There, in his noisy mansion, skill'd to rule,
> The village Master taught his little school.

Can't you see the "Deestrick Skule" in those lines—and especially Mr. Maroney, its Master? But Mr. Maroney doesn't get off that easily, however, for right under his name on the cast appears the following pen portrait, graphic in its terseness—and no doubt shiveringly subscribed to by a member of the St. Louis Police Force:

> A man severe he was, and stern to view;
> I knew him well, and every truant knew.

There you are—Maroney, the Terrible, drawn in two lines!

Then there's the full muster roll of "skollers"—just run your eyes over it and catch the significance of the St. Louis names there appearing:

Grace, Miss Finkenbiner; Lucy, Mrs. Kenneth Green; Nellie Mrs. Frank Kauffman; Edna, Mrs. William K. Kavanaugh; Lulu, Mrs. Samuel B. Ball; Sarah Jane, Mrs. Perry Lewis; Lizzie, Mrs. Richard Holman; Addie, Mrs. Calvin R. AGILITY AIDED HOTEL BURGLAR Hotel Jefferson Robber Says He Wants His Sentence in Hurry.

Strength of arm and agility enabled Harrison Mennick, the acrobatic burglar, who was brought back from Chicago, to enter the room of Robert F. Rosenheim at the Hotel Jefferson, and while the guest slept to rob him of nearly $2000 in diamonds and money.

Mennick climbed over an outside window and up a fire escape to the fifth floor, where, he declares, he saw a window left invitingly open. He saw the guest asleep on his bed, and he went through his pockets and escaped without detection.

After telling how he had entered the guest's room, Mennick said to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"I concluded to take a look at the stuff I had stolen. There was $25 in cash. There was a chamois bag, and when I opened this I saw there were five diamonds. There was also a swell penknife. I just knew that the stones were good, so I concluded to go to Chicago and get cash for them. I got into Chicago at 5 p. m. Sunday and it was about 9:30 the next morning when I went to a shop and sold the first ring for $20. Then I sold another for $60, and the third brought $35. I was trying to sell the fourth when the man sent for a 'copper' and I was 'pinched.'

"What was there to do but just admit it. Then, when the owner of the property came, I took him and the detectives to the shops, and we recovered all the property. There is no need of a trial with me. I will just go into court and admit the whole story. I want to get into the penitentiary as soon as possible and get my 'bit' over."

Mennick was brought back by Detective Edward Schenck. He made a confession to Chief of Detectives Desmond, and his case will be laid before Assistant Circuit Attorney Rosskopf at once.

WAS SELLING TICKETS.

This Is Policeman's Defense for Entering Saloon.

The Board of Police Commissioners will decide at its next meeting when the examination of patrolmen for sergeants and detectives will be held. Seventy men have been selected to be examined for sergeants and 40 declared eligible for promotion to detectives.

Sergt. Costello has preferred charges against Patrolman Dan O'Connor of the Manchester Avenue Station for entering a saloon while in uniform, not in the discharge of duty. O'Conner explains that eh entered the place to sell some tickets for the police relief entertainment.

Patrolman Patrick Curran is charged with being intoxicated and beating Charles W. O'Brien, 15 years old, knocking him off his bicycle and breaking the spokes of the wheel with his club, as told by the youth in Wednesday's Post-Dispatch.

Detective Fred Cosgrove will be tried on charges of immoral conduct and Patrolman H. S. Murphy must answer a charge of failing to appear as prosecuting witness.

BROKE BOTTLES ON NEGRO'S HEAD

When Substitution of Stick Was Proposed Kennedy Looked for a Fight.

Thomas Kennedy, a negro, who was fined $10 for disturbance of the peace in Judge O'Halleron's court Wednesday, lays all his trouble to the fact that he has been allowing a porter named Johnson, employed at Nolan's drug store at Goodfellow avenue and Suburban tracks, to break bottles over his head. He says that breaking the bottles became so common that Johnson grew tired of the sport and insisted on breaking a large stick on Kennedy's skull.

On the occasion when Kennedy's action resulted in his being arrested he entered the drug store with a club and threatened to clean out the place. Robert Johnson, a clerk in the store, notified a policeman, who arrested Kennedy after a chase.

On the witness stand Kennedy said that his mind had become affected by the continual breaking of bottles on his head. He said the club he was carrying at the time of his arrest was the one the porter wanted to test on his skull. He thought the porter was only trying to amuse himself at his expense. The thought made him angry and he took the club and began looking for a fight.

DRAMATIST BADLY HURT.

Author of "The Auctioneer" Falls in Subway.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Lee Arthur, the playwright, was probably mortally injured last night by a fall down the subway stairs at the Times Square Station. His skull was fractured and it was said at Roosevelt Hospital that he may not live but a short time. A newsboy who saw Mr. Arthur fall says he slipped on the top step. His body turned over several times before it landed on the cement floor at the bottom.

Because of the hurry to send the patient to the hospital the police and the ambulance surgeon failed to get Mr. Arthur's name. Peter Daly, the actor, went to the hospital later and identified him.

Mr. Arthur stopped at the Lamb's Club. He came to New York 10 years ago from a small town near New Orleans, where he was born. He had written many plays, but it was not until he produced "The Auctioneer," in which David Warfield starred, that his career was crowned with success.

NOTE FROM MAN WHO SHOT SELF

Emil Weber Returned to Miss Charles Letter Written About Lawsuit.

The envelope addressed to Miss Helen M. Charles of 5050 Maple avenue, which was left by Emil Weber, a former Suburban mottorman who shot and killed himself in the Glendale station house Tuesday, reached Miss Charles through the mails Wednesday. It was sent to her by the St. Louis County Coroner. It contained a note from Weber, asking that she testify in Webers suit for alleged damages from an operation at the Centenary hospital while Miss Charles was studying to be a trained nurse.

In the note Miss Charles simply stated that she knew nothing of the case and therefore could not testify According to the custom of Nurses she wrote this benediction at the end.

"May the Lord bless you and keep you and give you peace."

When the note was returned there was scrawled across it, "The Lord would have blessed me if you and others had testified to what you knew of the operation that caused me to lose a limb and to drive me to this."

Rev. Dr. B. H. Charles, retired pastor of the Brank Memorial church, said that his niece and her relatives were much relieved when the note was received and read. He had at first contemplated destroying the note without opening it but, knowing that there could be nothing hid, he decided to have it read.

CHANDLER AND BAILEY NAIL A RATE BILL LIE

Declare Publication in Roosevelt's Pet Paper an Inspired Falsehood.

IS UP TO WHITE HOUSE

Attack on Bailey's Integrity Puts President in a Bad Light.

NOTE TO LOEB MISUSED

Chandler Will Publicly Deny He Made Statements Attributed to Him.

"Man Who Inspired Attack on Me Is a Liar," Says Bailey.

The Chicago Tribune, recognized as practically a personal organ of President Roosevelt's, published a story attacking Senator Bailey's integrity. It came from the Washington correspondent, and stated, in effect, that Mr. Bailey was regarded as a traitor by men high in his own party.

When his attention was called to the publication, Senator Bailey, evidently believing that the item was inspired and had its origin at the White House, if not from President Roosevelt direct, arose in the Senate chamber and said:

"I denounce the publication as an unqualified, deliberate and malicious lie. I denounce the correspondent as an unqualified, deliberate and malicious liar. I denounce the man who inspired the statement as an unqualified, deliberate and malicious liar, whoever he may be and however high the office he holds."

When he first spoke, he did not have knowledge of a similar publication in the New York Tribune. His attention being called to it, he rose again and applied the same language to the New York story.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Ex-Senator Chandler will go on record today indignantly repudiating the Chicago Tribune story that he notified the White House that Senator Bailey was regarded with grave suspicion by the Democrats during the rate bill discussion.

It was this story that brought out Bailey's terrific denunciation yesterday, in which he placed the inspiration of the story right up to the White House.

This note from Chandler to Mr. Roosevelt is on file at the White House and presumably only Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary Loeb have access to it. How the Chicago Tribune's correspondent learned of it is a matter of surmise, but as the Tribune is to all intents and purposes an organ of the President, wide-awake Washington has its ideas well developed.

Bailey sent to ex-Senator Chandler and asked for a copy of the memorandum as soon as the Chicago story arrived here. He obtained it and will put it in the Congressional Record, together with a letter from Mr. Chandler.

Chandler left his memorandum or note with Secretary Loeb on April 11. Neither he nor Senator Bailey will give out the exact text of the communication, but the Post-Dispatch correspondent is able to state that the substance of what Chandler wrote is this:

"The railroad senators are trying to obtain a broad court review by the adoption of the Bailey anti-injunction amendment, and are trying to get Bailey to help them. I do not know what their game is, except that it is to defeat him (meaning the President). Senator Tillman will continue to co-operate with the President. Please hand this to the President."

This note was left for Loeb by Chandler on April 11, the day before Senator Bailey had made his great speech in favor of his amendment.

Between April 11 and 14 Senator Bailey says he received word from two Democratic Senators, whom he does not name, that the President had said to them that he would insist on the Bailey anti-injunction amendment if Attorney-General Moody would say it was constitutional.

Acting on this information, Bailey accepted the invitation he received from Chandler on April 14 to confer with Moody, and he went to see Moody on Sunday, April 15, or four days after Chandler left the note with Loeb for the President, in which, it is charged, he called Bailey a traitor.

Senator Bailey intends to make all these facts clear today, both by the submission of the exact text of the Chandler memorandum and the letter from Mr. Chandler in which these facts are recited. He declares that this chronological history of the affair clears both Mr. Chandler and himself and leaves the President in a still more embarassing position, if, as he intimates, and as is generally charged, he inspired the publication of the dispatches which were denounced by Bailey and Tillman.

After Senator Bailey learned the substance of the Chandler memorandum and before he had the exact text, he saw Mr. Chandler and said to him: "Why did you, in this memorandum, exclude me from co-operation with Senator Tillman?"

"Because," replied Mr. Chandler, "I had never talked with you about the rate bill. I knew nothing of your position at the time I wrote it, and, therefore, was not authorized to say anything in regard to it. I did know Senator Tillman's position and was warranted in explaining it to the President."

"That explanation," Senator Bailey said, "is perfectly satisfactory to me."

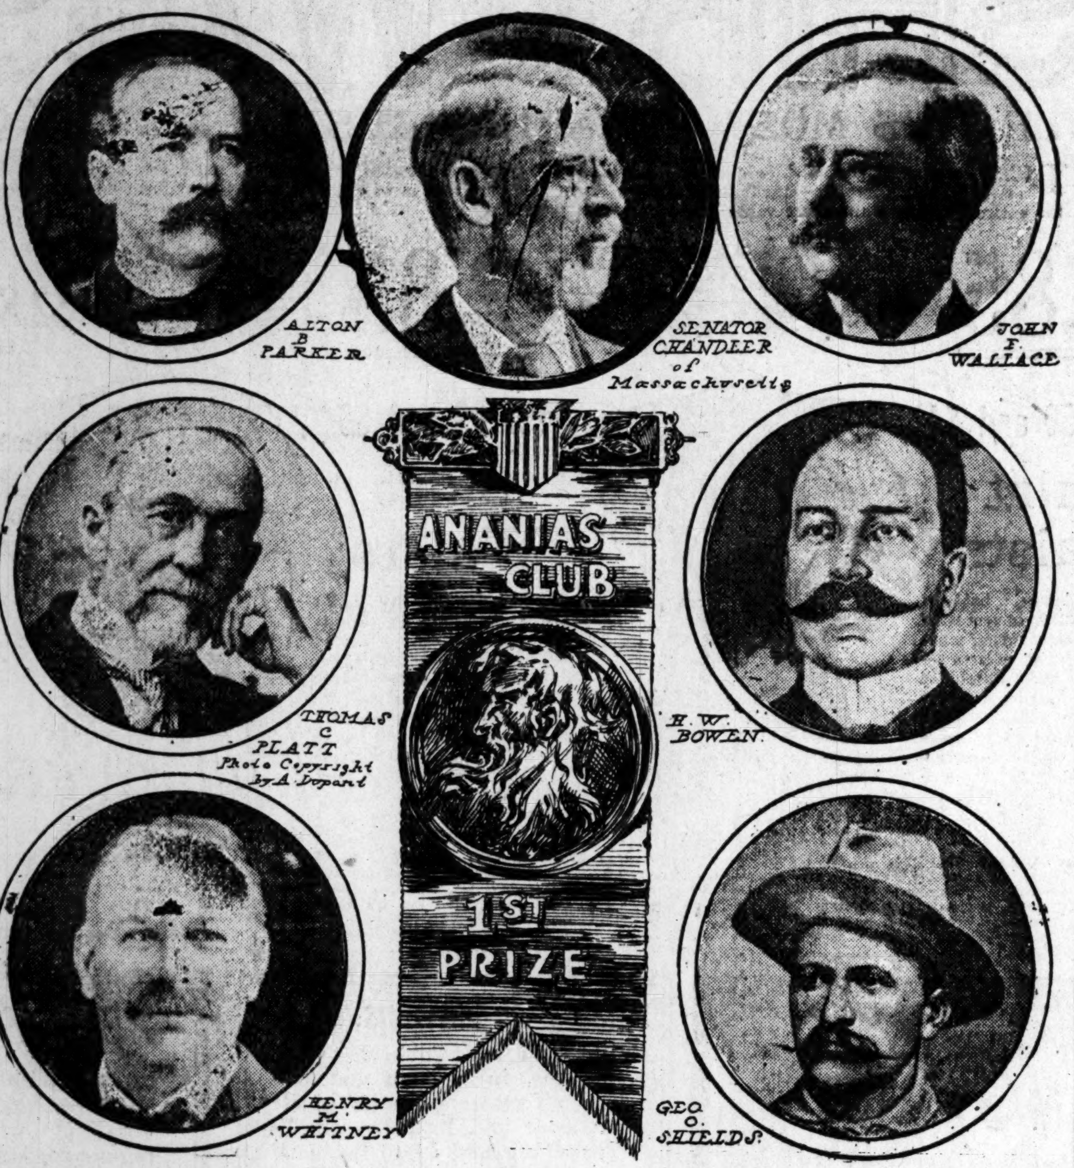
There is great curiosity in the Senate to learn the language of Mr. Chandler's communication to Loeb. When Senators heard what it was and also heard the recital of facts connected with it, they were amazed that the President, if he thought that Senator Bailey was working against the limited review amendment in common with the railroad Senators, should have asked Bailey to confer with Attorney-General Moody, and should have allowed the negotiations to continue until he broke them himself by embracing the Aldrich gold brick in the shape of the Allison amendment.

They think another explanation is due from the White House, provided, of course, the White House had anything to do with inspiring the articles Senators Bailey and Tillman denounced.

They asked who could have inspired them but the White House, for nobody knew what was in the memorandum but the President and Loeb, and Tillman and Chandler evidently did not think aBiley a traitor, for they continued working with him and are working with him yet.

A significant thing about this whole controversy, involving, as it now does, the veracity of so many men of prominence, is that since Senator Lodge arose last Saturday and delivered to the Senate the President's telephone message that ex-Senator Chandler was a "deliberate and unqualifid" liar, not a Republican Senator has raised his voice in defense of the President, and the only utterance upholding the President the Senate has heard is the President's own plea in his letter to Senator Allison, and the time-serving letter of Attorney-General Moody.

Some Prominent Men Whose Veracity Has Been Questioned by the President



OFTEN MEANS FIGHT IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 17.—The word liar, "as applied by one gentleman to another," in South Carolina, has meant a fight in many instances. With both parties present a blow is expected. The Earle-Evans mix-up on the political stump in 1898, when both were candidates for Governor, is well remembered. There are several other occasions that could be recalled where a blow quickly followed the word or implication.

OLD EMPLOYE ENDS HIS LIFE IN STORE

Charles Brown, in Ill Health, Shot Self in Simmons Establishment.

DOORKEEPER LONG TIME

He Had Recently Bought New Home on Itaska Street—Left a Note.

Charles W. Brown, for many years doorkeeper for the Simmons Hardware Co., Ninth and Spruce streets, was missing from his customary place Thursday. Six hundred employes of the establishment missed his nod as they passed through the doors, and many customers during the day inquired about him. They were told that Brown had ended his life.

Brown left his post at 5 p. m. Wednesday and went to a lavatory on the second floor. He took off his hat and coat, a bullet through his brain. He had been a bullet through his brin. He had been in ill health for several months.

Those on the second floor heard the report of a revolver but thought it came from a box falling on the floor and paid no attention. A boy on the floor named Cullen, however, had keener ears and went to investigate. He discovered the lifeless body on the floor and fled in terror to the manager of the house.

Not wishing to frighten the employes, mostly women and girls, the officers of the company kept news of the suicide from becoming current and obtained permission from the Coroner to leave the body in the lavatory until the store was closed.

Had Bought New Home.

Brown lived at 3558 Itaska street with his wife and 10-year-old son. He had recently moved from 3629 Missouri avenue and had paid $200 on the home, which he was buying on the installment plan. Brown had recently returned from a trip to Colorado for his health. He formerly had been a hotel clerk.

On the body a note addressed to Wallace D. Simmons was found. It will be given to Mr. Simmons at the inquest, which was begun Thursday.

It presumably contains explanation of his reason for committing suicide. Two promissory notes, each for $300, were also found. One was marked paid, but the other had gone to protest March 26. They were indorsed by W. D. Simmons. A diamond ring, a diamond stud, gold watch and $7.50 in money were found on the body.

Brown was 45 years old. He was of a cheerful disposition and was well liked in the establishment. He recently told Al Nert, from whom he was buying his home on Itaska street, that he did not mind living so far from the car line, as he would not have to walk long. In the presence of Nert, Brown told his 10-year-old son that he would leave him enough money to pay for the home and to educate himself, as he had $5000 life insurance.

Plugged Nickel a Clew.

Samuel Delaney and Samuel Kinder, both 17 years of age, of 2305 Locust street, were brought into the Dayton Street Police Court Thursday to explain the presence in Delaney's pocket of $3.44, the exact amount missing from the cash drawer in the butcher shop of John Smercina, 2800 Stoddard street. The presence in the collection of coins of a plugged nickel, which Smercina recollected, led to the arrest of the boys.

LITTLE WORD USED BY ROOSEVELT HAS ENDED MANY LIVES

Comparatively Safe to Call a Man a Liar in Washington, but in Some Other Places It Means a Fight or a Footrace —Some Famous Duels.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The epithet "liar" does not mean a fight or a footrace in Washington, as it does in the South and West.

Liar has three meanings in Washington: Executive, legislative and common or garden.

The executive meaning is that somebody has told the truth about you.

The legislative meaning is that somebody has told something uncomfortable about you.

The common or garden meaning is that somebody has lied, but that coarse interpretation is rapidly falling into disuse. It is being crowded out by the executive and legislative meanings, so to speak.

IT MEANS DEATH OR A DRINK IN KENTUCKY.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 17.—The lie in Kentucky means death or the drinks. Generally speaking, it means a fight; and for any man to swallow the lie means that his streak of yellow is so broad and long as to make him contemptible in the eyes of his fellow men.

Years ago in a famous Republican State Convention at Music Hall in Louisville two factions were headed by scions of the bluest-blooded families in all Kentucky. They were the Goodloe and Swope families. One faction was led by Cassius M. Goodloe, and Armisted M. Swope led the other. Dirty politics was dragged in, and then came personalities, personalities too sacred for expression. The lie was passed, Goodloe giving it to Swope.

Everybody that afternoon looked for a killing, but with the persuasiveness and argument attendant upon all State conventions, especially in Kentucky, the men were kept apart, but those who best knew A. M. Swope and Cassius Goodloe knew for certain that the lie which had been passed meant a death. It meant two deaths.

For months the men were kept apart. But each went armed and each was ready for a fight to the death.

Both Goodloe and Swope had letter boxes in the Lexington Postoffice. One afternoon Swope went after his mail. He was leaning over, locking his box after taking out his mail, when Goodloe came in. As Swope looked up and saw Goodloe, two lives were doomed. Swope drew his revolver and Goodloe his knife. Three bullets went all the way through Goodloe's body, and with fearful effect Goodloe plunged his long knife into Swope's body. Neither said a word then. They meant to kill. Goodloe died in the Postoffice lobby and his last words were: "He bellowed like a calf." Swope was taken to his home and died that night.

That is where the lie in Kentucky means death. Here is where it means the drinks.

A few years after the Goodloe-Swope tragedy, Jack Chinn and Bob Tucker, both famous in the turf world, had the most prominent stables at Latonia race tracks. Tucker was handling the string of Capt. Sam S. Brown, and Jack Chinn had his own stable, headed by the mighty Lissak.

Something had gone wrong and somebody went to Tucker and recited how Jack Chinn had called him numerous kinds of —— and un—— liars. Tucker is nothing if not game, and straight to Jack Chinn he went. The genial Jack laughed at the wrathy Robert and said:

"Say, Bob, if you listen to all the —— liars in this world you will have dyspepsia. Let's have a drink."

They had a drink and there the incident ended.

LIAR MEANS FIGHT OR FOOTRACE IN TEXAS.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOUSTON, Tex., May 17.—In Texas the epithet "liar" is an invitation for trouble. When used by one Southern gentleman to another deliberately it is with the understanding that it calls for violent resentment. It is a direct thrust at his manhood and means a fight or a footrace. Ho overlook the epithet indicates either guilt or cowardice, and, with a silent acceptance of either, all right to be called a gentleman is forfeited. An immediate apology is demanded, otherwise the resort is to pistols, either upon the spot, if both persons happen to be armed, or afterward. Frequently apologies are forced at the revolver point.

So general is the understanding and so positive is the sentiment that the epithet is seldom used except with the deliberate purpose of provoking trouble or in return for a positive and a maliciously uttered false statement. As a matter of course, such episodes are seldom made public, more especially when they occur between prominent men.

The exception in instances proves the rule. No story of public life in Texas is more widely known than is the event in which President Sam Houston figured. To this day men speak of it with wonder.

During the days when Houston was the chief executive of the Republic of Texas, politics were at a white heat. Every man was interested and every man was prepared to back up his assertions by force of arms.

One day while on his way to the executive mansion President Houston was accosted by a bitter enemy. Abuse was heaped upon him. In the course of the argument the President was called a "malicious liar."

"Your saying so does not prove it," declared Sam Houston, as he passed on.

The episode has been handed down in Texas history as a remarkable event.

The innocence of Sam Houston in the charge preferred is said to have been proven and now that the greatness of the liberator of Texas is again recognized in the country he once governed, the event is accepted as indicating his strength of mind, his self-control and his superiority over, not alone his accuser, but over the general run of men.

In Texas Senator Bailey is not placed upon the plane of the man who accused President Houston. He is accepted as a man of honor, and when he applies the epithet of "liar" those who know him believe that he does so with deliberation and forethought, with the knowledge in mind that it is a mortal insult, its silent acceptance indicating the guilt of the man he accuses.

FREQUENTLY FOLLOWED BY DUEL IN GEORGIA.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 17.—Georgia the "lie direct" is considered an affront involving the honor of a gentleman termed "a liar." In the old duelling days many notable encounters resulted from the use of this epithet. It is generally considered that a man who will "take a lie" will not resent any other insult.

Only recently the use of this epithet produced such strained relations between Col. John Temple Graves and Col. James W. English Jr., chief of the Governor's staff, that only the utmost efforts of friends prevented a formal resort to the field of honor. Though not provided by law, it is the general course of procedure in court affairs resulting fom personal encounters to regard the "lie" as the first blow. This has been the turning point on which many men accused of murder have got off on light sentences where "the lie" was passed, blows followed, and finally the man who was denounced killed the giver of the epithet. In such cases it has frequently been held that the man who "gave the lie" precipitated the trouble.

LIME TRACES ON HEADLESS BODY IN POOL

Physician and Coroner Believe It Was Smeared on by Murderers.

MADISON MAN MISSING

Joe Nellis Not Seen Since Shortly After Quarrel in Saloon.

VERDICT NAMES PLESE

Recommends That Authorities Seek Further Facts Regarding Him.

Traces of lime on the body taken headless from a pool behind a Madison saloon, and on the clothing, are regarded by Dr. W. H. Grayson and Coroner Streeper as indicating that the lime was used in the hope of destroying the body. They thus brand as a murder the second mysterious violent death which has developed in Madison within a week.

Dr. Grayson, who appeared before the Coroner's jury after examining the body and the head, found later in the pool, stakes his professional reputation on the statement that the lime was placed on the body before it was thrown into the pool. He believes it was smeared on the face and hands and slapped on the clothing in soft lumps. He also believes that a rope, with weight attached, was around the neck, and that the lime ate off the neck, severing the head.

The inquest also developed the fact that Joe Nellis, who had part in a fight in Plese's saloon and is said to have slapped the saloon keeper's daughter, has since been missing. His description resembles that of the body.

The coronor's jury listened to the stories of witnesses until early Thursday. It heard how the body was first found, how the head was discovered later, of quarrels and frequent shooting affrays in Plese's saloon. It heard the report of Dr. W. H. Grayson and Coronor Streeper that the body was packed in lime. It heard Anton Plese tell about having lime in his shed next where the body was found. It heard Anton's 15-year-old daughter excitedly cry a sentence interpreted as follows:

"Don't tell them, father, you wanted the pool filled up with dirt; say it was the cellar you wanted filled."

The jury rendered this verdict:

"We find that the unknown man came to his death from an unknown cause, but recommend that the duly authorized officers of the county make a thorough investigation of this matter in general and any part that Anton Plese may have had in it in particular."

The body was that of a man 5 feet 8 inches tall. His belt measured to a worn eyelet about 34 inches. This shows a good girth and a fairly heavy man. The condition of the leg bones indicated a man 25 or 30 years old.

Young Man's Garments.

A derby hat found with the body was punctured through the crown. A bullet might have made the hole. The hat had been brown and was of good quality. A celluloid collar was still about the neck. A good silk necktie, tied in a fancy knot, peculiarly a young man's knot, was with the collar. The coat was of diagonal pattern, possibly a serge of good quality, and dark. The vest was dark and of hard-finished goods. Both were well lined. The trousers matched the coat. The shoes, size 7 or 7½, were of dressy sort.

The hosiery was a fancy plaid with green and white stripes. Although the hosiery is in substantial shape, there is not a trace of shoestrings in either shoe.

About the body was first found one belt—a stylish thin belt worn by well dressed young men. Inside was found another less showy belt. This may have been a money belt. A break in it may indicate where money was cut away from it.

About all the skull indicates is a high forehead. The action of the lime had eradicated nearly all traces of flesh. Three teeth are missing from the front of the upper jaw. There are no gold fillings in any of the other teeth. They were not greatly worn, and the physicians think them further proof that the man was young.

No buttons which might identify the maker of the clothing, no money or papers were found about the body or in the pockets. The two belts seem the most likely means of identifying the man.

After the skull was taken from the pool, the presence of lime in great quantities was noticed.

A Post-Dispatch reporter questioned Anton Plese, the saloon keeper.

"Do you use any lime?" he was asked.

"What's that?" he asked with a shrug of the shoulders. "Lime, lime? I don't known what you mean."

He finally understood the word, and said he used lime to do whitewashing with.

"How much did you buy?"

"Two barrels."

"Got any now?"

Plese lead the way to the shed not five feet from where the body was found. He pointed out a full barrel of lime, and said the other barrel he bought had been used in whitewashing. There was none of it left. The empty barrel was not there, although the full one was.

Plese succeeded Joe Matlevic in the saloon at Tenth and Madison avenue, Madison, two years and seven months ago. The property is rented from Mrs. John Sechora, a widow, of North Venice. She ordered the work done which disclosed the crime.

Plese has usually about 10 men boarding in the house. He came to Madison from a town in Northern Illinois. In his family are his daughter, Anna Plese, a pretty, red-cheeked girl of 15 years, [illegible] his wife. Anton Plese, a nephew, [illegible] years old, is one of the boarders.

The Coroner's jury was: Foreman, Letcher Owsley; George I. Smith, B. J. Walter, T. F. Reilly, Robert Henderson and William Street.

In their presence Coroner Streeper examined the body and the clothing found on it. Dr. W. H. Grayson, an experienced practitioner, told the jury after examining the body:

"The bones of the leg show this man was between 25 and 30 years old. He was 5 feet 8 inches and weighed well in proportion to his height.

Death Might Be Recent.

"I am absolutely certain the body was packed in lime. The flesh is full of lime. This could not be a case of lime getting on the body by chance. It was put there with the body.

"How long would it take for the lime to have the effect noticeable in this case?" he was asked.

"It might take only three or four days," said the physician. "The lime would cremate the body and leave it about as it is now. But I think the body was sunk longer than that time. The man may have been dead six months."

Coroner Streeper, before he had advantage of Dr. Grayson's conclusions, made this unqualified statement:

"I have no doubt the body was buried in lime. It was evidently packed in lime by the murderer." The almost total lack of odor shows the presence of lime in large quantities. They could make their deductions from that if the lime were not already very apparent to the eye.

Girl of 15 Tends Bar.

Following the statement of the expert, the taking of testimony of witnesses in the inquest began.

Annie Plese, the saloon keeper's daughter, was called first. In answer to questions of Foreman Owsley, she said she was 15 years old and tends bar sometimes for her father.

Last November, she said, 20 men made trouble in the saloon when her father was in Indianapolis. One of them slapped her face. Her father's friends in the place did not protect her, and the men walked out and fired a shot back at the saloon. They struck her mother before going.

In the testimony the girl spoke about Milo Clinton, who then lived near the saloon, who was said to have been one of the party who make the disturbance.

"Did you ever see Milo after that night?" she was asked.

"He came in the saloon sometimes," she said.

Anton Plese was sworn. Although he can make himself understood in English fairly well, he insisted upon having one of his boarders act as interpreter. The latter solemnly assured the jury he could not say anything that was "wrong."

When questions were asked of the interpreter, to be interpreted to Plese, the interpreter usually answered them himself.

Through this interpreter Plese told of the number of boarders, and how they came and went.

No Lime Put in Pool.

"What did you use lime for?"

"To whitewash my place."

"How much did you use?"

"Two barrels I bought; I only used one barrel."

"Did you ever put lime out there?"

"No, I never put any lime there."

"Did anybody else in your house ever put lime there?"

"No."

"There's no way to get back there, is there except through your saloon or house?

"No, that's the only way."

"So if lime was put there, it came from your house?"

"I suppose so."

Man Slapped Daughter.

"Do you know the man that slapped Annie's face?"

"She pointed him out once, but I would not remember him. He was on the street when Annie pointed him out. I don't think he has ever been in the saloon since then."

"What did you do to him for slapping Annie's face?"

"Nothing."

"Do you love your daughter?"

"Sure, I guess so."

"You love her and then let a man slap her face without doing anything?"

At this point the jury dismissed the witness temporarily.

Man Has Been Missing.

M. D. Harrod, who lives across the street, said in answer to questions: "There was a great deal of shooting over at Plese's. Shots were fired night after night. They fought quite frequently. I have noticed many people drunk. A man came out Sunday very drunk and lay down on the sidewalk across the street. Every week there is a shooting, fight or something. Along in January, one night about 10 o'clock, I heard a shot fired and saw men running."

Milo Clinton, testified about missing Joe Nellis. Clinton had been in a fight in Plese's place, when a man, possibly Nellis, slapped Annie Plese. Nellis answered, in a general way, the description of the dead man.

Nellis has been missing since three days after the fight in the saloon. When he left, he said to Clinton: "Can I have my clothes, Joe?" He took his clothes and had not been seen in Madison since. Where he went Clinton did not know.

Clinton thought the shoes looked like Nellis,' the hat did not look like that worn by Nellis. Nellis' forehead was high. The frontal bone of the skeleton was high.

Anton Plese was recalled to the stand, with Mike Gardick, a big labor boss, as interpreter.

Plese was asked more questions about lime.

Denies Putting Lime In.

"You can cut me up in pieces, if I did anything wrong," was his reply. "You can look me up in the old country. I was a soldier. My record is good."

"Did you ever put lime in the pool?"

"No, sir," emphatically. "I never put any lime there."

"Did you ever tell anyone to put lime there?"

"No, I did not."

"How did the lime get there?"

"I don't know. I didn't put it there."

"Who put the body there?"

"Don't tell me that question. You make me mad," he cried, waving his arms excitedly, his eyes snapping fire.

Plese, questioned along another line, said men never get drunk in his place and when they did get drunk he sent them home. He put one man to bed once, he said.

"Anybody ever fire pistols off in your place?" Owsley asked him.

"No."

In two years and seven months?"

"Yes, only two barrels."

Girl Interrupts.

"Did you talk to Annie and your wife about filling in the pool?"

"Yes, I wanted it filled up."

When his daughter, standing just outside the door heard the question and answer, she rushed in.

With face flushed, the child spoke in her own language to her father.

He, too, became excited and waved his arms.

"What did she say?" he demanded of the interpreter.

Plese said something in his own tongue to Gardick, the interpreter, and looked menacingly at home.

Gardick shrugged his shoulders. When pressed for an interpretation of the girl's remark, he said:

"She told her father not to say he wanted the pool filled; to say he wanted the cellar filled."

The girl afterwards explained that she wanted her father to be calm and not say anything that was not true—anything to injure himself. She said she cautioned him, but did not tell him what to say.

Annie was recalled and asked if she had told Mrs. Voorhees, wife of the Deputy Coroner, that her father wanted the place filled in. She said she had not made any such remark. She said her father said he wanted the cellar filled in. The jury's report was then made.

SENATE DEFEATS 4TH COMMANDMENT

Offered as Amendment to Rate Bill and Is Voted Down.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—In the mist of its other trials and tribulations the Senate has shown to an amazed world that it, collectively, does not know the Tenth Commandment from the fourth. More than that, the Senate stolidly voted against the Fourth Commandment as an amendment to the rate bill.

The Fourth Commandment was the last amendment offered before the rate bill was pronounced completed so far as the Senate, acting in Committee of the Whole, was concerned. It was proposed by Mr. McLaurin of Mississippi, who had completed an earnest plea for a long and short haul provision in the bill.

"I suppose," said Mr. McLaurin in disgust, as his amendment was defeated, "that this Republican Senate would vote down the Lord's Prayer if offered as an amendment."

Mr. McLaurin said he would give the Senate an opportunity in this direction, as he would propose a portion of the Tenth Commandment as an amendment. He submitted an amendment prohibiting the running of all trains engaged in interstate commerce between the hours of sunrise and sunset on the Sabbath day. Repeating again that this was based on a portion of the Tenth Commandment, Mr. McLaurin read several verses from the twentieth chapter of Exodus, in which work of all kind was forbidden on the Sabbath day.

"I want every Senator to realize," said Mr. McLaurin, "that in casting a negative vote he is voting against the Tenth Commandment—remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." Mr. McLaurin said that he desired ayea and nay vote on this proposition in order that every Senator might go on record.

It became apparent that not one member of the United States Senate is familiar with the Commandments. No one disputed Mr. McLaurin's repeated assertion that he was dealing with the Tenth Commandment, whereas his provision was applicable to the Fourth Commandment.

Several Senators made inquiries as to whether the running of trains on Sunday violated the Commandments and Mr. McLaurin replied: "That is what Moses said, and I want to give Moses a fair chance." The amendment was rejected without a division.

REPORT RAILROAD HEAD TO RESIGN

Coal Mine Probe May Lead Cassett to Quit the Pennsylvania.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 17.—Reports that Alexander J. Cassatt has determined to resign the presidency of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., in consequence of the disclosures in the railroad and coal mines investigation, yesterday reached the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It is said that before leaving for Europe last week Mr. Cassatt told some of his closest personal friends that he has been grossly deceived by his subordinates concerning the actual acts and conditions in the management of the company. He had relied upon statements made to him which, in the light of recent developments, have proved false.

It appears that at the conference held at Broad Street Station some days before President Cassatt left for Europe, Francis S. Gowan, general solicitor of the Pennsylvania Railroad, having had placed before him all the evidence of discrimination and crookedness, said but one course was open That was, he said, not to attempt to disprove the harsh facts, but accept them as found.

Bitter as the dose would be, counsel said that officers of the company called by the commission as witnesses must tell the truth and not seek to deny what would be proved.

Railroad Men "Bought."

After several prominent officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad who directly control the disposition of the cars, had confessed before the Interstate Commerce Commission to accepting gifts of money and stock from the big coal mining companies, John M. Jamison of the Jamison Coal and Coke Co. told how he had bought favors in this way by judicious subsidizing of railroad men.

He said that through J. R. McGinley of Pittsburg, Robert Pitcairn, now assistant to the president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and formerly connected with the Pittsburg division, had received an offer of 500 shares of stock in the Jamison company. Mr. Pitcairn did not want the stock, however, and the witness had bought it back from him for 5000. He had been told by Mr. McGinley that Mr. Pitcairn said he preferred the money to the stock.

"Why was this stock offered to Mr. Pitcairn?" the witness was asked.

"I believe Mr. McGinley considered him a good man to have in the company because of his railroad connections," replied Mr. Jamison.

The witness was asked if he held any stock in trust. He replied there were 400 shares in his name which belonged equally to Edward Pitcairn, trainmaster of the Pittsburg division, and R. L. O'Donnel, general superintendent of the Buffalo and Allegheny Valley division. This had been presented to the men named.

Asked if there were any other railroad officials who held stock in the company, Mr. Jamison said George W. Clark, car distributor in Altoona, Pa., had 100 shares and Joseph Boyer employed in the office of A. W. Gibbs, superintendent of motive power of the Pennsylvania, had 200 shares.

George W. Creighton, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad division in Altoona, said for a number of years the ratings and percentages of the various coal companies was regarded as confidential. He was asked how it was possible under these conditions for a coal company to know whether it was receiving its proper supply. He replied that it was not possible.

He admitted under fire that he owned stock in a number of coal companies, the shares having been presented to him while he was in charge of the distribution of cars over the division on which the mines are located.

"THANK YOU," FOR JAIL.

Old Man Grateful for Effort to Reform Him.

Edward Fariman of Argenta, Ark., a carpenter, 70 years old, arraigned Thursday in the Court of Criminal Correction on a charge of stealing carpenters' tools, pleaded guilty.

"I don't know why I took them," he said. "I never did anything like that before. I had been on a spree and I guess I didn't know just what I was doing."

"I am going to send you to Jail for 70 days, Fariman," said Judge Moore. "I am not doing that so much to punish you as to give you the benefit of medical treatment. You still show the effects of your spree. Probably if you are kept away from whisky for a couple of months and given stimulating medicine it will straighten you up."

"Thank you, Your Honor," said Fariman.

A Good Test.

From the Detroit Free Press.

"Do you really think this medicine will cure your dog's cough? asked the friend.

"Oh, yes," said the other. "I tried it on my husband, and it cured him."

GRANDMA WON'T BE TRADED BACK TO OLD HUSBAND

Mrs. Jackman Balks Plan of Wife-Swappers for a Readjustment.

MOSBY TOO FINE TO LOSE

"I Love Mosby and Mosby Loves Me, That's Enough," She Says.

OTHERS WOULD RE-TRADE

Young Mrs. Mosby in Particular Wants to Return to First Husband.

Fred L. Jackman, the laborer of 1218 N. Seventh street, who traded wives with Theodore M. Mosby, the Shelby County, Illinois, farmer, wants to trade back. Mosby is willing. Mrs. Mosby, his pretty wife, 20 years old, is willing. But Mrs. Jackman, 40 years old and a grandmother, is most decidedly not willing.

Mrs. Jackman blames her husband and Mrs. Mosby for first suggesting the interchange of helpmeets. But after it was consummated, she says, she learned to know what manner of man Mosby is, and now she can't love anybody else. If ever she does return to Jackman, she says, it will be in the capacity of a hired housekeeper, in order to afford means of support for the children.

Temporarily Mrs. Jackman is living with four of her nine children in Jackman's rooms at the North Seventh street address. The children she has with her are Delia, Freddie, May and Myrtle, ranging in age from 13 to 2½ years. To a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday she explained her attitude toward the proposed marital readjustment.

"When Jackman and Mrs. Mosby decided they wanted to live together," she said, "they left Mosby and me orphans, as it were. What was more natural than that we should try to find consolation in one another?

"The plan was Jackman's suggestion, anyhow, that Mosby and I should live together. I learned in a little while what kind of man Mosby was. I never had anybody treat me better in my life. He protected me and cared for me just as if I was a baby.

Mrs. Jackman Quotes Bible.

"Now I love Mosby and I believe he loves me. Why should we give each other up just because Jackman and Mrs. Mosby are tired of the bargain? There ain't any question that Jackman wants me to come back. And I guess from what se says Mrs. Mosby wants to go back to her husband But there's four persons to be consulted in the business.

"If Mosby wants to take Mrs. Mosby back, and she wants to go, then I will not lay a straw between them. Everything in the Bible goes to show that anybody who tries to meddle with married folks will be punished. If Mosby wants her back he can have her. But I wouldn't come back to Jackman to stay even then unless I had to in order to support the children. And even then it would only be as his hired housekeeper. I never will really be his wife again.

"Jackman was so anxious to see the children that I brought them down here to him. I have been for 10 days with my married daughter at 5915 Fyler avenue and Jackman didn't know I was in town. But I got word that he was longing for the children, and so I brought them to see him.

"Then he begged me to stay. I consented to stay a day or two and put this place in order for him. Been cleaning up all morning. But I don't expect to stay regular. Not me."

Press dispatches from Pana, Ill., where Mosby is in jail on a charge of bigamy, tell of an exciting chase by the authorities after Mrs. Mosby. She went to Tower Hill, seven miles from Pana and near the Mosby farm, expecting to stay there until Mosby was set free and then join him. A friend warned her she was in danger of arrest. At almost the same time Assistant State's Attorney Springstun learned that she was in Tower Hill and began arranging for her capture.

Mrs. Mosby's Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Mosby drove to Pana, intending to board a fast train east. She heard of Springstun's preparations and took an earlier slow train. Springstun telegraphed ahead to Shelbyville. but the message arrived too late for the officers there to arrest Mrs. Mosby. Then he wired to Charleston, but when police there boarded the train Mrs. Mosby was not on it. It is supposed she left the train at Mattoon and took another for Indiana, where her family lives.

E. F. O'Farrel, the attorney who drew up the remarkable contracts of separation and common-law marriage for the two couples, will be tried Saturday on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, preferred by Mosby, who says O'Farrel told him the contracts were good. O'Farrel says Mosby misunderstood the word "void" to mean "good."

Mr. and Mrs. Jackman received a letter Wednesday night from R. C. Neff of Shelby County, who is in charge of the prosecution of Attorney O'Farrel, urging them to be present Saturday to testify against the lawyer. The letter promised immunity from arrest if they would be present. They expect to go.

FAMILY TREE IS FOUND.

Mrs. Thoms K. Niedringhaus, wife of the chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, Thursday had returned to her a suitcase lost Wednesday night on an Olive car. The suitcase contained documentary history of Mrs. Niedringhaus' family and ancestors, the Johnsons of Maryland avenue and the Burgesses of Virginia, which she prized highly.

S. L. Rogers, a clerk at Moeller's drug store, 3150 Laclede avenue, found the suitcase when he boarded an east-bound Olive car at Garrison avenue, and, after inquiring s to it sownership from several passengers, took possession of it. He opeend it on returning home, found a letter addressed to Mrs. Niedringhaus, and telephoned her.

WIFE DISGUISED AS A PEDDLER TRAPPED MAN

Mrs. Morrison Waited All Night in Store to Get Divorce Evidence.

NOT RECOGNIZED BY HIM

Says She Hopes Revelations in Suit Will Not Injure Him.

SHIELDS OTHER WOMAN

But She Does Not Believe Former Husband Will Marry Again.

Mrs. Jessie B. Morrison of Kirkwood, her hair gray from the grief of a husband's neglect, procured evidence which enabled her to get a divorce by disguising herself in widow's weeds and as vegetable seller and shadowing him and the "other woman" three weeks. Now that she has her divorce she does not speak harshly of him or of the woman who broke up their home.

Mrs. Morrison told a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday that she hoped the divorce proceedings would not injure her husband, for his own sake, because he would still have to support their four children.

She was granted a divorce from Samuel Edward Morrison in the Circuit Court at Clayton Wednesday, and obtained the custody of her children also.

"My husband," said Mrs. Morrison, "first grew cold towards me a year and a half after our marriage. He didn't seem to care for me or the children at all. He gave me very little money and always grumbled about paying the bills, though he was making a good salary in a St. Louis jewelry house.

"He stayed out so late at nights that I thought he was gambling. He would not tell me why he stayed out. At last I went to the head of the firm and asked him what was the matter with Mr. Morrison.

Followed Them to House.

"He told me there was another woman, a stenographer in the store. I had suspected as much, and now I determined to see for myself. I first hired a detective, then I decided to be one myself, and one evening I dressed as a widow, and with the detective and my father, who always accompanied me, I followed them to a house on Olive street, near Seventeenth.

"Another time when I followed them to the same place I was dressed as an old country woman. I carried a basket, as if I was peddling vegetables.

"My husband and the stenographer went to the house about 8 p. m. that time. She came out about 7:30 the next morning and soon after he followed. He came across the street to a cigar store where I was standing.

"He left some washing and paid a bill, but he did not penetrate my disguise.

"That was nearly seven years ago. When I had satisfied myself of his conduct, I went to our home near Tower Grove Park, left a note for my husband, and with my children came to Kirkwood, where I have since lived with my parents.

"A year ago my husband treated me disrespectfully when I went to see him about the children, until then I would gladly have gone back to him. Since then I decided to obtain a divorce. I studied over it a long time, and if every woman pondered and prayed as I did over the thought of going to the divorce court, there would be fewer divorces.

Doesn't Expect Marriage.

"The other woman's name slipped out while I was testifying yesterday, but no one understood it and I said then that I would not repeat it. Maybe there were conditions which made her act as she did. Maybe she had a stepmother. Perhaps she may some day want to reform. I don't think my former husband will marry her, and that may make her realize her position.

"I am worried because the court did not grant alimony as I asked, but left that for the attorneys to settle. The Judge said he would fix the amount if the attorneys could not agree. Mr. Morrison has offered me $40 a month to clothe and feet four children, and to pay a debt of $611 for two years' house rent to my father and for other things for which he has not paid. I refused it.

He has given me only $200 in the last 16 months for our children.

"We were married in 1890. I lived with my parents then in St. Louis, and was teaching in the Franklin School. For a year and a half he was all any woman could expect, and then the change came.

Proud of Leaving Him.

"Since we separated—I am proud that I left him, because I would not live with a man who did as he did—I have asked him to come and see the children, to visit them at Christmas time, but he has refused.

"Our children are between the ages of 7 and 14. We had five children, but one died.

"Yesterday was the first time I was ever in court. I was frightened, yet it was very interesting. All the women acted very ladylike and the Judge gave them their divorces just as they wanted them."

Morrison was formerly manager of a large diamond and jewelry house, and Mrs. Morrison says she signed away her dower in $4500 worth of property that he might have money to start in business for himself. He is 43 years old. He did not appear at the trial, but his attorney was present.

VOTING WAS HEAVY.

Typographical Union Has Not Yet Completed Count.

After counting ballots from 7:30 Wednesday evening until noon Thursday members of Typographical Union No. 8 in charge of the annual election of officers of the organization announced that the count would probably be completed sometime Thursday afternoon. Nearly 1000 votes were polled and the length of the ticket makes the counting difficult. At noon it was stated that J. A. Jackson was somewhat ahead of J. J. Dirks, the opposing candidate for president.

Harry Sharpe, candidate for secretary and treasurer, was well ahead of Charles H. Ross. Of the 13 candidates for the four delegates to be sent to the International Convention at Colorado Springs John G. Knight and George W. Wilson were said to be leading.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CARLISLE THURSDAY.

MRS. MARY L. CARLISLE.

Mrs. Mary L. Carlisle, who died Tuesday at 5 p. m. in her eighty-seventh year will doubtless be remembered by many of the old-time St. Louisans. Her funeral will be Thursday afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. James B. Austin, 7039 Horner avenue.

She, with her husband, David Carlisle, left Philadelphia, and settled in St. Louis in 1838. Mr. Carlisle died during the cholera plague in 1850. He was formerly a member of the firm of Carlisle, Peck & Barnett, builders. They erected the first planing mill in St. Louis and built the old shot tower, just taken down, on the river front.

Mrs. Carlisle was a lifelong Methodist, being one of the original members of the Centenary M. E. Church when it was built in 1844. She is survived by a sister, Miss Harriet Court; Samuel S. Carlisle of Seattle, formerly Minister of Bolivia under Cleveland; James L. Carlisle, formerly Postmaster of St. Louis; David Carlisle, Frank C. Carlisle, Mrs. James B. Austin and Mrs. John W. Larimore.

The following grandsons will act as pallbearers: J. Carlisle Martin, Prof. George N. Martin, David Carlisle, Samuel S. Carlisle, James B. Austin, John L. Carlisle.

Her oldest daughter, Mrs. John G. Martin, died 1897.

GIRL INJURED BY BLAST AT QUARRY

Alton Manager Arrested After Firing of Shot Which Frightened Many.

Six houses were damaged, two women was hurt by a shower of rock thrown high into the air by a blast at a quarry Thursday morning in Alton. The president and manager of the quarry company has been arrested. He says that the charge of dynamite used was not excessive, but that it was planted in loose rock.

The accident occurred at the Reliance Quarry at Seventh and Alby streets, Alton. The quarry is about 75 feet deep, and numerous houses surround the top of the opening. A heavy charge of dynamite had been planted in a side of the qurry and it was discharged about 9 a. m.

Volcano Seemed to Rise.

Instantly a volcano was apparently formed. A shower of bowlders and chunks of rock was thrown high into the air, and in all directions for a distance of more than a hundred yards.

Mrs. Anna Yearger was ironing in her kitchen at 1715 Alby street. A huge fragment of stone went through the coal shed in the rear of the house, penetrated the wall and struck the end of the ironing board.

Mrs. Yeager fainted and was unconscious for an hour. Dr. Worden was called and he said that the woman was suffering from shock, and that her condition was serious.

Mrs. John Lawton, next door, was also frightened by a rock that crashed into her dining room.

Marie Smith, 6 years old, was playing in the street. A piece of rock struck her hip and inflicted a painful injury.

Edward A. Herman, president of the Reliant Quarry Co. and manager of the quarry, was arrested immediately after the blast.

MORMONS ARE TO RETIRE FROM BUSINESS LIFE

ROAD SOLD FOR $500,000

COMMERCIAL REVOLUTION

Change Will Profoundly Affect Political and Social Life of Utah.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 17.—The Mormon church is going out of business, according to a local morning paper. Its principal holding in Salt Lake, the Utah Light and Railway Co., is to be taken over by a $25,000,000 corporation composed of English and American capitalists. The new company will also acquire the Ogden street railway and build an electric line from Juab County, Utah, to Oneida County, Idaho.

It will be known as the Intermountain Consolidated Railroad Co., and will be incorporated both in Utah and Idaho. The board of directors will include H. H. Vreeland, New York City; Baron d'Oissel, Paris; Sir Thomas Jackson, London; William G. Rathbone, Manchester, England; Alexander McKenzie, Ottawa, Canada; Henry Dupont, Paris; Beresford Hope, London, and a number of Utah men, among them Gov. John C. Cutler. The enterprise will be financed through the Intermountain Trust Co., incorporated in Utah and Idaho a few days ago.

Simultaneously the announcement is made that the Salt Lake & Los Angeles Railroad, another church property, has been sold to a local syndicate for $500,000. This road is 13 miles in length and runs from the city to the lake.

President Joseph F. Smith of the Mormon church, is quoted as saying that the divorce of religion from business is made on account of the fact that the Mormons whom the church sought to protect years ago no longer need the protection of the church in business affairs. The church entered business to assist converts and strangers belonging to the church, but as they are now on a firm footing the church withdraws from business entirely.

If this policy is completely carried out the sale of the traction interests will be followed by the sale of stocks in banks, sugar factories, the great Z. C. M. I. department store and many smaller enterprises. It will be nothing less than a commercial revolution which will profoundly affect the political and social life of the State.

THE BOND ISSUE CAMPAIGN.

Chairman Forman of the Citizens' Campaign Committee has made an excellent selection of men representing all elements of voters for the Executive Committee which will have charge of the bond isssue campaign.

The right sort of a campaign cannot be conducted without a fund for the legitimate expenses of meetings, postage and other needs. This should be supplied by the citizens interested in the progress of St. Louis. Certainly the men who do the work should have the liberal support and aid of citizens for whose benefit they are giving their time and energy.

The first big popular rally for the bond issue will be held at Forest Park Highlands Saturday afternoon and night..

Others will be held in different parts of the city. These rallies should be well attended. If public-spirited citizens put their shoulders to the wheel in this campaign June 12 will mark a big stride forward for St. Louis.

SHAW ON "FIGUREHEADS."

In his conclusions on the Government service as it affects character, Secretary Shaw covers the whole ground. If he is right, then those who are fit for the class life of the army, the navy or the civil service are fit for little or nothing else. He does not expect them to die of overwork; he would "cheerfully go a thousand miles to see the grave of one of them who has died of overwork," but no matter how long they live, he thinks they will never develop individual character enough to be fit for life except as it belongs to "holding positions."

It would be easy to make out a long list of eminent Americans, educated for the army and navy, who are admired for character as well as for results in the making of history. If Secretary Shaw had been more accurate he would have been less sweeping, but he seems to have been anxious to drive home the idea that those who expect to live all their lives on public pay must accept it at the heavy expense of giving up freedom to live their own lives in the self-supporting independence which has done most to make greatness for American character.

There is so much truth in this that Secretary Shaw can well afford to make a better and more intelligible statement of it. If living on Government pay makes "figureheads" of those who do it all their lives he ought to tell why. If he means that the smaller the number of Americans who belong to official classes, military or civil, the better for themselves and the country, then he ought to say so in a way that will make his meaning unmistakable.

GRACIOUS AND NECESSARY.

The beginning of the hot weather is a reminder that the gracious and necessary work of the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund must be resumed with all possible activity. Owing to the generosity of Post-Dispatch readers and other charitable persons, a sufficient fund was raised last year to continue the distribution of pure milk through the winter season. But the fund is now exhausted, and the large demands of the summer months must be met.

Last year $8609.41 was raised for this charity. Twenty distributing stations, under the general management of the commission, were kept open. An average of 250 babies were fed with the pasteurized milk daily, representing 8698 gallons of milk, put up in 273,252 bottles. To keep this milk sweet and fresh in the distributing stations, wagons and homes, 228,000 pounds of ice was used—all paid for out of the fund.

This work was instrumental in saving the lives of a great many infants, according to the testimony of the medical experts connected with the Pure Milk Commission, who found that the use of the specially prepared milk absolutely prevented sickness in cases where babies were fed with it before becoming unhealthy, while the mortality among those who were fed with it after contracting the sickness peculiar to infants in hot weather was greatly reduced.

The Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund has become a permanent branch of the good work for the amelioration of suffering and death in St. Louis. This year the King's Daughters will co-operate with the Pure Milk Commission, the Provident Association and other charitable organizations in making it a success. It is hoped to maintain at least as many distributing stations as formerly, and to make such increases as may be found necessary. Last year practically all families who needed the help of this charity were supplied with the pure milk. There should be no falling off in the support so urgently needed.

The Post-Dispatch will receive and acknowledge all funds sent to it for this charity. Even a few cents may help to save life.

In "Fenwick's Career" Mrs. Humphrey Ward sends Phoebe Fenwick to "a fruit farm in the Hamilton District, Ontario," where she finds employment as a housekeeper. "It was an apple farm, running down to Lake Superior." As Lake Superior is a little matter of four or five hundred miles from the Hamilton District of Ontario, the farm must have been an extensive establishment. Little wonder that Phoebe "was so dead tired at night sometimes" that she would not undress, and "would sit down on the side of my bed to rest my feet."

CHAIRMAN EVANS AND THE PASS.

The protest of Chairman Evans of the Democratic committee against the decision of the railroads not to give passes to the delegates to State political conventions is an astounding utterance from the leader of a great party. Mr. Evans denounces the action of the railroad managers as unjust to the party and as "snap judgment," which will work to the disadvantage of the party by depriving the delegates of the means of transportation to the convention. He prophesies that not more than a third of the delegates will attend the conventions.

This is a practical admission that there has been an understanding, if not an alliance, between the railroad interests and the Democratic party of the State, by which the railroads were expected to take care of the party transportation. How else can the charge of injustice and snap judgment be explained? But railroads do not give something for nothing—what is the railroad compensation? The question is unnecessary, in view of the record of the old Democratic machine. But better things were expected of the new reform organization.

But this amazing interview is an admission on the part of the State chairman that the party cannot get along without railroad assistance. It cannot hold a successful convention unless the railroads supply the delegates with free transportation. The boys will not pay their way for patriotism.

What is perhaps more astonishing than these damaging admissions is the open advocacy of the policy of railroad pass subsidies for the State Democratic organization from the leader of the organization which represents the Folk element of the Democracy. The policy of passes for party delegates is a violation of the spirit, if not the letter, of the constitution. It is in direct opposition to the public policy of Gov. Folk, who has denounced the pass in politics as an abomination and has announced his determination to eliminate the railroad influences in the Legislature and in the party organization and conventions.

What shall we understand by this advocacy of the railroad pass on the part of the Governor's lieutenant? Does he believe that the Governor's public attitude towards the railroad influence is mere "guff" and demagogery, not to be taken seriously? If Democratic reform means that the railroad influence in politics is merely to be denounced, but not eliminated; if the party leaders intend to "keep the word of promise to the ear and break it to our hope," the people should know it. If, as Chairman Evans intimates, the party is dependent upon the railroads for its existence, for the privilege of assembling in convention to nominate candidates for public offices and to determine its policies with reference to State government, then the party has outlived its usefulness.

THE SHOW AT THE COLISEUM.

Bishop Potter of New York is dissatisfied with Americans abroad. When he was in Rome a fellow countryman asked him: "What show is on at the circus?" The Bishop made out that the man was thinking of the Coliseum and thought there might be a "death-defying" performance on.

The Bishop is too exacting. He is also lacking in a sense of humor. And undeniably he is not up to date.

Perhaps this American was a St. Louis man. He had been accustomed to the dog shows, horse shows and baby shows at the Coliseum. He had attended the Democratic convention of 1904 and had watched the skaters roll round the polished floors.

Naturally when he heard the Romans had a Coliseum, he took it for granted there were good shows there. And if, in the back of his memory, there was something about bread and public shows and Christian martyrs and wild beasts, of course he was eager to see the modern Spartacus and the Numidian lions. With all his faults, the American, when he goes abroad, is still an American. He doesn't try to make people think he is a Briton or a Frenchman. And if he likes baby shows and horse shows at the Coliseum, he naturally wants to see if the Romans can show anything better at their Coliseum, which is in a condition almost as ruinous as ours here in St. Louis.

HUSBANDS AT $15,000,000

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH

A YEAR ago a spinster, self-supporting and perilously near to 40, announced to me that she would never marry a man who was not rich enough to keep a steam yacht.

"She'll be lucky if she gets one with a wheelbarrow," commented an unfeeling man who heard the boast.

And sure enough, six months later, she snapped up a youth without even a wheelbarrow, and has been nobly working for him ever since.

Boasting of this sort in woman is more or less common. It is also funny. But it is neither so common nor so funny as a similar and more pronounced tendency in certain men.

We are constantly surprised by announcements from persons whose matrimonial possibilities had never thrust themselves upon our consciousness, that no woman with less than $15,000,000 may even aspire to their hands.

The next thing we hear of them, to be sure, is that they have eloped with the boarding-house waitress. But, meantime, there is a certain irritating impertinence in their superfluous declarations of the invulnerability of their hearts save to golden keys.

Can we possibly, we anxiously ask ourselves, have given these masculine timid sparrows occasion to blight the budding tenderness in our own breasts that they might not later be compelled more brutally to suppress them?

But the consciousness of our own serene indifference soon lays the disturbing ghost of this self-suspicion, and all that remains to be solved is, Why do they insist on talking to us about it?

Possibly, we conclude, it is because they expect us to spread the glad tidings abroad that sighing heiresses may realize the debonair Tom is quoted at $15,000,000, the languorous, lotus-eyed Dick at $10,000,000, while the less-sought Harry may be had for a small trifle of $5,000,000.

It may be just a far-sighted press agenting of their charms and aspirations.

The waning hopes of the woman fortune-hunter are pathetic. But can they compare in color with the gradual withering on the vine of the unsuccessful pursuer of heiresses?

Time renders the woman desperate, and she compromises with Fate that refuses her a millionaire by taking an $18 clerk and being thankful to get him.

Not so the prize man. He lingers on in prim, fastidious old bachelorhood, refusing to cut rates, and always hoping for the divine daughter of Dives, who is to have the glorious privilege of paying his bills.

He is like nothing save that Cumaen sibyl who offered nine leaves to Tarquin the Proud, and when he refused them burned three and submitted the remainder at the same price, meeting his second refusal with the conflagration of three more, which convinced him of their preciousness and made him buy.

This prize man is rare, but he is infinitely amusing.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH KANSAS?

From the Kansas City Star.

In Topeka even the Salvation Army has adopted a sacred version of "Everybody Works but Father."

"How did you and your wife first meet?" an Atchison man asked of another. "We didn't meet," replied the meek little man, "she overtook me."

William Allen White thinks if the congregation labors with Brother Bent Murdock he may come through and testify. He thinks the Eldorado editor is on praying and interceding terms.

A man in Nemaha County was telling his friend about an acquaintance who has reached an entirely independent state. "He owns his own place, chaws his own terbacker and spits where he pleases," said the man proudly.

"Just as soon as a newspaper man's business begins to pick up a bit," says the Concordia Kansan, "and it looks as though he was going to get enough money ahead to buy a new suit of clothes, the Paper Trust and Type Trust hike the price of the goods he must buy and take it away from him."

"When a lot of Methodists get together they are as certain to tell yarns as a lot of horse traders," says the Atchison Globe. "But their yarns concern church matters. An old preacher tells about holding services one night when there was no choir. He asked a deacon to lead in song. The deacon started 'My Soul Be on Thy Guard, Ten Thousand Foes Arise,' but he pitched the tune too high, and only got as far as 'Ten Thousand'— when his voice gave out. A broker who had strayed into the church forgot himself, and thinking that he was on the Board of Trade, shouted: 'Too high! Start 'er at five thousand.' "

Ralph Tennal tells of a man in Sabatha who carries his own life insurance. "He has $2000 on certificate of deposit in a Sabetha bank," says the Sabetha Herald. "Instead of paying out money for life insurance his life insurance pays him $60 a year. He has carried this insurance 20 years, and it has paid him $1800 in interest and he still has his $2000."

STORIES TOLD IN WASHINGTON

To a Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Senator Tillman enriched the language Wednesday. In speaking of the men who echo the opinions of the President he said, "these claquecoos."

"What are they squabbling about in there?" asked a retired statesman of a friend who had walked out of the Senate chamber.

"Oh, they are quarreling over the amendment to the rate bill that prohibits the giving of railroad passes."

"The giving of railroad passes? A work of supererogation, sir and nothing more. Of my personal knowledge, nobody in these parts has had a railroad pass since Jan. 1 last."

J. Adam Bede made a speech at the banquet of the Piano Makers and Dealers, who have been in convention here. In speaking of presidential candidates he referred to Secretary Taft as "the upholstered candidate."

Twice, when the Senate had heard severe denunciations of the President in connection with the Chandler-Liar-Tillman-Bailey-Roosevelt imbroglio and was waiting for the next word, Senator Nelson of Minnesota has hopped up and diverted the thoughts of the Senate to other channels by moving that the pending amendment should be laid on the table.

"At last, said a man in the gallery, "we have discovered why Nelson is in the Senate. He is there to act as the human wet blanket."

A man came up the street last night from the piano men's banquet with his arms full of souvenirs, his pockets full of cigars and himself full of champagne.

"Had a lovely time," he said, "a perfectly lovely time. Sat near Vice-President Fairbanks and kept cool and comfortable all night."

After a conservative poll of the Senate, conducted with the minutest care, it has been deducted that the Roosevelt following in that body now consists of those redoubtable statesmen, Senator Allee of Delaware, the only jeweler there, and Senator Ankeny of Washington, who distinguished himself by discovering, from something he heard drop in the committee room, that Senator Morgan of Alabama is against a Panama canal.

"Yes," said a close observer of the Senate, "I am impressed with Demosthenes Dolliver of Iowa as a leader. He is a statesman who spends his entire time proving that the views he holds are not correct."

The Conductor Provides Boxing Gloves and Face Protectors, and Discussion of the Rate. Bill is Resumed.

Written for the Post-Dispatch

BY CLARK McADAMS.

"WHO'S what in Washington this morning?" asked the Boss Printer, sliding in at the card table.

"'All men are liars,'" said the Insurance Man, in a scriptual tone.

The Brakeman came in with the Base Burners, and the Conductor brought in boxing gloves and face masks for persons desiring to discuss the rate bill.

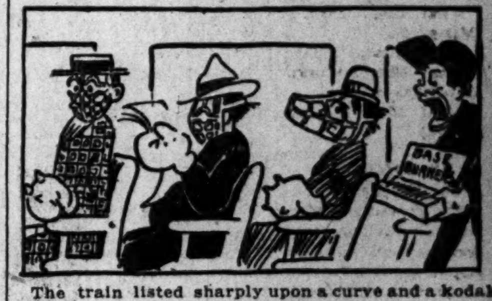
"No man can discuss this issue and keep his temper," the Conductor explained, "and our General Passenger Agent doesn't purpose having his passengers beat each other up like a lot of statesmen."

"Chandler says somebody is lying, but that, inasmuch as he is telling the truth, it wouldn't be respectful for him to say who it is," said the Insurance Man.

"Chandler is subtle," said the Boss Printer. "He reminds me of the man who was annoyed by cheating in an Arizona poker game. There was a one-eyed man sitting in the game. Pushing his chair back and knocking his six-shooter on the table, the annoyed Arizonian said: 'I don't want to cast no ondue reflections, but if somebody don't quit his cheatin' I'll shoot his other eye out.' "

The Brakeman brought out a lot of lead knucks, and tried to rent them for the down trip, but the passengers frowned upon the idea, and the knucks were thrown through the side door.

"At that," said the Wholesale Druggist, "I don't suppose they are any deadlier than your cigars."



The train listed sharply upon a curve and a kodak fell to the floor in the rear coach. To the amusement of nearby passengers, coffee ran from it, and the girl who owned it snatched it up in some embarassment.

"I wondered what she was doing with that kodak every day," said the girl with the Leslie Carter hair. "I've seen lunch boxes pretty ingeniously disguised, but that's a new one."

Something was going on in the smoker, and people in the second coach crowded out on the platform to peer in.

"They're at it on the rate bill again," said the Insurance Man, crowding out and making his way back toward the ladies' coach.

The Conductor hurried forward, but the storm had blown over when he reached the smoker.

"Nothing the matter, except that my mask is a little too small," said the Boss Printer, blowing a bit and smiling grimly.

"Make him apologize," said the Wholesale Druggist. "He called me a disseminated liar!"

"I only called him a rate bill liar," said the Boss Printer. "That isn't a really truly liar. He's all right on any other subject. I'm his friend, and just to prove it I'll play a five-spot on his ace." Which he did.

The train crept under the smoke blanket, and a moment later the Brakeman picked up his footstool and cried:

"St. Louis!"

C. & P.—In vegetable beds each withered patch marking the hiding place of cutworms should be dug over and the upturned worms killed; holes made with a hoe or rake handle furnish favorite hiding places by day and serve as traps to catch many. As a preventive, treat land early in spring with a mixture of lime and wood ashes. After plants have come up place along the rows at distance of 50 or 60 feet apart, small bunches of fresh-cut grass or other green plant which have been previously sprinkled with diluted Paris green or London purple. At night fields may be sprinkled with a dilute emulsion of kerosene.

FOR THE BOYS AND GIRLS

Games for the Home.

A good game from the kindergarten leads to accuracy and discrimination in the use of the senses. Several objects are grouped on a table; a child is blindfolded; one object is removed; the child tells which is gone.

When a number of children are playing together one of them may be sent from the room and the blindfolded child guesses which playmate has gone. For hearing, "magic music" is excellent, the child listening for the increased volume of music to tell him when he is approaching the hidden object. Or a blindfolded child may guess which of his playmates is singing or speaking to him. Or, having listened to a series of different sounds, for example, the ringing of a bell, the tapping of a stick, the striking of a note on the piano, the clapping of hands, he removes the bandage from his eyes, and himself repeats the sounds in the order in which they occurred.

An Appreciation of Carl Schurz.

From the New York World.

The romantic interest of Mr. Schurz's career may center upon his German escapes and adventures and his brief appearances, now long past, in the field of battle. His moral value to America lies in his worthy part as a citizen in public affairs. He was never a great partisan leader, because he was not born a partisan. But he was a great orator. Though he spoke in an acquired language we have not had a greater in recent years. Even as a writer few have surpassed him in vivid and virile English, though in recalling his own youth for his autobiography he returned in dictating to his mother tongue. These gifts of argument and of statement he largely owed to simplicity, to sincerity, to idealism. What he was he was, without claptrap or humbug. Even in his lighter moments he set in his love of music, of literature and the arts a gentle example in a raw and hurried land whose ideas of success are too much of the Gradgrind order.

The World on Sunday, in alluding to the public interest in Mr. Schurz and the general sorrow in his illness, pointed out how far his life of devotion to ideals outshone the trumpery success of a regiment of over-prosperous money-grubbers.

A Perching Bird.

Many persons wonder why it is that a bird or a chicken does not fall from its perch while asleep. The reason is that the tendon that runs along the leg and into the claws contracts when the bird assumes a sitting position, and thus keeps the claws in close contact with the perch. When in that position the bird has no control over its claws, and could not relax its grasp if it tried to do so, for the bent leg keeps the tendon contracted.

SOCIALISM IN AMERICA

What It Means.

Who's Afraid?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I will be surprised if you print this article for it contains the solution of the question at issue, and it is my candid opinion that the big newspapers are not seriously looking for the solution. However, I hope that I may be mistaken, at least in so far as the Post-Dispatch is concerned.

According to your last Sunday's editorial, "the whole problem" is that every individual may have free and full opportunity and may be protected in the fruits of his labor."

The only solution of the problem above stated is the conformation of our money system to the principle of equal rights—the basic principle of our government—in the only way in which it can be conformed thereto, namely, by making labor the standard of value.

In order to establish the labor standard of value, and thus guarantee to all citizens who desire it, an opportunity to labor and enjoy the full fruits of their labor, it will not be necessary to abolish private property nor prohibit either individual or corporate industry; it will only be necessary for the government to acquire, by purchase, suitable and sufficient lands and facilities for the purpose and establish a complete syetem of production and distribution of such proportions as will accommodate every citizen willing to serve, each in that capacity for which he or she may be best fitted, as many hours a day as may be necessary to produce, in the aggregate, an abundance of the various forms of wealth and perform the numerous services required by the citizens thus serving and those depending upon them, and pay every citizen in the service $1 for each hour s service, said dollar to be redeemed by the government in food, clothing and shelter, or in any form of wealth or service at the government's disposal.

This is not Socialism, for it does not promote the abolition of private property nor the prohibition of individual industry. Nor is it confiscation, for it proposes that the lands and facilities acquired shall be paid for. It is not despotism, for it does not propose to compel anyone to serve who is not willing to do so.

It is simply a proposition to really do what should have been done long ago — a proposition to conform our national account-keeping system to the fundamental principle of our government, in the only way in which it can be done that is, by making labor, the only thing which every citizen has to offer, the standard of value.

Home and Foreign Prices.

From the New York World.

John Sharp Williams has figured out the percentage of difference between the home and foreign prices on a number of familiar articles. The resultant tables are of interest.

The poor washerwoman, for instance. pays far more for her American washboard than the same article sells for abroad. The home wholesale price of the cheapest grade cited was in 1904, $2.40 a dozen, the export price only $1.50 a dozen. Black fencing wire sold at $2 and $1.25 for the same article at home and abroad respectively. Sashcord of a quoted make was priced at 28 and 20 cents a pound respectively. Coffee and spice mills, the kind that are screwed to the kitchen wall, are respectively 88 and 67 cents.

Muck-rake handles, in another list, show a difference of only 10 per cent between home and foreign discounts from list price. This is fortunate, as these articles seem to be in active home demand just now. Brass birdcages, not being strictly necessities of life, show only 8 per cent of difference. But the long saw that facetious lumbermen call a "briar" bears 53 per cent more discount in Norway than in Maine,

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

Twenty-Three for the Kiss.

There are four reasons why women no longer kiss each other, says the London Express.

1. It has been proved difficult for two persons wearing Gainsborough hats or their modifications to kiss.

2. The long flowing veils of the moment become a tangled mass of chiffon or net and the large velvet spots with too rough treatment easily become detached.

3. Complexion, unless exceedingly well made, is apt to smear, and the powder easily rubs off, presenting a daubed effect.

4. The elaborate blouse and neck ruffles, with the multitudinous chains, etc., of modern dress decorations, are easily crushed and quickly lose their pristine beauty.

It is, therefore, considered bad taste to kiss in public, and so, since there must be some way of welcoming a friend, the manly handshake has come in.

About Women.

Miss Mary Offutt, the official notary and stenographer of the Governor of Alabama, administered the oath of office the other day to the new chief justice, Samuel D. Weakley. She is probably the first woman who ever swore in a chief justice.

A young woman who is shortly to be married received from her fiance an Easter egg of pure gold. By pressing a spring the egg was divided into halves and revealed a pendant of five diamonds resting on a velvet lining.

Mrs. Sidney Smith devotes all her bridge winnings to buying veils and gloves. This is said to be no small sum, as she wears more veils than any other woman in society except Mrs. Lorillard Spencer.

It is said that Boston women may be persuaded to wear anything, provided they can first be made to believe it is sensible.

Mrs. Mills and her daughters make it a rule to stick to one shape of hats, once they are sure it is becoming, no matter what changes may occur in styles.

Graduation Gifts.

A linen parasol with the initials embroidered in white thread.

A bottle of imported cologne with a spray of the flowers from which the perfume is made floating in the liquid.

A watch charm made of the class, fraternity or school insignia.

A pair of long gloves.

A fancy comb for the hair or a pair of jeweled hatpins.

A ring with the stones representing the colors of the school or college, hence green and white—an emerald and a diamond.

A set of gold blouse pins with the monogram cut.

A set of books by some favorite author or a new standard novel.

KAISER CABLES SCHURZ SYMPATHY

Prominent Americans Are Pallbearers at Funeral of Publicist Statesman Today.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—"Please convey to the family of Carl Schurz my sincere sympathy on the passing away of this eminent man who rendered his new home valuable services in war and peace and at the same time never denied the German blood in his veins."

This message from Kaiser Wilhelm was forwarded by Baron Von Sternberg, the German Ambassador at Washington, to Carl Lincoln Schurz, the son of Carl Schurz, who died Monday.

The funeral of Schurz will take place today. Dr. Felix Adler will conduct services at the home. Interment will be in the cemetery at Sleepy Hollow. Simple services at the grave are to be conducted by the Rev. H. B. Frisel, president of Hampton Institute, Virginia.

Memorial services may be held in Carnegie Hall next week. Carl L. Schurz said that such service had been suggested by several of the German societies and a committee from them may meet on Saturday night.

Many floral tributes received at the Schurz home yesterday included several sent by German societies and a large piece of palm leaves and lilies from Prince Henry of Prussia.

Those who have been invited to act as pallbearers are Charles Francis Adams of Boston; Joseph H. Choate, Dr. A. Jacobi, Horace White of the evening Post; Karl Buenz, German Consul General; John B. Henderson, formerly of Missouri, who succeeded Schurz in the Senate; Col. Silas W. Burt of the Civil Service Reform League; Gustave Lindenthal, president of the Arion Society; Richard Watson Gilder, Oscar S. Strauss, Edward M. Shepard, Max Wesendonck, Simon Wolf, Andrew Carnegie, Dr. Hans Kudlich, Major-General Julius Stahel, Edward L. Pretorius of the St. Louis Westliche-Post, in which Schurz was interested; Isaac N. Seligman, Udo Brachvogel and Horace E. Deming.

STATE WILL TRY CALEB POWERS

Federal Court Shirks Jurisdiction and Fourth Trial Will Begin Soon.

CINCINNATI, May 17.—Caleb Powers, now in the Newport, Ky., Jail, was yesterday ordered back to the custody of the Kentucky State courts, following the mandate of the United States Supreme Court. Powers will next be arraigned for his fourth trial for complicity in the murder of William Goebel.

Powers sought to have the case transferred to the Federal Court on the ground that he could not have a fair and impartial trial in the state courts. Attorney General Hays for the State, resisted the proceedings, and the question came up on the jurisdiction of the Federal Court after Judge Cochran had removed the case to his court and before the trial was begun. The Supreme Court sustained the contention of Gen. Hays, holding that there was no Federal question presented, and remanded the case.

Powers has been confined in jail since his arrest in March, 1900, and it is believed the testimony in his case in the three previous trials has made the most voluminous record in any case in the State's history. Powers has sought a second change of venue since his first change from Franklin to Scott, where the three trials have taken place, and will probably renew his motion on the calling of the case at a time to be fixed, probably in July.

COURT REVIEW HERE.

Interstate Commerce Commission Ruling Contested.

The validity of a decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be decided on by the United States Circuit Court in East St. Louis, June 18, when arguments will be made in the case of the Southern Railroad against the St. Louis Hay and Grain Co.

The commission ruled that the additional charge of 2 cents per 100 pounds to a through rate, when hay is brought through East St. Louis destined for points Southeast, was too high, and reduced the additional charge to 1 cent per 100 pounds. The Southern Railroad was ordered to refund $1572.08. This the road refused to do, and suit was instituted.

QUARRELED OVER GRAVE.

Mother Pays Fine for Disturbing Mourning Girl.

Mrs. Pauline Lohrum, who was fined for disturbing the peace of her dead son's former fiancee, Miss Mollie Vogel, has effected a compromise, and the appeal from the finding of Justice Campbell, which was taken to the Clayton Circuit Court, has been dismissed upon payment of a fine of $1.

Mrs. Lohrum's son was buried in a cemetery on Gravois road, in St. Louis County. December 10, 1905, Mrs. Lohrum and Miss Vogel met at the grave and a violent altercation followed. Mrs. Lohrum was taken to the Wyoming Street Police Court, but it was found that the Court had no jurisdiction, as the occurrence was in the county. Justice Campbell fined Mrs. Lohrum $25.

ARCHDEACON IS WANTED.

Rev. E. Duckworth May Supervise Missions.

The most important question before the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri, at its final session at Schuyler Memorial House Thursday, was the appointment of an archdeacon, to have charge of missionary work. The creation of this office seems assured after the subscribing of funds for the missionary departments of the Diocese at Wednesday's meeting. In past years it has been impossible to raise sufficient money to support an archdeacon.

It is understood that the place will be offerer to Rev. E. Duckworth, now rector of St. James Church, whose plain statement of the needs of the Diocese along missionary lines was largely responsible for the liberal subscriptions made. He has expressed a preference for continuing in regular parochial duties. Rev. L. F. Potter of Kirkwood is also mentioned for the office.

The motion to change the name of the Diocese from "Missouri" to "St. Louis" was introduced Wednesday and tabled.

Hair All Came Out and He Suffered Very Much—Under Doctor Three Months and No Better—Permanently Cured at Expense of $2.

CUTICURA REMEDIES WORK WONDERS

Mr. A. C. Barnett, proprietor of a general store in Avard, Oklahoma, tells in the following grateful letter how Cuticura cured him and his son of terrible eczemas:

"My little boy had eczema. His head was one solid sore, all over his scalp; his hair all came out, and he suffered very much. I had a physician treat him, but at the end of three months he was no better. I remembered that the Cuticura Remedies had cured me, and after giving him two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, according to directions, and using Cuticura Soap and Ointment on him daily, his eczema left him, his hair grew again, and neither he nor myself have had any eczema since.

As to his own case, Mr. Barnett says: "I suffered with eczema, a burning, itching, breaking out on my face for more than a year. I took treatment from physicians for several months, which did no good. I was then advised to try Cuticura. I took six bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and used Cuticura Soap and Ointment freely every day. I began to improve soon after starting to use them, and when I had taken the six bottles of the Resolvent my face had become clear, I had good color, and all eruptions had left me.

"We use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment in our family now for general use, and it keeps our skin soft and healthy. I cheerfully recommend the Cuticura Remedies for all cases of eczema. (signed) A. C. Barnett, Avard, Oklahoma, Mar. 30, 1905."

LOVE LETTERS IN PARTNER'S NAME

Partner's Wife Helps Woman to Get $10,000 Alimony Decree.

Mrs. Margaret J. Caldwell was granted $10,000 alimony and a divorce from Joseph S. Caldwell of 2700 North Grand avenue, by Judge McElhinney in the Clayton Circuit Court Thursday. Her petition charged infidelity and stated that they were married March 10, 1891, in Kansas City, Kan., and separated Jan. 9, 1906.

The wife testified that her husband was proprietor of a sale stable at 1319 North Broadway and that his income was between $1800 and $3000 a month. She said he neglected her for other women, whom he took out driving and to dinner in the evening, that sometimes he would deny that he had been out with other women, and again would acknowledge it, cursing and swearing and asking her what she was going to do about it. He also called her offensive names, she alleged.

Depositions were submitted from William Ester, a barber, and his wife, Grace, living in a flat at 206 Forty-first street, Chicago, in which they testified that a Mrs. Belle Palmer lived in the same apartment house, and that Caldwell visited her and paid her marked attentions, taking her out driving and frequently remaining with her as late as 3 a. m.

Mrs. Minnie J. Putnam of East St. Louis testified that Caldwell was cold and harsh to his wife, refusing to kiss her when she asked him to. Mrs. Putnam's first husband, she testified, was a business partner of Caldwell, who had letters from women to him addressed in Hildreth's name. They were love letters, she said.

CHINESE HERE ON PAPERS THAT SHOW FORGERY

Ceritificates of Dead Men Altered With Acid and Photograhps Changed.

CLERKS ARE INVOLVED

Use of Government Seal Indicates That Men in Washington Aided Frauds.

When the Federal and immigration authorities began an investigation some time ago into the case of Lee Ling, a young Chinaman against whom the charge of violating the immigration laws is to be heard Thursday afternoon, before United States Commissioner Chase Morsey, a startling scheme of fraud, participated in, it is said, even by Government authorities in Washington, was revealed. There is not much doubt that, with the evidence against him, Ling will be deported.

The fraud lies in counterfeit certificates issued to Chinamen entitling them to remain in America.

A certificate issued years ago to Chinamen who have since died or gone back to China to remain is so changed that it appears to have been granted to the Chinaman who possesses it when the authorities demand the presentation of this certificate. Acid is used to erase the name of the older Chinaman, the name of the younger is substituted and the younger Chinaman's picture is substituted for the photograph of the man to whom the certificate was originally issued.

Upon the arrest of Lee Ling several weeks ago by immigration authorities and after his hearing before Commissioner Morsey, when he exhibited his certificate, Assistant United States District Attorney Horace Dyer and Immigration inspectors began an investigation, believing that the certificate was fraudulent.

Photographs Changed.

Charles Key, the Chinaman allied with the Immigration Bureau and versed in the English language, has done much to aid the Federal authorities in such cases and he was chosen to go to Washington to look into the Lee Ling case, as the certificates are issued there.

A numbered stub is kept on file in Washington, supposedly corresponding in every detail to the certificate kept for inspection by the Chinaman to whom it is issued. Photographs are on the original certificate and on the stub as well.

Upon investigation it was found that the number on the certificate produced by Lee Ling had a counterpart in Washington, but the stub there contained the name of a Chinaman 50 years old, whereas Lee Ling's certificate states that he is the man to whom the right to remain in the United States was granted and that he is 20 years of age. The older Chinaman's photograph is on the stub while a good likeness of Lee Ling is on the certificate he produced.

Digging into the case further, Charley Key and others who were investigating returned to St. Louis and reported to the immigration authorities and to Dyer, who prosecutes the cases at the instance of the Government, that acid had been used to erase the name originally on the certificate.

Government Seal Used.

The photograph of the older Chinaman had been removed from the certificate held by Lee Ling and the latter's picture substituted after his name and age had replaced that of the older man. Acid marks are visible when the paper is held in the right position to the light.

The most startling discovery made was that the seal of the United States Government had been affixed a second time after Lee Ling's photograph and name and age had been substituted, showing, Dyer says, that some official who has access to the seal was in the fraud. Charley Key will leave for Washington after Lee Ling's trial is finished, and further investigations are on foot.

The names of Government officials being watched are withheld until District Attorney Dyer and his assistants can learn more of the facts in the fraud and decide what action will be taken.

Chinamen are said to purchase the fake certificates from men of their own race who are allied with men in Washington.

It is said that hundreds of Chinamen in St. Louis and all the other large cities in the United States have certificates of this kind.

The two photographs are to be used in the trial of Lee Ling Thursday and will then be held as evidence in further investigations by Government officials.

GRIEVED FOR HUSBAND.

Woman Tries to End Her Life After a Quarrel.

Mrs. Margaret Brown of 2722 North Garrison avenue, 39 years old, attempted to end her life by inhaling gas following a quarrel with her husband over their children and separation from him.

The odor of gas from Mrs. Brown's room was noted at 9 a. m. Thursday by her daughter, Margaret, 8 years old, who opened the door. It was not locked.

Mrs. Brown, fully clothed, lay prone upon the bed. The little girl, terrified, ran screaming to summon neighbors. The woman was taken to the City Hospital.

After the separation Mrs. Brown worried constantly over her husband's absence, and once made a report to the police that he was missing and she feared he had been murdered. She told physicians at the City Hospital when she regained consciousness that he had already taken two of the children from her, and that she did not know his whereabouts. He is a United Railway employe.

M'ALEER MAY GET TWO STAR PLAYERS

Raven Chieftain Has a Chance to Acquire Williams and Elberfeld of the New York American League Club, Whom Griffith Does Not Like.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—That a change in the personnel of the Highlanders is highly probable within a very short time is not denied.

"Kid" Elberfeld and Williams have been mentioned as particular stars who may be asked to play ball with another club. McGuire's name has also been circulated. There is no more competent shortstop in either league than Elberfeld when he wants to play ball exclusively. The fans may be wrong when they say the "Kid" is a troublemaker; but it is certain he is always in trouble.

Then, what can you expect from a player who, when he goes to the bat and is told by his manager to do a certain thing, curses the manager and deliberately does what he is told not to do? Elberfeld is the fastest, speediest and safest infielder in either league when he plays real ball, but it is significant that he has more errors on the official score book than any player in either league this season—and the official scorer is usually notoriously lenient about marking up errors. For instance, the fans Saturday credited Elberfeld with two errors. The official score shows only one, the one which presented the game to Cleveland.

Williams has been very busy, almost too busy to play ball. Griffith has stood much from him, but Saturday the limit was reached and Williams was benched after he had played half of one inning.

McGuire, once the best catcher in the country, has let Kleinow catch every game for more than two weeks. Kleinow is a great catcher, but he can't do the work of Hercules. He has been a hero in doing the work he has done.

So a change is expected, and, from what the fans around the American League Park say, it is coming very soon. Griffith had an interview yesterday with Frank J. Farrell, owner of the club. Propositions for trades were made to several clubs. It is definitely known that Detroit will not take Elberfeld back. Once he was the hero there, but now he gets more hisses than hand claps. It is possible that St. Louis may be able to do something with him. Chicago is understood to be bidding, and Boston may be in the field.

ARMY AND NAVY DENOUNCE SHAW

Object to His Remark That Men With Ideas Are Court-martialed.

ONLY JOKING, HE SAYS

He Meant to Say That Originality Is Not Encouraged.

By Wire from the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Secretary Shaw neglected to label as a joke his statement that officers of the army and navy have been court martialed for having ideas. Today the Secretary stated that he did not mean literally that men in the army were punished for putting forth ideas. What he meant to convey was that the military services does not encourage its officers and men to take the initiative.

When they enter the service they have ideas and endeavor to have them adopted. But after vainly trying to bring this about, and after failing a number of times, they are no longer troubled with ideas, but are willing to drift with the tide. Secretary Shaw said his statement was merely a figure of speech and was intended to be made in a jocular vein. But he aimed too high, and he will never joke with the army and navy again.

Army and Navy Indignant.

The Secretary has been roundly denounced in army and navy circles for his statement that a man in the army or navy with an idea was courtmartialed, and that the military service paralyzed individual effort. None of the officers of either branch of the service would permit themselves publicly to criticize a member of the Cabinet, but they did not hesitate to say privately that Secretary Shaw is badly mistaken, and that if he had made an investigation he would not have made his unjust charge against the army and navy.

It is pointed out that it is not true that an officer has ever been court-martialed for having an idea; on the contrary, some of them have been rewarded, a few of them by making fortunes out of their ideas. They declare that many of the latest devices now used in both the army and the navy are the inventions of officers serving the Government. Some of these inventions have made the American navy take the lead in many respects, and cause the other powers to come to America for ideas to improve the effectiveness of their armies and navies, and they are borrowing the ideas of army and navy officers.

WOMEN DRESSED IN MEN'S CLOTHES

Photograph Introduced in Slander Suit Brought by Landlady.

A little prank, in which five women, including the landlady, dressed up in men's clothes, "just for fun,," was introduced in evidence Thursday in the form of a picture in Mrs. Fannie Runa's slander suit against Michael Leflander.

Mrs. Runa, the central figure of the group, stood above the others. Her sister on one side and the other three boarders from Mrs. Runa's boarding house, 3100 Locust street, made a pretty picture. Mrs. Runa admitted the picture was taken out of doors and modestly confessed several men gazed her way when she stood before the camera.

Michael Leflander and his wife formerly boarded with Mrs. Runa. There was a divorce action in the Leflander family and Mrs. Runa was a witness.

Leflander, Mrs. Runa says, accused her after the divorce trial of testifying falsely. She believes he has said things about her in connection with that testimony that have injured her. She brought suit for slander. The case was on trial in Judge Fisher's court Thursday.

Lawyers Drabelle and Robinson, representing Leflander, presented the picture of the five women attired as men for the Judge's consideration. After it had been inspected, several questions about it were asked Mrs. Runa.

White With Sox Again.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 17.—"Doc" White, the pitcher of the Chicago club of the American League, who has been coaching the baseball nine of the midshipmen this season, will join his team at Washington today. He will stay with it during the series of three games in New York which follow, but expects to return to Annapolis for the week preceding the game with West Point on Saturday, May 26.

May Row at Henley.

It has been voted by the Harvard Athletic Association to allow the freshmen crew to participate in the American Henley regatta at Philadelphia, May 26, provided it wins the interclass event on Friday afternoon on the Charles River.

LEWIS AND GANS READY FOR RECONTRE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Joe Gans and Willie Lewis worked yesterday from early morn until sunset in preparation for their six round bout tonight in Madison Square Garden. It was the final hard days training for both of them. Today they will indulge only in light work to keep on edge.

Gans put in his last touches at No. 140 East Thirty-Second street and he was full of fight. He slammed two sparring partners around as if they were sawdust bags, and seemed to be a glutton for work. Lewis was at Johnson's Road House. He took on Terry McGovern twice, and the pair made things lively. Terry had an incentive in his coming bout with Britt for fast work and he led Lewis along at a telling clip.

Both Gans and Lewis expressed confidence in winning. Despite Gans' acknowledged ability Lewis believes he will defeat him. Willie has long sought a match with Gans and now that he has one forthcoming he is determined to make the most of it.

EASTERN PLAYERS FLOUT COLLINS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Members of America's team that challenged for the Davis international lawn tennis cup continued practice on the Crescent Athletic Club courts at Bay Ridge. The western player, Kreigh Collins, did not show any improvement and was early defeated in all of his matches.

So much opposition to practicing against Collins was developed that the round robin singles were abandoned and only the doubles will be continued. Despite this feeling that Collins has failed to show any form and that he would show to disadvantage against the experts of Austria, France and Australia and England, Collins sticks to his position on the team and says that he intends to sail with the others on Friday.

The official in charge of the team, who on Monday night declared that Collins would resign, said that it had been decided to allow Collins to go "if he wanted to."

Collins was defeated by Carl Behr in straight sets, 6—2, 6—3 and 6—2. Behr has never been classed with Collins. Later in the day Beals C. Wright won in straight sets from Collins at 6—1, 6—2 and 6—3.

The other singles brought Raymond D. Little against Frederick G. Anderson and Little won 2—6, 6—3 and 6—2. Wright played Ward a spectacular 6—4 set.

Hoey for Athletics.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 17.—Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics will win out in the three-cornered fight between the Boston Nationals, Boston Americans and the Athletics for the services of Jack Hoey, crack left fielder of the Holy Cross nine.

Hugh McBreen of the Boston Americans was here with Hoey last night, but the latter refused to sign a contract. This, his friends say, is because of the excellent offer made to him by Mack, who has watched his work for two seasons. They say he will join the Athletics at the close of the college season.

Hoey won't say anything. He was first noticed in 1904 because of fine outfield work, and through sticking ability is known as "Home Run Hoey." He lived up to his reputation in the game with Georgetown today.

'OCK KEYES 'AS FOINE LEFT 'AND

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—Hock Keyes, the champion lightweight of Australia, last night scored a victory on points over Amby McGarry of New York in a fast 20-round fight at the Tuxedo Athletic Club at North Essington, before a big crowd.

It was Keyes' debut in this country. He made an excellent impression, although he seldom took a chance by forcing matters. His right hand was idle in nearly every round except when he occasionally shot it straight to Amby's ribs or else upper-cut the New Yorker on the neck.

McGarry was the aggressor in every round. He was continually forcing the Australian, but unfortunately for him Amby was not only wild, but he was up against a very cool and clever youth. Besides this, Keyes found a way very early, not only to escape punishment, but also to administer it.

Hurst and Griffith Suspended.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—President Ban B. Johnson announced yesterday that he had suspended Umpire Tim Hurst and Manager Clark Griffith of the Highlanders for five days for indulging in a fight at New York recently. Griffith disputed one of Hurst's decisions and they came to blows on the field before the matter was settled.

President Johnson also announced the indefinite suspension of Kid Elberfeld for disputing decisions of the umpires.

Baseball Babble

Lumley, the Brooklyn right fielder, acts like a crackerjack, a rare specimen of the thick-set, sturdy, yet speedy athlete. He seems imbued with the very desirable quality of cerebral celerity, also with what, for want of a better name is known as baseball instinct.

The manner in which he plays a ball almost before it is hit is very pleasing to practiced eyes. He does not start with the proverbial term "crack of the bat," used to designate rapid fielding. He actually seems to start as the ball is pitched. Lumley hits in good style and seems to have a useful arm.

The flies lit on McCarthy Tuesday afternoon. He caught five of them within a radius of ten feet. To show he could do it, he made a long run for McBride's dangerous-looking smash to left center and helt it, though Maloney's head crashed into his face at the moment of contact.

Two curious coincidences occurred in Tuesday's Cardinal-Brooklyn game. Batch muffed Raub's easy foul, then threw the rattled receiver out on the next ball pitched. Lewis missed Shannon's easy one in the ninth, but got him on Smoot's force on the next play.

Arndt is playing grounders blindly. The diamond at League Park is not smooth and true, and the third baseman goes at them as if he feared for his face on a bad bound.

When Taylor was hit for two singles and a double after two men were gone in the fifth inning at League Park Tuesday, some spectators cried: "Take him out!" It may interest these gentry to know that Jack has never yet been knocked off the slab in a major league lamfest. He has been hit hard now and then, but, strange to say, it has been his fortune to have the other pitcher commensurately punished on such occasions. He lost to Powell 21-19—a handball score some years ago—but was always close up during the game. This is a rare record for a veteran pitcher and one of which Taylor is very properly proud.

On ordinary plays McBride is as good a fielder as Wallace. It is on extraordinary or unusual chances that the Cardinal falls down. This ability to cope with the odd, unexpected and unusual is, by the way, the only and exact difference between a first and second class man.

Arndt is batting excellently and is doing the hitting of the hit and run play as well as any man alive.

If all flies came to him as five did to McCarthy at League Park Wednesday, Schulte of the Chicago Cubs would be a great outfielder. The blond boy is the town pump of outfielders. Any ball that does not drop within two feet of his standing position belongs to someone else.

Nealon, the Californian who plays first for Pittsburg, is a champion hand ball player at the regulation game.

Marshall, McCloskey's recently acquired outfielder has been a bookmaker's clerk for the past year and has played ball not at all. He is a home-run hitter.

Dates for Davis Matches.

Dates for the challenge matches for the Davis International Lawn Tennis Cup and the schedule of the contests were announced by the English National Lawn Tennis Association at its recent meeting. The first day, Friday, June 15, will place the doubles match on the Wimbledon Court with the Doherty brothers defending against the pair of the nation, winning the preliminaries which includes the United States, France, Austria and Australia.

Saturday, June 16, and Monday, June 18, will be devoted to the singles.

Stovall Sold to Blues.

President Lennon of the St. Paul club has announced that Manager Padden has sold Pitcher Jesse Stovall to the Kansas City club.

Stovall is an excellent slab artist and will add considerable strength to the Kansas City team, which is comparatively weak in its pitching department.

Charles Ferguson today asked Manager Padden for his release, stating that he wanted to rest this year and go umpiring.

Padden will probably grant Ferguson his wish in a few days, as soon as his other pitchers get into form.

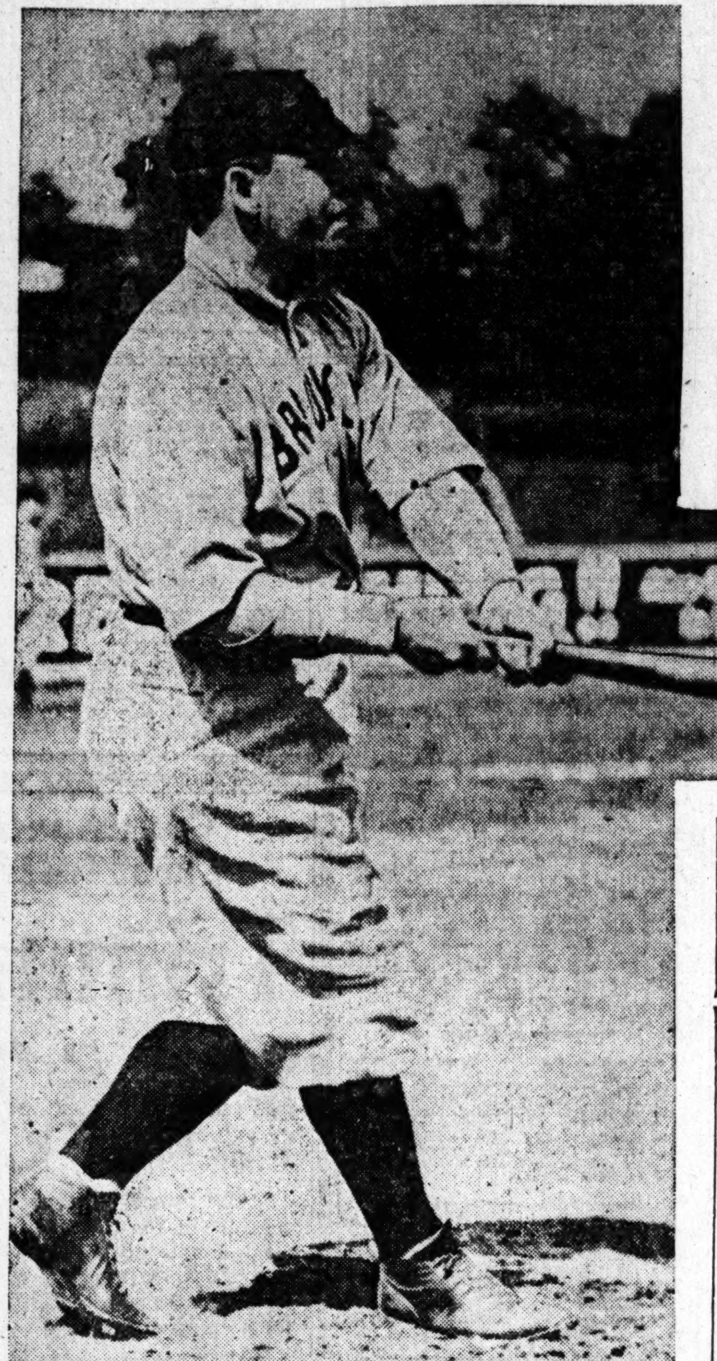
Big Welcome Planned.

NEW YORK, May 17.—On their return from Athens the American Olympic team will be given a big reception here, plans for which are fast being pushed toward completion.

It has been arranged for a steamer to meet the athletes down the bay, and about May 25 a banquet is to be given in their honor.

Rickey of the Ravens is by all odds the star of this year's major league matriculators. The Post-Dispatch saw him first, and before he played a game.

Brooklyn's Brilliant Young Outfielder



ARTHUR LUMLEY.

RYAN RHAPSODIZES SHERIDAN'S SUCCESS

Jovial Jester of Southern Hotel Drops Into the Vein Poetic When Thinking of the Great Victory America Achieved at the Olympic Games.

Between calls of "Front," handshakes and jokes John J. Ryan, the jovial jester of the Southern Hotel jotted down the following "piece" on the back of a used envelope:

HOW SHERIDAN DID THE GREEK.

Giorgantas seized the discuss and poised it in his right
And glared in pitying scorn at his rivals ranged about.
Then he breathed hard and braced himself, and using all his might,
He shot the missile in the air as he gave a mighty shout.

"Yi, yow!" one hundred thousand Greeks exclaimed in lusty glee;
"Yi, yow!" And how they danced around the man who sped the flying sphere!
They hugged and kissed the giant, while as fas ar eye could see
The multitude kept waving hands; King Ed. exclaimed "'ear, 'ear!"

Then Sheridan from Bohola, in the glens of sweet Mayo,
Stepped over to the circle and limbered up his threws;
Then he twisted half-way over and he swung around quite slow,
And he flung the disc of metal in a style that couldn't lose.

Then as the missile skippered far, far into the air,
Martin laughed at Eddie calmly, as he chuckled "Twenty-three."
And the Stars and Stripes soon flew aloft and everybody there
Knew the Mayo Kid had skinned the Greek; and humbled old Vic's heir.

"I reckon that'll hold those English guys for a while," said Ryan. "I see that Giorgantas wouldn't shake hands with Sheridan when the man from Mayo put the Indian sign on him. Well, wait until Martin gets here and there will be more handshaking done than ever was known during the hottest election in the Fourth Ward.

"I see the Irish-American Athletic Club is on the job already with a testimonial banquet in the Hotel Astor for their athletes who did such a fine stunt at Athens. There's going to be 500 diners, and Judge Dowling, Recorder Goff, Judge Fitzgerald, Bourke Cockran and other famous Irish talkers will say good words for the boys, while Andrew Mack, the sweetest of Irish singers, will warble the melodies of the old land. That ought to be a blowout for every Irishman that has the real blood in him to go to see and to tell his children all about in the years acoming.

"I hear the boys are on the Republic, that arrives in New York on the 24th. Well, aisy now, but there'll be doings in Hoboken when the bunch from the Irish-American Athletic Club gets over there to meet them—and it won't be beer. That's us!" concluded John as he made for the Patch.

College Collations

An unusual ferment was created in Washington University athletic circles Wednesday when it was announced that as a result of a meeting of the Faculty Board seven of the members of the track and field team would not be allowed to accompany their teammates to Columbia, Mo., Saturday, to participate in the dual Washington-Missouri meet, the big track and field meet of the year, on account of conditions in their studies. Mackey, Taylor, McFarland, Zahorsky, Wernel, Johnson and Meier were the men affected.

The action of the board will undoubtedly give the meet to Missouri, as the Tigers are almost certain to take firsts and seconds in the following events: 880 yards, 1 and 2 mile, low hurdles, high jump and hammer.

Mackey is Washington's crack hurdler; Taylor, a crack baseball player and the fastest low hurdler at the Myrtle and Maroon; McFarland has been doing 68 inches in the high jump; Wernel was expected to dispute the 880 with Ellis; Johnson is the best boy at the Pikeway institution in the one-mile and two-mile, and Meier was best in the 220 and 440.

Captain Benecke of the baseball nine has resigned his position and has left school to enter business with his father at Brunswick, Mo.; Thomas, the big first baseman of the team, is the most probable candidate for captain, and he will probably be elected to the position by his teammates before the nine returns from its jaunt to Fayetteville, Ark., where the Myrtle and Maroon play Arkansas University, Friday and Saturday.

Washington University athletic adherents expect Grover to annex the quarter-mile at Columbia as well as the 100 and 220. If the Warrensburg boy has not worked himself stale by his recent arduous trials at the Jai Alai and Rolla meets, he will probably not disappoint those enthusiasts who believe him the fastest man in a running shoe in the State, for any distance up to one-half mile.

The Myrtle and Maroon team has but two games on its schedule after the Arkansas games, one with Westminster College at Fulton, Mo., May 25, and the second at Marshall, Mo., the following day, with Missouri Valley College.

Ned Smith, the clever young C. B. C. twirler, who encompassed the defeat of the hard-hitting Country Club team Saturday, will pitch for the College at Alton, Thursday, against Western Military Academy. Coad will receive him. Stunts McMahon will make his debut in center field, a position in which he should perform with as much effectiveness as he does behind the bat.

An announcement fraught with trouble for St. Louis U. was made at C. B. C. Wednesday, when Mattox, last year star twirler of the Purple and Gold, reported that he would be able to pitch next Saturday's game against St. Louis University. Mattox last year vied with Title of Washington University for the distinction of being the best college twirler in the city. Illness has kept Mattox away from school this year, but now that he is in shape C. B. C. will be favored by many to win the remaining three games of the C. B. C.-St. L. U. series.

May Play Baseball.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The town authorities of Provincetown, Mass., have withdrawn their opposition to baseball playing in that town on Sunday by the blue jackets of the North Atlantic fleet.

BROKAW THE BEST COLLEGE GOLFER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Thirty-six of the 40 entries started from the first tee in the tenth annual spring golf competition of the University Club, played at the St. Andrews links. Of these 31 finished the two rounds under handicap, as usual.

George T. Brokaw, the old Princetonian, proved in a class by himself, as with 80—78—158 he not only returned the best gross score by several strokes, but tied with Henry A. James of Yale for the best national score. There was no time to play off the tie, so the destiny of the cup was decided by the toss of a coin, Mr. Brokaw proving the winner.

W. R. Thurston was the only other scratch man with Mr. Brokaw, and the best he could do was 84—82—166.

A sweepstakes was won by Henry James with 89—14—75. A. C. Rounds of Amherst with 99—20—79, and F. B. Allen of Harvard with 89—10—79 tied for second prize.

GOSSIP of the Golfers

Duffy, the Country Club professional, finds it profitable and pleasureable to cultivate play of ladies at golf. He has a fine class at the Clayton links. Mrs. Scudder, Miss Semple, Mrs. Kennerly, Mrs. T. H. West Jr., Mrs. D. K. Catlin, Mrs. Mersman, Mrs. C. McL. Clarke, Miss Mary Wilby, Miss Rumsey, Mrs. Heitz and other ladies who have previously played good golf, are practicing assiduously this season. Mrs. White, Mrs. Newberry, Miss Newman and ladies of Glen Echo are not as diligent as their neighbors across the country.

Arthur Stickney, who seems to have in him the constituents of the best golfer in St Louis, is giving what little time he can spare from heavy press of business to watching professional baseball games. Which does not improve his long or short game at golf one bit.

Clay Pierce is one of the Country Club men who are diligent in practice. Mr. Pierce is of championship caliber about this city.

The putting course at Glen Echo is one of Foulis' special prides, and there are not a few of them.

Gen. McGrew is not playing much golf these days. He spends his time at Glen Echo showing visitors his light Brahma rooster, his sleek Jersey cows and his great, fat Ailesbury drake.

Members of the Glen Echo Club will be ashamed to meet or look a laying biddy in the face by July 1. They already kill and eat 250 chickens a week at the big organization, and business has not yet begun. Two thousand chickens are always in the pens, 200 of them ever ready for neck wringing.

John W. Lowry, the Titanic tee thumper of Glen Echo, always reminds me of the heroic figure of Matt, The Thrasher, as Charles Kickham portrays him throwing the hammer against Capt. French in his beautiful story, "The Homes of Tipperary." Mr. Lowry does wade into it, but he does not get half his force into play and falls away from his ball in most distressing fashion. Perhaps it is well that his form is not perfect. Were it so he would probably be the most terrific driver in the world, not bar the famous Mr. Blackwell of whose driving all the English and Scotch professionals in this country speak with bated breath.

Jesse L. Carleton captain and best man of the Glen Echo Club, is in Virginia visiting friends. He is keeping up his golf and will be in rare shape for the local championship next month.

Herrmann in Queer Role.

CINCINNATI, O., May 17.—President Hermann of the Cincinnati club today sent a note of protest to President Pulliam of the National League against the suspension of McGann of the New York team. McGann was put out of the game on Saturday by Umpire Johnstone in the eleventh inning and suspended indefinitely. President Hermann said the player's remarks were not heard by the crowd and that there was no display of anger sufficient to cause a scene. The Reds' leader thinks the punishment meted out to McGann is too severe for the offense.

BAD MISTAKES MADE IN SELECTING TREATMENT.

Few men realize the importance of the care that should be exercised in selecting skilled treatment for their condition, and lay no blame on themselves for often being disappointed because of not employing the services of an experienced, scientific specialist. They place confidence in any doctor because he claims to be able to cure them. Men who treat with a specialist of age and experience usually have their troubles removed, and are not compelled to go from one physician to another, after being sorely discouraged, uncured and deceived.

THE SPORTSMAN'S NICHE

BY J. B. SHERIDAN

There are in New York men who would commerce with Mephistopheles for the souls of their mothers, wives and children. These particular men are in the way of the promotion of prizefights or boxing matches in the metropolis of the United States.

Just now they are talking of matching Terry McGovern, an unfortunate young man whose sanity has been under grave suspicion for some time, with a strong athlete, Jimmie Britt. This is on the line of dragging the unfortunate Jack Dempsey, a brave, sensitive and honest Irish boy, from the shadow of the tomb to be a punching bag for Tommy Ryan.

Like Dempsey, McGovern is popular with the benighted readers who read not beyond the printed page and thnik not apart the millenium of the present moment. McGovern, liked by the press and the public, can flet the advertising and draw the "gate." Money is what these promoters are after.

McGovern is a fit subject for a sanitarium rather than to be a gladiator of the roped arena. Let us trust that the decent sporting writers of the great city on the Hudson will not permit this enormity to be perpetrated.

When the soi-disant breeders' law was being placed, and erased, from the statutes of Missouri we were told that to pass it would enhance and to repeal it would ruin the business of breeding the thoroughbred horse in Missouri. Yet the said thoroughbred, in whose name such a multitude of sins have been committed, never flourished so or sold for so much in Missouri as in the year after the death of the statute from which he was supposed to derive existence.

Of all sad sights that we have seen the saddest is that of George Erhlich, Billy Sippy, Ikey Cohen, Tom Gleason, C. J. Brockmiller and other gentlemen of the tall stool who in previous spring seasons were wont to contumeliously cop our current cush, paying their little six bits for admission to the baseball park. It is a spectacle calculated to make angels weep.

In comenting upon the appointment of John C. Meyers to the swimming instructorship of the M. A. C., Miles J. Burke hits the zylophone several tinky taps with his little hammer when he says in the faint praise which is the most damning condemnation, "Meyers is a hustler, but it remains to be seen how he gets along with the swimming squad. Said swiming squad being, by the way, Marq and Otto Schwarz.

Meyers ought to be able to square the zweibund.

Englishmen who are taking up baseball limit teams to two Americans as a matter of precaution. We would draw the attention of the advanced Britons who are promulgating the greatest of games to the fact that the Kelleys, Keefes, Bergens, Connors, and about 'steen thousand other Irishmen have cut some large figure at this game in America. So to be on the safe side the Englishmen had best hang out the "No Irish Need Apply" sign. Having done this they may manage to get some kind of an even game among themselves.

Philadelphia papers assert that Soden and Conant, owners of the Boston National League team, advertised a benefit game for the San Francisco earthquake sufferers, drew a good gate, then held a meeting, reconsidered their previous action and voted the money to themselves. This may look had at first glance, but if the gentlemen are compelled to watch their team play we must admit that they suffer agonies far beyond those which could possibly accrue to victims of any old seismic cataclysm.

Lack of the quality of intellectual alertness seems to be the crying short coming of the young baseball players of today.

A lively imagination can bring into its own purview baseball players who seems to be carried in the air, feet off the ground or scarcely touching by the force of their own vibrating intellectuality. It is hard to set all this forth in plain words, but the idea is that of wireless telegraphy and these automobiles which supply the electricity from which they secure motion. In plain words, the active brain of a good ball player seems to lift him up by the ears and carry him through a game with speed weight and great effect.

We read of this boy Niles of the Ravens being fast of foot and a probable great baserunner. Mike Kelly, the greatest base runner I ever saw, was slow of foot but fast of fancy and ran his bases on his head. The feet cut little figure in it. Kelley was slow compared with real fast men and towards the end he was slow indeed, but he stole just as many bases at Allentown as he did in Chicago.

Truly too many men have feet and too few brains

JEFFRIES MAY BE BASEBALL MAGNATE

LOS ANGELES, May 17.—Jim Jeffries, champion heavyweight, may become the next manager and owner of the Los Angeles baseball club. Although Jeffries will not state positively that he will take the management of the team in the event that Manager Morley drops out of baseball, he says enough to lead the public to believe that he is willing and anxious to break into baseball as the "angels'" manager.

Jeff said today, when questioned about the rumor: "I won't say that I will or I won't say that I won't. The Pacific Coast League may ask an exorbitant price for the franchise, so I shall wait until after the meeting of the league this week, and then I will know how things stand."

CURE IS GIVING HOPPE A GAME

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—By defeating Willie Hoppe, the boy billiard champion, in both their games here yesterday in the 3600-point 18-inch two-shots in balkline billiard match, Louis Cure, the French expert, now leads in the contest by more than 500 points.

Last night Cure played a good, steady game, defeating Hoppe handily by 400 points to 237. The winner ran out his string of 400 points in 13 innings, making an average of 33 1-3, with high runs of 104, 102 and 53.

By clever position play and good rail work the Frenchman won the afternoon game by a score of 400 to 169.

The total score for the three nights' play is: Cure, 2000; Hoppe, 1254.

GIRL SLAVE ON TRIAL SAYS SHE WILL BE FREED

Jury Will Condone Murder of Uncle and Aunt, She Believes.

HUSBAND DEFENDS HER

Says Enslavers of Pretty Josefina Terranova Deserved Their Fate.

DEFENSE IS OUTLINED

Attorney Claims Girl Mistreated Up to Time of Her Marriage.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Josefina Terranova, the pretty Sicilian girl on trial for the murder of the relatives who enslaved her, is confident that a jury of 12 fathers will understand and set her free. As she crossed the Bridge of Sighs from her cell in the Tombs to enter the courtroom she said:

"I am glad that the men who are to decide my fate are men with daughters. They will know. Men who have daughters have hearts. They will understand, and will set me free."

Gieuseppe, the husband, was in court when the young prisoner entered. Their eyes met, but they exchanged no words.

"She did right to kill them," said the husband. "It was what she should have done. They deserved death."

The Crime.

The present trial is for the killing of Mrs. Concetta Riggio, at 110 East 220th street, on Feb. 22 last, as Assistant District Attorney Ely explained to Judson C. Travis, the first talesman called. Mr. Palmeri, in cross-questioning the talesmen, outlined the case for the defense—that Josephine, when a little girl, was entrusted by her widowed mother in Sicily to the care of her prosperous uncle and aunt in New York; that she was their household drudge; that when she was 12 years old the uncle, aided by the aunt, abused her; that the treatment was continued up to the time of the girl's marriage with Terranova, last February; that Terranova questioned Josephine, and, upon her confession of all that had happened, left her; that the girl thereupon killed the two who had ruined her.

"We maintain that at the time of the homicide the defendant's mind was in such a condition that she could not know the nature of her act," said Mr. Palmieri.

To the casual American observer this girl, charged with murder, at first appears pretty and pathetic. She appears unmoved, because all the court proceedings flow by her in a stream of legal polysyllables whose meaning she does not know, for she has very little English, and that little is of the simplest. Moreover, the keenness of her emotion is dulled because she feels that she did precisely the right thing in killing Gaetano and Concetta Riggio.

Is Only Seventeen.

Yet the apathetic expression vanished in an instant every time her attorney, ex-Judge Palmieri, asked Josephine a question. For he spoke Italian, and that quickened her interest and filled her countenance with animation. The defendant is only 17 years old, but she looks as mature as an American girl of 24. She is of medium height, with a rather graceful figure, a trifle too heavy to be beautiful. She has a luxuriant mass of wavy dark-brown hair, and her pale, dark skin is exquisitely clear.

For that tired feeling refresh yourself with a Belcher bath. Fourth and Lucas.

DOWN WILL GO TOWER.

Dynamite to Wreck Wireless Telegraph Structure.

The De Forest wireless telegraph tower, which during the World's Fair was a rival attraction to the Ferris wheel, will next week suffer the fate of the wheel. The Chicago wrecking company, now its owner, has decided to wreck it with dynamite.

Men are busy dismantling the lighter works of the structure. When this is finished the large charge of dynamite will be placed under the foundation of the tower, and the heavier iron work will be demolished. There are about 150 tons of structural iron in the tower, costing originally $50 a ton. It was sold to the Chicago company after the city rejected it as a gift.

JOSEPHFINA TERRANOVA

GHOSTS OF THOSE SHE SLEW BEG HER TO FORGIVE THEM

Josefina Terranova, Child Bride, Stabbed Uncle and Aunt to Death Because They Enslaved Her, and Now, She Says, Their Spirits Visit Her in Prison.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

BY RUTH EARLE.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Josefina Terranova, when she goes on the witness stand in her trial that started today, will declare that she has been haunted by the ghosts of Gaetano and Concetta Riggio, her uncle and aunt, whom she stabbed to death. She tells of them as if it were quite the usual thing in New York for ghosts to camp upon doorsteps, and as if it shouldn't surprise her in the least to hear that the Tombs prison is haunted.

In the matron's room of the woman's prison, where not a few in Josefina's class have told their life history, this daughter of Sicily smiled with a dozen dimples in her fresh young face and prattled of things transcendental as of cabbages and kings or any other everyday things.

She told again of the murder and "God's voice" that bade her commit it, with interest, rather than emotion. She told of her terrible childhood as one who has been unjustly cheated—that was all.

Defense Is Hallucination.

Josefina Terranova does not realize that she is about to contribute one of the most picturesque hallucination defenses murder courts have heard in many perigees. She looked out of her clear hazel eyes with the simple faith of which poets sing, and that most women in her position exert much art to attain.

"Why must I be afraid to tell my story to those what you call them—jurors?" she asks ingenuously. "If I done wrong I might be. I obeyed God's voice. Was there harm in that? Did I know it was God's voice? Maria! Do I know the clouds bring rain and the sun light? There are ways of finding out.

"It cried to me so long there, day and night, when I lay on the floor and grieved that my husband would love me no more. I begged it to go away—it bothered me so.

"It cried 'Kill him!' so loud and never-stopping that I knew it was God's voice. The devil gets tired if you don't do his bidding. God can't.

"Then I crossed myself—like this—and every time I got more courage. That is a sure sign for to make the cross scares the devil away.

Sees Victims' Spirits.

"Could I have still doubts? I did God's will. If I had sinned would they come to me now—Concetta and Gaetano—looking sad and sorry, crying out, 'Forgive us!'

"When do they come? O, so often; not for a week now, but before that, every night I would see them on the brick wall of my cell, always together and always crying 'Forgive!'

"At first I was afraid. I thought they came to do me evil, and I shrank away and cried. But they came because they could not rest easy with the curse on their souls.

"Did I forgive them?"

A frown knit the girl's brow and the faraway look in her eyes seemed to see all the wickedness of her lost girlhood.

"At first I could not," she resumed. "But they bothered me so that to get them away I said: 'Yes, I forgive you?'

"Still they come—how do you say—butt in, and I have to hang up my apron so as not to see them. Sometimes we talk just as if they were alive, not dead, with my knife-wounds in their breasts.

"Did I ever love them, you ask? They were my father and mother, that was all. I did not know better. I did all the work and spent my life for them. Nothing did they ever give me except beatings and wrongs, but I had no way to see that was not their right.

No Real Love.

"I know the young must love the old and work for them, but my heart was not theirs as it is Giuseppe's. Until he asked my hand and married me with this ring—in the City Hall and the church—before all the people, I never knew love.

"That bad uncle and aunt of mine—their hearts were hard—hard as bricks. Why when the priest had blessed us in the church, my aunt said to me: 'May you be dead before night!'

"Was that the blessing of an aunt who called herself 'mother'? Oh, but Concetta was bad!

"Now that I have lived here, where all are kind and I can talk with good people (the irony of innocence), I knew how right I was to kill them. Death is the only way to wipe out such shame.

"Am I happy now? So happy! I can play all day in this pleasant place, with so little work I am never tired, and there is no one to beat me and cry curses in my ears.

"Yes, God is good."

That is part of little Joefina's story. If she tells it with the same frank confidence she may affect the jury more than the arguments of her counsel, John Palmieri.

It is the story of the victim of the strongest sort of a sheltered life. The little shut-in was a guarded prisoner in the den of the most diabolical foster-parents imagination could picture, according to her story. She lived quite alone with them. She dared speak to none. There was no conscience-voice to tell her evil; her guardians called evil good.

SOLD WOMAN'S FARM, ARRESTED

George Decker Accused of Obtaining Money Under False Pretenses.

George A. Decker, 26 years old, was arrested Wednesday night at 7412 Minnesota Avenue, where he was staying on a warrant charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses. The warrant was sworn out before Justice Campbell of St. Louis County. He was taken to the Four Courts holdover.

To a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday Decker said that he supposed the warrant had been sworn out by H. W. Stanley of St. Louis County, with whom he had a real estate transaction recently. He had advertised a farm of 20 acres in Phelps County for sale, $25 down and monthly payments of $5.

Stanley, he said, had bought the farm. Decker declares that he told Stanley that he himself had never seen the farm; that he was selling it for a woman named Hutchinson, and advised Stanley to take a look at the farm before purchasing.

Stanley gave Decker a check for $25, which the latter cashed, but says that, fearing there might be some trouble about the farm, he left with his wife a check for $25 to give to Stanley in the event that the latter made complaints about the transaction.

Decker heard nothing more, however, until he was arrested, he says. He says that he is unable to remember the full name or address of the woman for whom he sold the farm, and who used to be in his employ, and he does not remember Stanley's precise address.

MILLION-DOLLAR WEST END DEAL

Monticello Hotel and Other Property Said to Be Involved.

BILL OF SALE IS DRAWN

Revere Real Estate Co. Will Become Owner If Deal Goes Through.

The Commonwealth Trust Co. expects to consummate a $1,000,000 deal within the next two days, involving the Monticello Hotel and other King's highway property between West Pine boulevard and Forest Park boulevard.

As regards the Monticello Hotel, the trust company is known to be acting for the Revere Real Estate Co., composed of J. D. Dana, president, and Edward F. Goltra, treasurer. These two, with E. C. Dameron and Erastus Wells, make up the Board of Directors of the realty company, which will become the owner of the hotel if the present deal goes through. A bill of sale for the hotel has already been drawn.

Mississippi in Deal.

The Mississippi Valley Trust Co. is acting as representative of the present management of the hotel in the deal.

The former home of Dr. Washington West, one of the handsomest of the West End mansions and a spot of historic interest, is said to be involved in the deal. Other property south of the mansion, stretching as far as Forest Park boulevard, is understood to be contemplated as part of it.

Robert H. Connell, head of the real estate department of the Commonwealth Trust Co., admitted Thursday that part of the report dealing with the hotel property, but denied that the Washington West site and adjacent lots were involved.

It is stated that the Revere Realty Co. has plans for the improvement of the northeast corner of King's highway and Leclede avenue with a six-story fireproof apartment building, to cost $350,000.

Plans for the improvement of the entire frontage on the east side of King's highway, between Laclede avenue and Forest Park boulevard, also understood to be included in the deal along the same line, are now under consideration, it is said.

Tom W. Bennett is handling the Mississippi Valley End of the deal.

WIFE LEFT HIM, HE HANGED HIMSELF

East Side Teamster Tied One End of Rope to Chandelier Hook.

Valentine Peterson, aged 57, a teamster living at 607 Piggott avenue, East St. Louis, ended his life at his home Thursday morning by hanging himself with a clothes line from a hook in the ceiling of his bedroom. Worry over domestic troubles, his wife having left him three weeks ago, is believed to have caused the deed.

Valentine called his son at 4 a. m. Thursday and helped him to get away on a fishing excursion. An hour and a half later his daughter, Mrs. Sophia Maroney, who lived with him, came downstairs from her bedroom to get breakfast. Passing Valentine's bedroom she saw his body lying on the floor.

Entering she found that he was dead. A rope was tied about his neck and to the other end was attached the chandelier hook, which had been pulled from the ceiling. The table was lying near him, where he had evidently kicked it after standing on it to fasten the rope to the chandelier hook.

Mrs. Maroney went to a grocery near by and from there the police were notified. The body was taken to Kurrus' Morgue and an inquest will be held.

Valentine had lived in East St. Louis nearly all his life and was well-known there. He owned several teams and was said to be doing well in a business way.

United Railways 4s were again in good investment inquiry and rose a sharp fraction on sales as high as $88.50. The preferred stock was steady at $83.87½, and the common stock was inactive but firm.

The demand in the bank and trust list was light, and prices quoted showed little if any change from yesterday. The miscellaneous and bond lists were firm throughout.

TENDENCY OF PRICES IS HARD TO DISCERN

Some Stocks Are Higher, Some Lower and Others Unchanged.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The market opened unchanged to a fraction higher today, with good buying orders prevalent in some of the specialties. Trading was only fairly active, and the undertone of the list uncertain.

The indications are that a trading market will remain with us for some time to come, owing to the fact that market conditions are bright, but the speculation confined entirely to the professionals. The public in general and especially a certain class of active speculators were badly hurt in the recent decline, and the former buying from this source is conspicuously absent.

Confidence in the outlook, however, is being gradually restored, and sentiment in the main is bullish for the long pull. London sent an irregular range of prices on our securities.

The Early News.

The Bank of England rate is unchanged at 4 per cent, but consols are lower for both money and the account. The news is not especially interesting unless the course the situation between the Senate and the White House be taken into consideration. It is certainly a strange condition of affairs and one that is not likely to help build up the reputations of any of the parties concerned. The Pennsylvania inquiry is developing some interesting facts and the stock was a weak feature today. The sterling market is easier and any further reaction is likely to start up again the importation of gold. The time money market is practically unchanged and it is likely to continue at these figures for some time to come. Call rates remain easy at 3¾ per cent, and the indications that this rate will be maintained until late in the summer. The banks in their operations with the Subtreasury are heavy losers on the week and the indications are that the bank statement of Saturday will make an unfavorable showing. The San Francisco banks open for business on the 23 of the month and with the restoration of confidence in Western banking circles considerable money should find its way back to New York. The market movement became irregular after the first hour's trading, and special securities advanced while others declined. National Lead was reactionary on the declaration of a dividend of 1 per cent quarterly on the common stock, as the "street" had been led to believe that the payment would be at the rate of at least 5 per cent. American Smelting and Refining sold off in sympathy, and some pressure was brought to bear on the other metal securities. A strong rise in the wheat market was also a discouraging factor, as the crop situation will have much weight in the stock market for the next few months. Commission houses sold some of the granger securities on this account, and the support in the market came almost entirely from the shorts and professionals. The short account in the market is not over extended, if the loan crowd is to be taken as an indication. Special issues, however, such as Reading and Amalgamated Copper were in moderate demand yesterday. Prices were reactionary at noon.

O'REILLY RESENTS FESLER CRITICISM

Civic League Secretary Censured Board in Fair Grounds Case.

Trouble has come up between the Board of Public Improvements and the Civic League, or at least between the Board of Public Improvements and Mayo Fesler, secretary of the Civic League, in regard to the proposed purchase of the old Fair Grounds by the city.

The difficulty comes from a letter written by Mr. Fesler to President O'Reilly of the Board of Public Improvements, in which the board is severely criticized for taking any action regarding the proposed purchase. It is said that such action only has the effect of delaying matters.

Mr. Fesler says that the matter must be taken up and disposed of by the Municipal Assembly, and that the action of the Board of Public Improvements in taking the plan under consideration will only delay the work of the Assembly.

Fesler's Letter Answered.

President O'Reilly has decided to overlook Fesler in the matter, but he has prepared an answer to the letter which has been sent to Henry T. Kent, President of the Civic League.

Neither Mr. Kent nor Mr. O'Reilly would give out the contents of the letter, but it is understood that it contains severe criticism of the action of Fesler.

When asked about the letter by a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday Mr. Kent said:

"Any letters that may have been received have been turned over to the executive committee," he said, "and the committee will take action on them."

BULLS HAVE A GOOD INNING

Lack of Moisture and Damage Reports Cause a Scramble to Buy.

OTHER GRAINS HIGHER

Buyers Take Hold of Both Corn and Oats Futures.

The wheat bulls had a good inning today, and future prices rose buoyantly all along the line. Reports of dry, hot weather, with lack of moisture in Kansas, Missouri, Illinois and other sections were the sustaining influence, while steady cables, a good cash demand and decreasing stocks were factors of secondary importance.

The shorts were good buyers at all times, and commission houses reported more outside interest in the market than at any time since the present upward movement started.

Foreign markets showed an inclination to follow our lead and Liverpool prices closed ⅜@½d up on wheat and ⅜d up on corn. Berlin wheat closed ½c up. Paris ½c up and Antwerp unchanged.

Receipts locally were moderate and shipments light, and millers report an improved demand for good milling grain.

Minneapolis and Duluth reported 135 cars against 108 last week, 100 last year and 54 two years ago. Minneapolis stock decreased 1,250,000 bu for the past five days.

The Price Current says: Dry weather, promoting apprehension of interference with crop and favorableness of corn and oats. Early rains would give needed relief. Winter wheat continues in highly promising condition.

A wire from Sherman and Denison, Tex., says regarding rust in wheat: Best posted people say considerable red rust in wheat and doing great deal of damage. From personal observations would say crop is in bad shape, entirely too much rain, so that wheat is drowned in low places in the fields.

In 15-mile drive few days ago only saw one fairly good field of wheat. Yield in this section will be light.

Clearances of wheat and flour were 253,000 bu.

The corn market was very strong in sympathy with wheat, good export and domestic demands and adverse temperatures. The movement continues light and farmers are inclined to hold their grain. Clearances were 323,000 bu.

Oats were strong and higher on reports of lack of moisture in the growing sections. The strength in other grains was also a sustaining influence. Clearances were 20,000.

Primary movement: Receipts—Wheat, 193,624 bu against 152,150 bu last year. Corn, 227,850 bu, against 104,800 bu last year. Oats, 27,834 bu, against 234,882 bu last year.

Shipments: Wheat, 316,758 bu, against 375,000 bu last year. Corn, 270,746 bu, against 286,000 bu last year. Oats, 514,605 bu, against 682,000 bu last year.

St. Louis receipts and shipments: Receipts—Wheat, 342,226 bu; corn, 85,120 bu; oats, 55,350 bu. Shipments—Wheat, 29,570 bu; corn, 89,720 bu; oats, 101,065 bu.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dearly beloved mother, Margaret Matter (nee Fath), who died four years ago today:

We stood beside her bed of death,
Bowed down were we in sorrow;
We knew she would be lost to us
Upon the coming morrow.
From her pure lips the cheerful smile
Could not by death be driven,
And with a hope of future bliss
She passed from earth to heaven.

WIFE ATTACKS HER DEFENDERS

Young Men Whip Her Husband in Crowd on Olive Street.

HE WAS BEATING HER

When Passers-by Intervene She Scratches Their Faces and Hands.

This is a story without names. It has an al fresco setting. The scene is the corner of Twelfth and Olive streets; the time about 10 p. m. Wednesday. The principals were a wife-beater, the wife and two young men. The audience was composed of shopkeepers from the vicinity and roller skaters coming from the Exposition Building.

The little play was very quick in action, its three acts taking less than a quarter of an hour.

Mr. Wife-beater and his wife were walking west along Olive street. Every once in a while he emphasized his words to his helpmeet with a dig in the side or a slap in the face. Loud words and an occasional blow of the fist also helped.

A crowd gathered and followed the pair as they quarreled. Occasionally an onlooker demanded that the man let the wife alone, but this was only met by a glare from the man, followed by a threatening movement of the fist as if ready for a fight, and the forward onlooker usually shut up. Thus passed act No. 1.

Act No. 2 had its setting at the corner of the alley just west of Twelfth street. The pair was forced to stop here by the crowd, which almost hemmed them in. The two young men also make their appearance. They were walking along Olive street and stopped to see what the trouble was.

Mr. Wifebeater, encouraged by the unresisting attitude of the woman and noninterference of the crowd, offered to whip any one or two men in the crowd.

Act No. 3 is full of strenuousness. Mr. Wife-beater, to show his pugnacity and valor, made a wild lunge into the crowd, with the result that the sidewalk was cleared in the twinkling of an eye. The only three persons left in his way were the two young men and his wife.

Apparently he had done all that he could for his wife. He struck with his right for the head of one of the young man, missed, but hit his companion. Then a wild scramble took place. That first lunge the man made was the only blow of the fight he delivered. He was quickly downed by the two young men, who pommeled him about the face and head.

Beaten Wife Interferes.

The crowd reassembled and such cries as "Serves him right, "Give it to him good" and "Give them room" filled the air, giving encouragement to the combatants.

At this stage the woman reappeared in the case. With cries of "O, Frank, run away," "Let me get at them," she dashed at the three men, who were wrestling on the sidewalk, the two young men sitting astride Mr. Wifebeater.

The women's nails played an important part in settling the contest. Scratching clawing at the pair on top of her husband, she quickly displaced them, and while he was putting himself to rights and straightening his clothes she held the two men at bay and then walked off with her husband at her side.

All through the fight the man was yelling that the woman was his wife and that he had a right to beat her.

COULD NOT IDENTIFY.

Woman Accuser Unable to Say Doughnuts Were Her Own.

Mrs. Mary Calloway's inability to identify her own doughnuts made fruitless her prosecution of two young men, whom she accused of stealing them. Mrs. Calloway conducts a confectionery and bakery at 205 North Fifteenth street.

Charles Hogan and John Powers were arraigned Thursday in the Court of Criminal Correction on the charge of taking 18 doughnuts from Mrs. Calloway's place. The arresting policeman testified that he had caught them eating the doughnuts. Most of them were gone, but the remainder were taken into court as evidence. The young men said they had bought them at another place.

"Are you sure you made these doughnuts?" Judge Moore asked Mrs. Calloway.

Mrs. Calloway took a doughnut, inspected it carefully, broke it open, tasted it, took another and squinted through the hole, looked perplexed and turned to the Judge.

"I can't be sure," she said. "Doughnuts are so much alike, you know."

"The case is dismissed," said Judge Moore.

Nervous Worn-Out

If you are in this condition, your nerve force is weak—the power is giving out, the organs of your body have "slowed up," and do their work imperfectly. This failure to do the work required, clogs the system and brings distress and disease. When the nerves are weak the heart is unable to force the life-giving blood through your veins; the stomach fails to digest food; the kidneys lack power to filter impurities from the blood, and the poisonous waste remains in the system to breed disease. Nerve energy must be restored. Dr. Miles' Nervine will do it, because it strengthens the nerves; it is a nerve medicine and tonic, that rebuilds the entire nervous system.

"Several years ago I was all broken down. I was nervous, worn-out, could not sleep, and was in constant pain. I doctored for months, and finally the doctor said he could do nothing for me. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, and used altogether eight bottles, and I became strong and healthy, and now weigh 170 pounds."
H. C. CUNNINGHAM,
108 Ellsworth Ave., Allegheny, Pa.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

WARSHIP ST. LOUIS BREAKS RECORD

In Test Makes Best Time Ever Made by a Protected Cruiser.

ROCKLAND, Me., May 17.—The protected cruiser St. Louis started from the harbor today in a rainstorm with the intention of making the four-hours' endurance run between Monhegan and Cape Ann.

There was a slight northeast breeze. The cruiser is required by contract to sustain an average of 22 knots an hour on this run.

Yesterday the St. Louis established a new record in the protected cruiser class on her trial trip over the Rockland (Me.) course. She went her mile over the measured course at a rate of 22.34 knots an hour. Her contract requirement was 22 knots.

This is the best ever done by any protected cruiser. The sea was smooth as glass and the machinery worked perfectly. After her run, the St. Louis received a satisfactory anchor test.

On board were Commander Nathaniel T. Usher, U. S. N., who will command the St. Louis; Lieutenant-Commander B. F. Hutchinson and Lieut. W. B. Wells, who are to be her executive officer and chief engineer, respectively.

OIL TRUST PRESS AGENT GETS BUSY

Replies to Charges Made in Roosevelt's Message to Congress.

NEW YORK, May 17.—For the second time in its history, so far as the memory of Wall Street runs, the Standard Oil Co. has given out a detailed statement to its stockholders. The statement was in effect a reply to the charges made by President Roosevelt against the Standard Oil Co. in his special message to Congress on May 4.

The Standard Oil statement was in phamphlet form and was virtually an address of the directors to the shareholders. It was handed out to the newspaper men by J. I. C. Clarke, the press agent of the Oil trust. The report takes up the charges of Commissioner Garfield and makes specific denial of them in turn. It covers about the same ground as did the reply of Messrs. Archbold and Rogers, issued directly after the President's message was made public.

In regard to the charge of the President and Mr. Garfield that the savings of the Standard Oil through rebates amounted to $750,000 a year, the statement declares that there was no statement by which these two officials could arrive at such a conclusion except by "theorizing."

The report concludes:

"After an investigation of about 15 years over more than 200,000 miles of railway, the Commissioner is not able to show that the Standard Oil Company received a single rebate on its interstate shipments. The company owns and controls only a very moderate percentage of the crude oil production of the United States, and with at least 125 rival refineries in existence, it is a palpable absurdity to call it a monopoly."

Training School Benefit.

There will be a strawberry feast for the benefit of the Women's Training School next Tuesday from 2 to 5 p. m., and from 8 to 11 p. m., at Anchor Hall, Park and Jefferson avenues.

AETNA'S FUNDS WERE USED TO DEFEAT BRYAN

Fire Insurance Company's President Admits Gift to Republican Committee.

THINKS IT JUSTIFIABLE

Nebraskan's Election Would Have Been a "Calamity," He Declares.

SCANDAL IN EQUITABLE

Charge Campaign Contributions Offered for a Favorable Surplus Decision.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Senator Bulkeley of Connecticut, who is also president of the Aetna Fire Insurance Co., admitted today that he had contributed $5000 of the funds of that company to the Republican campaign fund of 1896 to defeat William J. Bryan.

"It might just as easily have given $20,000," Senator Bulkeley said, "but what the company did give is not a flea bite in comparison to what I personally contributed."

Senator Bulkeley was before the Committee on Judiciary in connection with the Ames bill to regulate insurance in the District of Columbia.

"Do you think that action upon your part contributing the trust funds of your company to the campaign committee," asked Mr. De Armond, "was justifiable, honest or decent?"

"I contend," Senator Bulkeley said, "that every custodian of funds of this character is justified and within his right when he takes that money and applies it to the protection of the rights of the people. I considered that the election of Mr. Bryan would have been a calamity."

Mr. De Armond said he would like to inquire into the standard of morals which he sets up to justify such a contention.

Senator Bulkeley repeated his assertion that he thought he was justified in using the funds of the company in this way, and added further that in his opinion the party having the most money would win.

"Did you contribute to the Democratic party when it was successful?" asked Mr. De Armond. He said he did not.

"Do you not think the election of 1896 was bought?"

"I do not," Senator Bulkeley said.

Mr. DeArmond then wanted to know what, in the Senator's opinion, had become of the vast fund which the Republican committee had raised that year. Senator Bulkeley said he believed it had been "legitimately spent." This produced a laugh in which the Senator himself joined.

He went on to say that he justified his action in making this contribution to the Republican campaign fund on the ground of public expediency in the same manner in which he justified his contribution of $5000 from the company's funds to the San Francisco sufferers recently. He said he did not fear criticism for doing anything which he thought proper, and that he gave the money in the performance of his duty, as he thought.

"This is a new philosophy of insurance of which I am glad to hear," Mr. DeArmond said. "There are some people who get so powerful in the financial world that they do not fear to go in boldly where others would not dare to do."

"If you gentlemen of the House of Representatives," replied Senator Bulkeley, "who handle and disburse millions of the people's money, disburse it as honestly as money is handled by the insurance companies of the country, you need have no fear of going before your constituents."

The hearing will be continued.

WISCONSIN PROBES EQUITABLE SCANDAL.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 17.—Charges of campaign contributions offered in return for a favorable decision in the case of the division of the Equitable Life Assurance Society's surplus have split the La Follette camp in twain.

A legislative committee, investigating the operations of insurance companies in Wisconsin, today heard Insurance Commissioner Zeno M. Host, one of La Follette's administration, accuse another of the same administration, Secretary of State Walter Houser, of offering him the $2000.

Secretary Houser answered this charge, saying he had offered Host a slip of paper on the date mentioned, but did not know what it was and had not made any offer of money.

He said, however, that Zeno M. Host, during the same campaign, had willingly acquiesced in a plan to ask the big insurance companies for contributions to be used in defeating Congressman Joseph W. Babcock, a member of the anti-La Follette wing of the Republican party, but that after Host had acceded to this plan Houser had decided that it would be bad politics and vetoed the proposition.

Secretary Houser went further. He intimated in plain terms that the Host charge was part of a political conspiracy, in which he was to be defeated for renomination.

That Secretary Houser of the State Department was the man through whom the New York Life secured some information was one of the points made by Insurance Commissioner Host in his charge against Houser yesterday. Houser secured Host's brief, which was being used against the Equitable and other New York companies in the surplus distribution cases, and Host appeared in court to argue the case. He found the attorney for the New York Life using his own brief against him. Houser, it was charged, had secured the brief on the statement that he wanted it for Senator Frear, who was handling insurance legislation.

Couple Weds on "Tick."

Although they were married on credit at Edwardsville, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Christian of Alton Thursday declared that they will not seek credit again. Christian and Miss Georgia Hazelwood started for Edwardsville to wed, the husband-to-be thinking that he had a considerable sum of money in his pocket. After fares and marriage license had been paid for, Christian found that he had only 80 cents left, so they explained the situation to Judge Hillskotter, who married them on credit.

Two St. Louis Sopranos to Sing at Alps Concert Next Sunday

MISS JULIA BRUER, SOPRANO OF KELLOGG-HAINES QUARTET.

Julia Bruer and Grace Van Studdiford on Same Program—Midweek Notes.

Miss Julia Bruer of St. Louis, the soprano of the Kellogg-Haines Quartet, which will be heard at the Alps next week, beginning Sunday, is well known in local musical circles. She has a voice of great purity and considerable range, and the numbers selected for the program in which she is to appear are said to suit it admirably.

Because of the fact that Grace Van Studdiford has also consented to sing a farewell number at the Alps next Sunday, that popular summer resort will be enabled to present two St. Louis sopranos in one program, and a comparison of Miss Bruer's voice with that of the more famous St. Louis prima donna is expected to be interesting. It is promised that the Alps program for next week will be of unusual attractiveness.

Midweek Amusement Notes.

One of the most marvelous accomplishments in the business of taking moving pictures is to be seen at the Olympic during the week beginning with next Sunday's matinee.

A reproduction, complete in every detail, of the terrible calamity at San Francisco, taken on the the ground by skillful operators during the progress of the calamity, has given to the world the most wonderful set of views of any historical event that have ever been secured. The plant of the Frisco Motion Picture Co., which is exhibiting the views throughout the country, luckily escaped destruction from the quake, and the result will be seen in a truthful story in moving pictures of one of the greatest catastrophes in history.

Miss Nellie Stewart in "Sweet Nell of Old Drury" is now at the Olympic.

The annual terpsichorean social event at the Century Theater Friday night and Saturday matinee, May 25 and 26, will be the usual success, according to all indications. Mr. Jacob Mahler has the entertainment in charge. He is now training 40 little children in various songs and dances. The costumes will be of rare elegance and are being made especially for this event. The demand for boxes has always been heavy, boxes having been reserved by Mrs. H. S. Priest, Mrs. S. J. Harbaugh, Mrs. W. K. Bixby, Mrs. C. A. White, Mrs. A. Waldheim, Mrs. George J. Kobusch and Mrs. H. L. Parker.

Genuine regret at the lateness of Louis Mann's and Clara Lipman's coming to the Garrick this season is expressed by many of the regular patrons of the house. A show like Miss Lipman's "Julie Bonbon," they say, should have been booked earlier in the year so as to afford patrons the added comfort of seasonable weather. Nevertheless, the parlor-playhouse is not unduly warm, because the building is protected on three sides against the sun and has the coolness of a cavern at night. The expressions of the Mann and Lipman audience this week are all to the effect that "Julie Bonbon" affords most genuine theatrical amusement. It is a consistent comedy of present day manners, customs and affairs.

David Kessler and Samuel Thornberg are the leading players of the Thalia Theater Yiddish Company, which is to appear at the Grand Opera House for a limited engagement of three nights, commencing Monday, May 21. The plays to be presented here are as follows: Monday evening, "The Russian Jew in America," a comedy of Yiddish-American life, five acts, by Jacob Gordon; Tuesday evening, "The Charlatan," a drama in four acts by the same author; Wednesday evening, "Menashe," a play of Yiddish life in Roumania, by the great Roumania author, Roneti Roman. The company has been praised by press and public in every city where it has appeared.

Ernest Hogan in "Rufus Rastus" is at the Grand this week.

The cool Imperial Theater announces a return engagement of Oscar Dane for next Sunday matinee and week in the well-remembered domestic drama, "East Lynne," which will be preceded by "Ye Golden Past," a one-act romantic comedy. Mr. Dane's new version of "East Lynne" is considered his masterpiece, and his splendid company will be environed by a complete scenic production. Mr. Dane will appear in the play as the poor, starving French musician. He will be supported by Katherine Tabor in the dual role of "Lady Isabelle" and "Madame Vane," and the full strength of his company.

Billy Kersands' Minstrels are the Imperial attraction this week.

"As Told in the Hills" will be the attraction at Havlin's Theater Sunday matinee and week, with Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday matinees, with Miss Emily Gale in the leading role. It is said to be something entirely new in the field of melodrama. The plot is original, both in its conception and development, and the characters clearly drawn and extremely interesting in their naturalness. The character of Pamneno, the young Indian princess, is played by Miss Gale in a manner that for cleverness and artistic ability is said to be fully equal to her work in "The Moonshiner's Daughter," in which she starred for the last three seasons. Miss Gale is supported by an excellent company.

"Scotty, King of the Desert Mine," is the current attraction at Havlin's.

The Empire Burlesquers will open for a week's engagement at the Standard commencing with matinee next Sunday. In the personnel of the "Empire Burlesquers" there are a number of favorites who make the most of the laughable situations that are the predominating features of the show. Not the least of these is Roger Imhof, who makes some funny hits as "Casey" in "Casey and the Green Sod Club;" there will be a series of specialties by Imhof, Conn and Corinne, in their new act entitled, "The Fruits of Revenge Are Lemons;" the Muskateer Comedy Four, a quartet of good vocalists; John A. West, the "Musical Brownie;" the Eskimo Ballet, the most marvelous act of its kind ever seen on any stage; Brothers De Van, in an original acrobatic act, including a dog, who does a somersault in the air just as an ordinary human being would; Bessie Taylor, the sweet vocalist, and others.

To the Gayety next week comes the "Black Crook Jr. Co.," said to be a clean first-class entertainment, rich in musical numbers, a long program opened and closed with two highly amusing burlesques, with olio between. The specialists engaged for the olio are Mlle. DeVere and company, with five French assistants, direct from the Follies-Bergeres, Paris, in the European sensation, "Caught in the Act;" the LaSella troupe of acrobats; Hastings and Sheldon, in their society comedy sketch, "The Elopers;" Howard and Camedon, comedy acrobatic singing and dancing act; Amy Butler, coon shouter, and Clamage and Flynn, Irish comedians.

The three Vienna waltz kings, Strauss, Ziehrer and Gungl, are frequently represented in this week's program at the Tyrolean Alps. Director Rosenbecker's orchestrations of the gems of these three dance music composers are exceedingly clever, and bring out the characteristics of each waltz movement. Lovers of Strauss music will be surprised that there are so many compositions by the waltz king which they have never heard. Grace Van Studdiford's "Invitation" song is written in waltz tempo, and next week's piece de resistance by the Kellogg Haines quartet is "Se Seran Rose," the waltz which Arditi has written for Melba, and which Mrs. Kellogg-Haines has arranged for her quartet. The sextet from "Lucia," arranged in quartet, will also be sung by these singers, who are well known locally for the excellent work which they have done on the operatic and concert stage.

Ethel Fuller, at West End Heights, is receiving the co-operation of the St. Louis public in her endeavor to give them the best stock company they have ever had, producing the best available plays at summer garden prices. On Sunday night the Heights Theater, which seats 3500 people, was completely sold out 15 minutes before the curtain rose. "Sapho" has been a success, but it will be followed by the biggest thing ever attempted in a summer garden, the complete scenic production of David Belasco's and Franklin Fyles military drama, "The Girl I Left Behind Me." A company of 30 regular soldiers will be used in the great stockade scene, also a number of horses, and a military band. The entire cast of Miss Fuller's supporting company of 16 players will be employed in the production. It will also mark the debut of Mr. Jack Ellis, who originated the lead in "Human Hearts," Hal Reid's masterpiece, and Miss Maud Leslie, who will play Fawn Afraid, the Indian. Lucy Hawes, to the part Blanch Walsh made her first great hit in. After this week new productions will be put on Monday, the first of every current week, instead of Sunday.

The Suburban, under the management of the Lyric Amusement Co., swings into the summer garden line with its matinee on Sunday next. Milton Nobles on that occasion will present his famous comedy-drama, "From Sire to Son," and the entire Suburban Stock Company is to assist him. Parts have been assigned to the Misses Lisle Leigh, Perla Landers, Hancha Bischoff, May Hagar and Messrs. Walter Edwards, Norman Hammond, Wale Gilbert, Arthur Buchanan, Harry Fenwick, J. Gordon Edwards, who is also stage manager; Warren Emerson, King Baggot, Jerry Kells and Y. C. Alley. Milton Nobles is back in his old part of Alfred Armitage under the assumed name of John Oakley, and Dolly Nobles will be seen to fine advantage as Mabel Armitage. Barring the fact that its sides will be open to every passing breeze, there is no difference in the Suburban auditorium this year from that of any of the downtown theaters. The stage is equipped with every device that can insure a smooth performance on the mechanical side. There will be daily matinees, Monday and Friday alone excepted. Performances at night begin at 8:30, giving audiences ample time to be comfortably seated before the play, which is the thing at the Suburban this year, begins.

Dolan and Lenharr, two clever vaudeville artists presenting a new sketch which was favorably commented on by Eastern critics, have been engaged to replace Francesca Redding on the opening bill at Mannion's Park. Miss Redding is seriously ill in Chicago. The act of Dolan and Lenharr is expected to prove as good as an attraction as that of Miss Redding. "Duchess" Gertrude Dudley, singing comedienne, should prove another popular feature of the opening bill. Miss Dudley is the possessor of a very fine voice and she is said to have a sense of humor like that of Marie Cahill and May Irwin. Other acts on the opening program are, Berger Brothers, comedy acrobats, Hatch Brothers, musical comedians, and Tom Gillen, the juggler.

On Friday evening at Mannion's, the Glennon Dramatic Club, made up of members of St. Columbkill's Parish in Carondelet, will present David Belasco's early success, "Men and Women." The entire proceeds of the performance will be turned over to the relief committee at San Francisco with the request that it be used to help rebuild the churches of the wrecked city.

D. D. Bafunno's Band is giving concerts every evening at Delmar Garden. All the concessions at this place are also in operation, although the theater will not be open until a week from Sunday. The crowds on Saturday night, the opening evening, and Sunday, were extremely large and the attendance so far has exceeded any year in the history of the garden. On the stage of the theater rehearsals of the chorus and principals are being held daily for "The Isle of Champagne," with which bill the garden theater will be opened on Sunday, May 27. The chorus at Delmar Garden this season is the best singing aggregation and has far more pretty faces than has even before been seen at this popular resort. Frank Stammers, who is the producer for Lew Fields' gorgeous shows, arrived at Delmar Garden Tuesday morning and has charge of the stage work at that resort. Mr. Frank N. Darling, conductor for Henry W. Savage, being musical director.

Moving pictures of the San Francisco earthquake and fire will be exhibited at the Columbia next week, beginning Monday. Shows will be given all day from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. These pictures are said to be extremely realistic. The beholder sees the falling walls, the tongues of flame, the clouds of smoke arising from the immense buring area; the terror-stricken men, women and children hurying in quest of safety; the speeding ambulances, and the fire apparatus. Before the vision pass conveyances loaded with people hurrying from the city, and the razing of buildings by dynamite is clearly shown, as are the operations of the troops and the police.

Forest Park Highlands, in securing the moving pictures of the San Francisco calamity, was indeed fortunate. The pictures are wonderfully realistic. Motion photography in its highest degree of perfection is manifest in each view shown on the big screen. The tottering edifices and the ravages of the fire fiend in all its phases are graphically portrayed. The pictures will be kept on the balance of this week and next week. Commencing next Sunday matinee the Mexican National Band of 50 pieces, under the direction of Capt. F. Payen, will be the Japanese band stand attraction. In the theater as usual a complete change of program, will introduce Louise Brehany in vocalistic gems Powell, the great, in ledgerdemain and magic; Mildred Flora, high wire equilibrist; the Avon Comedy Four, and Rossi and Doherty in a comedy-novelty acrobatic act.

At Eclipse Garden the management offers for this week the great Western comedy-drama "A Gambler's Romance," with all new scenery and electrical effects. During the action of the play Mr. Stanley sings two new songs, "Two Little Boys" and "Pal of Mine." The next attraction, commencing Monday night, the Stanley Stock Co. in the comedy-drama, "The Minister."

Severe Cough—Consumption Threatened

MRS. MARY PAINTER.

Mrs. Mary Painter, who was reduced to a shadow and threatened with consumption, is restored to health and strength by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Bedridden, her husband could hardly move from backache, is also speedily cured and made as strong and sound as ever.

"It is with great pleasure I write to tell you what I think of Duffy's Malt Whiskey. I sincerely believe it is the grandest medicine ever made. I took a cough this spring and it got so bad my friends thought I had consumption. I was as thin as a skeleton, had given up, and could scarcely live, so I bought two bottles of Duffy's Malt Whiskey. As soon as I began to take it my cough lessened, so we sent for a dozen bottles, and I am now as well as ever.

"My husband and I have been taking it all summer. He was down with backache till he could hardly move, and now he is as well as anybody. I am stouter than I have been since we were married.

"Please send us another dozen bottles, as we cannot get along without it."—MRS. MARY PAINTER, Phoenix, Mo., Sept. 22, 1905.
